Paris, the Fashion Centre of the World, originates Styles for McCALL Patterns

THE greatest dressmakers of Paris create the styles shown in McCall Printed Patterns! Every season the McCall Company sends its representative to France to choose a collection of the smartest garments from the most famous houses. London Trades, Germaine Lecomte, Vionnet, Miler Soeurs and others equally noted design the fashions offered in McCall patterns.

These are the dresses which offer every woman who sews a chance to have some Paris frocks! Frocks that bear in each line the distinction native to frocks that come from the Rue de la Paix or its adjoining avenues—the little city of fashions famous the world over.

McCall Printed Patterns make the reproduction of Paris styles a fact. Because McCall Patterns are mathematically accurate in every line, because they cannot vary the fraction of an inch from the original master pattern, because all their style lines are protected by the printed cutting line and the margin of accuracy—for all these reasons it is actually possible to translate the superlative style of a Paris frock, by means of a paper pattern, into the dress that you yourself make.

McCall Patterns have all names, instructions, inside guide lines, numbered notches and cutting line clearly printed on the pattern pieces. These are the features which make them the simplest, most accurate, and most modish patterns.

FASHIONS ON THE EMERALD COAST.

DANCE FLOORS LIKE GARDENS: FURS FOR THE AUTUMN.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Saturday.

The gay life of the Côte d'Emeraude, with its wonderful wealth of flowers, dowered, according to legend, as a mark of gratitude by Sarah the Egyptian, and sung by poets throughout the centuries, is in full effervescence.

Deauville is the jewel and centre of its attraction and charm. The length of the famous planche in front of the flower terraces is animated by charming women in impeccable sports attire, in which bright colours predominate.

With their narrow-cut skirts, fitting tightly to the figure, and their short coats, showing a liberal length of stocking in the new taupe colour, and with their shady straw or small felt hats, they recall the water colours of Van Dongen, though less extravagant than the style favoured by that fashionable painter.

The Côte d'Emeraude calls for highly-keyed colours. The vivid yellows and all the warm rust and nasturtium hues strike a note of harmony with the gay Normandy landscape.

For sports we will find the gayest red in tomato, in Chinese, cherry and all the lovely pastel tints. Blues, which have shown up so well in Paris, are appearing in more definite shades of sapphire and lighter Della Robbia. The wine tints of the season have lifted into lovely tones of rose, sometimes "graying" into raspberry, and all the variations of pinkish purple that continue through the colour spectrum to orchid.

The Deauville fashions give us an indication of what will be worn in the autumn, and for this many of the smart Paris couturieres are holding their "openings" here.

Coloured Accessories.

Coloured accessories are legion, and, on sunny days at Deauville entire costumes of green, mauve, rose and China-blue enliven the streets. It is a long time since we saw anything like that. The inconsistency of fashion is once more demonstrated in the combination of stark masculine line, with soft feminine colour, giving us the anomaly of strictly tailored clothes, in hues of flowers and tender leaves.

A dance-floor this season on the Emerald coast is like a garden of animated blossoms, especially as chiffon petal frocks have retained the affection of so many slender women. Fluttering models, in pale-toned chiffons, seem to be the rage for evening wear.

One also sees them for afternoon wear, and on chilly days they are covered with kasha coats. They are usually made with long, flowing sleeves and the long flowing sleeves lined with a contrasting colour are also popular.

One very smart dress I saw at the dansant the other afternoon was of white chiffon, with long hanging wings, with the skirt caught up on one side, and a beautiful diamond buckle holding the fulness. Lace dresses are very much seen, and many are the models being prepared for the autumn season in this filmy stuff.

Odd Autumn Furs.

Odd things have been happening lately to furs. They are accustomed to be stretched, shaved, clipped, curled, or straightened, and dyed all sorts of colours. But now they have got to get used to being both bleached and painted, into the bargain.

An odd yellowish fur appears on a beige ensemble, and, being strictly "on the job," I asked what it was.

"Skungs décoloré," replied my informant, which, being interpreted, means bleached skunk.

Fur may be checked with a regular dark line, or striped until it conjures visions of beasts stranger than those of Revelations.

Sealskin, in golden brown, is much seen; it is also spotted in silvery grey. Pink and turquoise foxes and rabbits are perfectly normal. But a long-haired pelt with gilded tips with changeful pattern is a little disconcerting. So, in a different way, is the sudden encounter with the skin of a yellow alley cat.

The other day at the Potinière I saw two sisters. One was dressed in a long pale pink coat trimmed in pink fur, and her sister had one in sky blue. They wore toques to match, with beige silk stockings, and shoes of the same colour. Everybody knows these two sisters—they are the rivals of the famous "Dolly Sisters," "Les Guy Sœurs," and are just as pretty.

Foxes for Autumn.

Some of the important dressmakers—those that say they expect the tailored suit to be very smart this autumn—are supplying with these suits some interesting fox scarves.

The crossed foxes, the red foxes, and the silver foxes, which the furriers are showing, may be worn with the un-collared coats of to-day, and, later on in the autumn, when the sun quits this misty city, there is little doubt that silver foxes, red foxes, and crossed foxes will be very smart and useful.

From Paris.

A printed crêpe-de-chine afternoon dress, youthful in line, and with a box-pleated skirt and lingerie accessories. The Chinese flower pattern that covers it is done in scarlet and "naturelle" on a background.

In My Garden.

Tidying-Up the Loganberry Bushes.

DEAR AILEEN,—When you wrote to me last week of "persistent midges" you hit on my one real summer sorrow. One single midge has been known to fly a hundred miles merely for one bite of me! Hence you can imagine how really interested I was in your prevention hints.

Let me add what I find a most efficacious "cure" for the type of sting that leaves a hard swelling in its wake. Steep a small piece of lint in water, or, better still, in some disinfectant like listerine, and press the wet lint over the bitten area. As the lint dries it will adhere to the flesh and take all inflammation away. This is a particularly easy way of treating a bite which must be covered by a stocking!

I am afraid your little lecture on "woollens" fell on deaf ears, as I am an extreme advocate of cold baths, fresh air, and few clothes. Personally, I never wear woollen "undies" and I never catch colds. I must admit, of course, that silk "undies" are attractive in winter time.

In the Garden.

I have just spent an unusually busy week in the garden. The recent rains made the loganberry bushes so wild-looking that one suspected that enormous jungle animals might be hiding under their thick foliage!

I loathe the job of tidying up the logan bushes in autumn—indeed, only such an excellent fruit would be worth the trouble. The branches are so very difficult to handle without getting torn by their fine thorns. If a logan thorn remains under the skin of your finger, it is almost sure to fester. Gloves, therefore, are essential!

All old branches have to be cut right away, and some of the young shoots bent down and buried in a few inches of soil, from which they later emerge as new logan bushes. When this happens in the spring the old buried shoot can be cut off so as to make the bushes separate.

This has been an exceptionally good season for logans, and my well-stocked jam larder just reconciles me to my arduous task.

Bulb Sowing.

This week, too, I have planted cabbage, winter lettuce and spinach, and when the dusk put an end to my out-of-door activities I have switched on the light indoors and poured over bulb catalogues, and dreamed marvellous dreams, of which I will tell you when I get them boiled down to hard facts. I am really determined that my bulb-sowing will not be too late this autumn, it is so wonderful to have the spring-time flowers blooming indoors at Christmas-time.

Novel Necklaces.

The mere mention of Christmas reminds me to tell you that Dublin has a most marvellous stock of novel necklaces displayed in all kinds of shops at present. They are a wonderfully effective finish to any ensemble and can be procured in all shades. The newest thing is a regular halter composed of dozens of rows of various shades of very tiny beads, held tightly in position at the back of the neck, but falling quite loose in front.

The charm of these necklaces is that their cost is reasonable, so it is quite possible to have a necklace to match every frock. Amber is, of course, good buying, since it "goes" with everything.

I hear that bracelets are trying to push their way into popularity again. They certainly look pretty with a sleeveless frock; otherwise I have no use for them.

Game in Season.

I suppose that you, too, are suffering from an influx of presents of grouse and partridge, etc., this month. The first lot was a real treat, but the repetition of the dish seems to tire the menu card.

I have lately received a good tip for disguising left-over birds in a very appetising way. You just pound the cold, cooked flesh in a bowl, mix in the yolks of a few eggs and an ounce or two of butter, and while mixing season with chopped onion, pepper and salt, and, if you like it, nutmeg. Next stiffen up the whites of the eggs, and mix all together. Heap on to a greased souffle dish and bake in a moderate oven. I am certain that this dish will not be greeted with exasperated exclamations of "Grouse again!"

Dublin on Its Feet.

Dubliners have had so much unusual exercise during the past week that they will be wise to give a little attention to the soles and heels of their footwear. A few extra miles per day quickly wears down the leather or rubber heels, and I know of nothing which can so mar an appearance as a down-at-heel shoe.

This applies to Adam as well as Eve, and if you do not credit that a week could make a difference just take a look at the pedestrians in town.

Motor drivers' shoes quickly show signs of wear, too—theirs, in fact, quicker than the pedestrians'. Some motorists actually keep driving shoes in the car, which, if a fag, is at least economical.

Lady drivers, please do not use your ordinary gloves for driving; they always stretch on the steering wheel, which quite spoils the good fit so essential to smartness.—Yours,

MARY.

For that Tired Feeling.

Baths are the finest thing at all to drive away fatigue and tone up the system after a hard day on the tennis courts or over the golf course.

There are many delightful ways of making your baths more refreshing and enjoyable. A very refreshing bath can be prepared by the addition of a little home-made "cloudy" ammonia. The solution is quite easy to make; all that is required is the ammonia and soft soap.

One tablespoonful of soft soap must be placed in a kitchen mortar, and cold water added a few drops at a time, stirring well after addition, until the soap is in solution and the liquid is thin enough to pour. The secret in preparing cloudy ammonia is at this early stage, as care is necessary not to get the soap into lumps; therefore, the less water that is added at a time the better.

When the soap has dissolved, water may then be poured in until the solution measures five ounces, when one ounce of solution of ammonia must be added a little at a time, and the preparation well stirred.

Finally, it must be made up to one pint with water.

A refreshing bath solution, and one that is useful for a sunburnt skin, can be prepared from the juice of six lemons and three ounces of fine oatmeal.

The juice and six ounces of water must be placed in a mortar and the oatmeal dusted in (just a little at a time), giving a brisk stir after each addition. The preparation must then be transferred to a bottle and made up with water until it measures a pint. Those who like their toilet aids to look dainty can tint this one with a little rouge, and make it a pretty pink.

The rouge must be added to the oatmeal and well blended with it; the quantity necessarily will depend upon what depth of tint is desired.

A good dash of this lemon and oatmeal solution makes an ideal bath when one is hot and tired.

The holiday-maker in the country who is able to procure skim milk can have a useful sponge bath by adding an equal quantity of water to the milk and sponging the body over with the solution. It is refreshing and excellent for the skin.

When a very hot bath is to be taken the lemon juice and oatmeal solution—or, for a sponge bath, the skim milk—are best.

The cloudy ammonia and the sea salt are more suitable for just an ordinary warm one. When special solutions are added to the bath water it is best to use a plain sponge.

It is a good plan when cleaning the bedroom to have a bowl of water in which a few drops of turpentine have been added, then wring out a cloth and go over the wallpaper with it. It not only removes all dust, but makes the room more hygienic.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

LONDON STOCK MARKETS UNCERTAIN.

MONEY AND STOCKS.

ATTRACTIVE FOREIGN BONDS.

FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.

69 FLEET STREET, LONDON, Saturday.

The new account on the Stock Exchange will open on Monday under somewhat similar conditions to those which ruled during the last one. The further gold withdrawals in the interval have created a less assured feeling regarding the monetary outlook. Not only Lombard street, but evidently Throgmorton street, are kept on tenterhooks from one week to another in regard to Bank rate possibilities, as witness the relief experienced on Thursday last in the Stock Exchange when the announcement of "No change" came through. During the morning of that day markets all round the House were in a very dull mood, but in the afternoon the atmosphere was much more cheerful, although, unfortunately, business showed no sign of broadening. This latter circumstance created a good deal of disappointment following the indication of more public business in the opening days of the last account. At the same time, it causes little surprise in view of the season of the year.

THE OUTLOOK.

In the circumstances any attempt to gauge the future course of markets with any certainty is out of the question. Following the large export of gold to France and Germany last week the opinion was confidently expressed that we have at last seen the end of the shipments to the Continent. Similar views have been expressed on previous occasions when much larger quantities of the metal were taken for the same quarter. Yet the recurrence of the demand for gold last week scarcely took the City by surprise in view of the weakness of the principal exchanges. One would be on safer ground, perhaps, in hazarding the opinion that, if the Bank rate were raised, we might see the end of the outflow of gold not only to France, but also to Germany and America; but, with the present official value of money ruling and weak international exchanges, the movement might be resumed up to a point. That point would be reached when the Bank of England refused to allow its gold stock to dwindle any further. That the Bank rate has not been raised appears to indicate that the authorities have the situation well in hand, and will act if and when the necessity arises. Meanwhile, markets are kept in a state of suspense, but, in the absence of dearer money and provided more public support is forthcoming after the holidays, the course of Stock markets should be favourable.

FOREIGN BONDS.

It is possible that in the course of time more attention will be paid to foreign securities as a means of getting a bigger return than can be secured by a purchase of English investment securities. Many investors of the ultra-cautious type would have to be convinced of the security behind the loans before they could be persuaded to favour them, despite the temptation of higher yields. But there are quite a number of foreign investments, the security behind which would satisfy almost any except the most timid. It is not suggested that good English Industrial shares of investment securities should be sold in order to take up foreign bonds merely for the sake of getting a higher return on the money invested. The adage that it is not always profitable to put all one's eggs in the same basket may be applied to Stock Exchange securities. In other words, foreign bonds would appeal to investors who approve of spreading the risk, and such securities are often suitable for "mixing" purposes. It may be of interest to give a selection, and those appended are well secured. In each case the buying price is quoted, and no allowance is made for the accrued dividend on redemption:—

Stock or Bonds.	Price.	Flat yield, per cent.
Austrian 6 p.c. Guar.	101½	£5 17 8
Belgian 7 p.c. Stabilisation	108	£6 9 7
Bulgarian 7½ p.c. Stabilisation	91	£8 4 9
Greek 6 p.c.	87½	£6 17 7
Greek 7 p.c. Refugee	100½	£6 19 7
Hungarian 7½ p.c. Sterling	100¼	£7 9 2
Czechoslovakia 8 p.c. Ster., 1951	111	£7 4 0
Japan 5 p.c., 1907	86½	£5 15 9
San Paulo Coffee 7½ p.c.	106½	£7 9 2
San Paulo Waterworks 7 p.c.	103	£6 15 9
German 7 p.c. Sterling	105½	£6 12 7
Seine Dept. (France) 7 p.c.	106½	£6 11 9

SECURITY AND YIELDS.

It will be seen that the flat yields range from nearly 8¼ p.c. on the Bulgarian 7½ p.c. Stabilisation Loan to little above 5¾ p.c. on Japan 5 p.c. 1907, the return afforded on the Austrian 6 p.c. being little more than 5¾ p.c. The last-named loan is guaranteed both as to principal and interest in varying proportions by Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Sweden and Czecho-Slovakia. There is no special security behind the Belgian Stabilisation Loan, but it is a direct obligation of the Belgian Government. It has a cumulative sinking fund, and is redeemable by purchase or drawings at 105 by November, 1956. The revenues assigned to the service of the Bulgarian Stabilisation Loan, which was brought out under the auspices of the League of Nations are sufficient to cover it four times. The German Loan is a first charge on reparation payments, and on Customs, tobacco, beer, spirits and sugar revenues. The State of San Paulo Coffee Loan is a first charge on receipts from transport tax on coffee grown in and transported through the State, and in other cases the security appears to be ample to satisfy any but the most exacting.

PINCHIN JOHNSON.

The interim dividend announcement during last week made by the above company was the more interesting because of the accompanying statement that profits during the first half of the current year had been very satisfactory. As is well known, the company is one of the principal paint and varnish manufacturers, and its business of recent years has shown considerable expansion in all directions. The dividend last year on the Ordinary shares was unchanged at 30 per cent., but a capital bonus of 33⅓ per cent was distributed. The interim payment for the current financial year was the same at 10 per cent., but what the final payment will be it is impossible to say, owing to a larger amount of capital ranking as a result of the bonus issue referred to. The shares have now been split into shares of 10s. each, and are quoted round 2⅝. They are regarded as a promising holding for capital appreciation, whilst the financial position is strong. At the last annual meeting in March the chairman said that the present year opened in an encouraging fashion, with a further substantial increase of business, and confidence was expressed in the outlook for the company.

INDESTRUCTIBLE PAINT.

As its name implies, this undertaking is engaged in a similar business to that conducted by Pinchin Johnson. The company completed a deal for the acquisition of the British Empire business of the Standard Varnish Works of New York, the consideration being the issue to the latter company of 58,000 fully-paid Ordinary shares of the Indestructible Paint Company. The capital is now £250,000, having been increased to this amount by the creation of 60,000 7 per cent. Cumulative Preference shares and 90,000 Ordinary shares, the former being placed at par. Previously there was only one class of share, and the dividend on these for 1928 was increased from 10 per cent. to 12½ per cent., on which basis the £1 Ordinary shares, which are quoted round 39s., return over 6⅜ per cent. Prospects for the current year are bright. At the annual meeting in April last the chairman justified the increased dividend on the ground that profits for last year constituted a record, and he felt safe in saying that the company should have no difficulty in continuing to pay a similar, if not an increased, bonus in future. In connection with the new issue of Ordinary and Preference shares made for the acquisition of the British Empire business of the Standard Varnish Works of New York, the company expects to obtain a minimum net profit of £12,000 from the purchase, which, added to the average net profit of the Indestructible Paint Company, gives a total of £32,825, sufficient to cover the service of the present Preference shares more than seven and a half times. The Ordinary shares appear to be a desirable holding with the prospect of some appreciation in capital value.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

GOLD EXPORTS.

The usual Saturday conditions prevailed in Lombard street, loans until Monday being readily obtainable at 3½ p.c., while surplus balances were offering at lower figures. Old day-to-day money was renewed at 4 p.c., and weekly fixtures went on at 4½ p.c.

LIVERPOOL MEAT IMPORTS.

There were much heavier arrivals of various forms of fresh meat at Liverpool last week from different overseas ports in comparison with the statistics for the previous week. The number of vessels concerned was eight, the same number as in the preceding week. The names of the vessels, with particulars of their freights, were as follows:—

The Themistocles, from Brisbane, with 7,592 carcases of mutton, 2,193 bags of meat and 903 crops of fresh beef; the Montrose, from Montreal, with 260 cases of meat; the Doric, from Montreal, with 127 boxes of meat; the Demerara, from Buenos Ayres, with 16,661 carcases of mutton, 3,841 bags, boxes and cases of meat and mutton, 1,830 boxes of pork products, and 35,329 quarters of beef; the Thorpe Grange, from San Julian, with 92,258 mutton and lamb carcases; the Adriatic, from New York, with 42 boxes of meat; the Scythia, from New York, with 28 boxes of meat, and the Duchess of York, from Montreal, with 534 boxes of meat. The total arrivals amounted to 116,511 mutton and lamb carcases, 7,025 boxes, cases and bags of meat and mutton, 1,830 boxes of pork products, and 36,232 crops and quarters of beef, and, compared with the imports for the previous seven days, show increases of 35,093 mutton and lamb carcases, 3,095 bags, boxes and cases of meat, 6,787 crops and quarters of beef, and a decrease of 13 cases of pork products.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

THE OUTLOOK.

Money is the dominating factor affecting the course of the Stock markets at the moment. Rightly or wrongly, the City has refused to take alarm at the continuance of the drain of gold from the Bank of England for abroad, and for France in particular. It has been evident that the Government and the Bank are very anxious to avoid having recourse to the expedient of raising the Bank rate. Last week an impression prevailed that the acute phase of the monetary position had been passed (says The Sunday Times). Should that prove to be the case there is no very cogent reason why markets as a whole should not preserve their equanimity. Much will depend on day-to-day happenings, and events in Lombard street will be watched with the keenest attention, while at the same time the ultimate outcome of The Hague Conference is awaited not without a certain degree of anxiety. Looking at the general situation, there would appear to be greater reason for hope than pessimism, and assurance may be derived from the robust condition of the market for British Funds. For the moment the most promising departments of the House are those for Home Railway Stocks and certain Industrials, while there promises to be a continuance of bullish activity in Rhodesian and Central African base metal shares

B.A.T. AND CAPITALISATION OF RESERVES.

No reason for the increase in the capital is given by the directors of the British-American Tobacco Company in their notice calling the meeting, but certain alterations to the articles of association are proposed. As regards the capitalisation of reserves, a new article is being inserted enabling the company in general meeting at any time to pass a resolution that any sum not required for the payment or provision of any fixed preferential dividend, and for the time being standing to the credit of any reserve fund, including undivided net profits, be capitalised and appropriated as capital among the Ordinary shareholders. The new article enables the directors to apply any sum so capitalised in paying up in full any unissued shares on behalf of the Ordinary shareholders and to distribute the same among the shareholders. At 30th September last the company had reserves totalling £3,065,134, plus a carry-forward of £2,774,487. Late last year the company formed the Tobacco Securities Trust, with a capital of £5,000,000, to acquire certain investments in the associated companies of the British-American. Ordinary shareholders of the latter received a bonus of 15⅝ per cent. in Ordinary and Deferred shares of the Trust. This followed a capitalised bonus of 25 per cent. in 1926, and a similar distribution on a much smaller capital in 1920.

RHODESIAN COPPER SPECULATION.

Attention continues to be directed to the popular Rhodesian copper-mining issues. Strong buying by large American interests is known to be mainly responsible for the continued appreciation. A point of interest when dealing with this market is that on any reaction in share prices large buying orders often come through and losses are generally quickly regained. From the various development information available, it is obvious that the time will come when Rhodesia will be established as one of the richest copper-producing centres in the world, but an enormous amount of development work has yet to be carried out, and a considerable period must elapse before any idea can be arrived at as to the possible earning capacities of the many undertakings.

During the past twelve months every company of note in the Rhodesian copper industry has largely increased its issued capital, and it is of interest to compare the market valuation with the nominal issued capital of some of these companies. In the case of the Bwana M'Kubwa Copper Mining Co., the issued capital of July 22 last amounted to £2,217,711 in 5s. shares. These shares are now 28s. 9d., and therefore represent a market valuation of £12,751,842. It must also be borne in mind that there are £852,625 7½ per cent. 10-Year First Mortgage Debentures outstanding, which are convertible into fully-paid shares at par at any time until February, 1933. The 5s. shares of Loangwa Concessions (Northern Rhodesia), Ltd., are quoted at 10s., the total issued capital having a market valuation of over £2,200,000. The issued capital of the Roan Antelope is £1,139,560, but the 5s. shares at 45s. are worth £10,236,940 in the market. The issued capital of the N'Changa Copper Mines was recently increased to £900,000, the market valuation of which is £3,200,000, with the £1 shares at 3 7/16. The Rhodesian Congo Border Concession, Ltd., has an issued capital of £447,807 in £1 shares, and this is valued at £4,925,877. The market valuation of these five leading companies is therefore brought up to approximately £33,000,000.

LIPTON'S NEW CHAIRMAN.

The Financial News is officially informed that Sir James Martin has accepted an invitation to join the Board of Lipton, Ltd., and has been appointed by the directors as chairman of the company. This is news of an important character, for in it lies the germ of a big development in the wholesale and retail provision trade. Among the many responsible positions which Sir James Martin holds is that of Chairman of the Maypole Dairy Co., from which it will be appreciated that the present new appointment is significant, and full of possibilities. The Maypole Company, it will be recalled, re-arranged its board of directors early in the spring, when Sir James was elected chairman, and two directors of the Home and Colonial Stores—who had previously acquired a large interest—also joined the Maypole Board. In view of this inter-linked directorate, it is a reasonable assumption that a close working agreement—even if nothing more be contemplated—between a group of the largest multiple provision shop systems in the country is envisaged.

VALUE OF CONSERVATION.

An indication of the effect the depression in the cotton industry has had on the fortunes of the leading concerns engaged in it is given in the results achieved in the year to June 30 last by the Calico Printers' Association, Ltd. This important company has an issued capital of £5,026,840, of which £3,016,104 is in 5 per cent. Cumulative Preference shares. Profits in the year under consideration fell from £421,316 in the previous year to £140,174, not quite sufficient to pay the Preference dividend. The shareholders are fortunate, however, in having had a conservative Board in charge of their affairs (writes The Observer). Substantial reserves have been accumulated, including a dividend equalisation reserve, while the carry-forward from the previous year was the substantial one of £172,704. The directors have, therefore, felt justified, despite the fall in profits, in distributing a dividend of 5 per cent. on the Ordinary capital, which compares with the 7½ per cent. paid in the three previous years. It may also be fairly surmised, considering the conservative character of the Board, that its members view the future with some confidence. The Ordinary shares, which reacted to 21s. on the announcement, have improved to 22s. 6d.

NEW CHAIRMAN OF LIPTONS.

Sir James Martin has accepted an invitation to join the Board of Lipton Limited, and has been appointed by the directors, Chairman of the company.

No. 2 white flat, also No. 8 yellow round, African September-October 36/9 per 480lbs.

LIVERPOOL—WHEAT—American and Argentine markets finished better than expected, and forward deliveries of wheat here showed a fair improvement at the outset, but a loss of confidence was afterwards displayed, prompted by bearish world's visible supply figures and lower Argentine freights, which brought about heavy liquidations, final rates marking a liberal decline from Friday night and representing the lowest point. C.i.f. parcels wheat entirely neglected and prices nominally unchanged. C.i.f. parcels MAIZE River Plate unchanged: August-September sold at 36/1½, September-October 36/3 per qr. Wheat on the spot favours buyers. Maize spot parcels quiet at 8/1 per cental for River Plate. FLOUR quiet and officially unchanged. Graded wheat futures opened ½d. per cental dearer, but offerings were soon afterwards made freely and prices gradually gave way, with slight interruption, the market in the end being weak at 1d. to 1½d. under Friday night. Sales 200 loads at 9/10½, 9/9½, 9/9¼ and 9/9 for October, 10/1½, 10/1¼, 10/1⅛ and 10/0¾ December, and 10/6¼ down to 10/4½ for March delivery. Values—October-December 9/9, December 10/0¼, March 10/4½ per cental.

PROVISIONS.

LIVERPOOL.—BACON—Continental meets a fair demand, especially Danish, and Irish rules steady, but American remains quiet, though no quotable change made in values of any description. HAMS and shoulders attract little attention, but late prices are repeated. LARD on the spot held for 6d. to 1/- per cwt. advance owing to higher c.i.f. quotations; prime steam raised to 64/- to 65/- and American refined 64/3 to 66/3 per cwt., but the demand generally is of only a moderate character. CHEESE steady and in fair request at recent full prices. BUTTER firm and fairly active at late rates, the demand running chiefly on Danish and Irish. MISCELLANEOUS.

LIVERPOOL COTTON.—There was a fair demand for American, with quotations 4 points higher. Brazilian quiet, although prices are raised 4 points. Egyptians quiet. Sakellaridis quotations are reduced 5 points, with the exception of "extra fine." There was a good business in East Indian and quotations are 5 points higher. Sales totalled 6,000 bales.

LEICESTER WOOL.—Comparatively speaking, the hosiery trade is fair; it might be a good deal better, but the inquiries for autumn and winter goods have improved during the past week and the current output in sports and ordinary goods is up to the average. There is a reasonable shipping trade. No change is to be noted in raw materials. Yarns are moving rather better.

HIDES AND LEATHER.

(SPECIAL REPORT).

The week's trading has been moderate, but the tone remains steady, while at the auctions at Bermondsey on last Thursday the firmer tone established last week was maintained. First cows heavy are unaltered at 6½d., while seconds are ½d. dearer at 5½d. First ox are ½d. higher at 7½d., and seconds also ½d. up at 6½d. for heavy. Second calf heavy are ½d. higher at 7½d., while first are unaltered at 8½d. There is only a small business passing for imported descriptions. Capes have made up to 11½d. per lb. for heavy drys and drysalted firsts up to 9½d. Light-weight Mombasas have sold up to 9½d., and dry Nigerians up to 10d. Only a moderate inquiry comes forward in the leather division, most of the interest even there being in the repairing classes. Upper leathers remain quiet, the market not having resumed a normal appearance since the recent holidays.

GARDEN, FARM, BEES, ETC.

SPINNACH.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Gardening Correspondent says:—

Spinnach has been from time to time very highly recommended by the medical profession, and another sowing of this useful vegetable should now be made. The soil should be well dug and enriched with well-rotted manure and soot. The thinning for winter crop need not be quite as severe as during the summer months, six inches apart being sufficient for the final thinning of the August sowing. Other sowings can be made up to the second week in October if a warm south border is available. It is useful to always have a bed of Perpetual Spinnach, as this is very useful, and especially so during severe weather, which the summer Spinnach will not survive.

POULTRY, CAGE BIRDS, DAIRY.

SEASONABLE HINTS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says:—

Cockerels are plentiful just now and many people glad to get rid of them. Don't on any account let them run with the pullets. If they are good, pure-bred birds, advertise them, and put a price on them that will be an inducement to buy. Remember at this time of the year there are so many to be disposed of that a prohibitive price will leave you without a sale. If you have a large number, and that some of them are valuable birds, keep the best till spring, when you will have a better chance to sell for breeding pens. Clear out all that are not worth keeping. Give them a few weeks in the fattening pen, and you may get a fairly good price, but do not keep those that are to be sold for killing longer than four months old, as they then grow leggy and thin, and cannot be properly fattened till they are seven or eight months.

THE BROKEN STAIR.

A HOUSE OF OLDEN TIMES.

WHAT THE STABLEBOY BURNT.

(By "A. B.")

"'TIS in the top front the Hallorans is now, ma'am; they had a swop with Mike Connor and the wife, and they're paying thruppence a week less now, and herself was saying she'd dry the bit of washing handier from the top window, and her man had no fault to find with the stairs; but you know yourself, ma'am, 'tisn't too aisy to be minding the broken stair when you're after having a sup of drink taken, and poor Mike—I don't like to be talking—but he hasn't the best of sense when he's sober, let alone of a Saturday night, so they just med a swop of it, and you'll find Bridie Halloran above on the minute, if yourself isn't in dread of the broken stair!"

All this came in a breathless torrent in reply to my query as to the whereabouts of the Hallorans. The speaker, a small, stout, middle-aged woman, with long-lashed, grey-blue eyes and a very loquacious mouth, flung the end of her tattered shawl across her left shoulder with the air of a tragedy queen, and hitching herself and her backetful of "Dublin Bay Herrin's" against the door-post, continued to scream out warnings and advice as I mounted the rickety steps, and soon found myself facing "the broken stair."

Well, it was not nice, and might have been designed as a trap for unwelcome visitors. Just half-way up the second flight one tread was entirely missing, while the step below was broken right through the centre, and only afforded foot-hold at each side. Very probably, Mike Connor thought some Dutch courage was needed before trying to negotiate it in the dark. However, it had to be crossed, and once in cheery Mrs. Halloran's room there were other interests to occupy both visitor and hostess. But all through her humorously-told tale of their move "up higher," one phrase kept echoing and repeating in my brain with strange insistence, awakening long-forgotten memories, and, as I cautiously descended to the street, old recollections were linking themselves together in a vivid mental picture of another "broken stair."

THE OLD HOUSE.

Away in a southern county is a quaint old house, now delapidated and deserted, but once bowered in roses and old-fashioned climbing plants, that flung sweet perfumed wreaths round the deep-set, narrow windows with which the low, two-storied building was perforated. A Dutch garden, with gay flower-beds, and high-clipped, beech hedges, and arbours formed out of venerable yew trees spread itself in front, and beyond was an orchard, famed long ago for its plenteous and luscious harvest of apples. Its southern boundary was a rapid mountain stream that merged itself in the slower current of a broad, deep river a few hundred yards further on; a slight eminence on the opposite bank was crowned by a Danish moat which local tradition claimed as the last habitation of the "Good People" in Ireland. The whole place seemed to fit in with the ghostly stories and fairy tales handed down from one generation to another by the neighbouring cottagers, while the old house and its sweet-scented gardens formed a Paradise for some children, whose visits there were amongst the happiest events of their early years.

To them the house was a perpetual joy; it excited their curiosity, it stimulated their imaginations. The panelled hall, the creaking old staircase, with quaint corner cupboards on each landing, filled with old china and curios from many lands; the stores of wonderful old costumes, which, on wet days, were occasionally requisitioned for "dressing-up" purposes; but the greatest interest of all was contained in some mysterious windows in the second storey, the shutters of which were never opened, the sashes never raised. There was something forbidding, and yet fascinating, about them. There was no limit to the possibilities, pleasant or horrible, that might lurk behind the blank, unresponsive panes, and youthful imaginations needed little encouragement to invest them with awe-inspiring importance.

SHUT DOORS.

One memorable Hallows' Eve the children were taken to see the kitchen; a wonderful place, with golden-brown hams and great flitches of bacon hanging from the ceiling, picturesque blue and white china filling the large dressers, and glittering utensils of brass and copper keeping one another company on the amber-coloured walls. The preparations for the domestics' amusements, the tub of water with apples floating in tempting array, the plates of hazel nuts ready for burnings, and the various old-time fate tests, all delighted the children as they ranged round the spacious, lofty kitchen; examining everything with keenest interest, till suddenly they were struck dumb by an extraordinary sight which met their startled gaze in a far corner, that was thrown into somewhat deep shadow by the fitful fire light and a couple of candles. There, for apparently no reason, were some three or four steps, with a broken handrail and bannisters, literally hanging out of the wall, about six feet from the floor!

There was something horribly creepy about that little staircase dangling in mid-air, and the children, seized with a nervous panic, hesitated to put their queries into words. Suddenly, the cook's cheery voice broke in on their bewilderment. "What are ye staring at, children? Is it in dread of anything, ye are? Glory be to Heaven, there's nothing to frighten annyone here. Oh! that; sure, that's only the broken stair; yes, indeed, there's a room, maybe two or three, inside there. Ye can't rightly see the door, 'tis coloured the same as the walls this good while back. An' how could I tell ye, no, nor no one else neither, what's inside of 'em. Sure, the mistress herself don't know at all at all, an' how could she, God bless her, an' she lifted from her bed to her chair, an' her chair to her bed, this many a year; but, can't ye ask her yerselves anyhow?"

Quickly the youthful detectives set to work, but no amount of adroit questioning brought them any nearer the solution of the broken stair.

OPEN WINDOWS.

It was easy enough to surmise some connection between the jealously-shuttered windows in the front of the house, and the derelict staircase, surmounted by the almost invisible door; but no corroborative information was ever forthcoming, so fertile little brains set to work to invest the mystery with fitting romance. The possibilities of hidden treasures were discussed in secret conclave, and, by degrees, El Dorado itself could never have been fabled to contain such riches as were, without doubt, concealed within those rooms of mystery. Every local legend strengthened their belief. Why should not all the stolen jewels and the giants' hoard be one day brought to light when the door of the forgotten chamber should be opened to the eager explorers? Again and again those children sought to gain admission, but the sweet-smelling monthly roses afforded too frail a foothold for those who tried to climb to the windows, while an omniscient guardian in the person of the cook, who declared her heart "was scalded with such goings on," successfully frustrated any attempts on the door at the top of the broken stair.

Years passed on, and the children, older and wiser, scattered into many lands, but, somehow, the memory of the broken stair remained undimmed. One day one of them found her way back to the old white house. Change had been busy there; the kindly old owner had long been laid to rest, the Dutch garden was choked with weeds, the yew trees had grown grotesquely out of their trim shapes, the house was rapidly falling into decay; few and feeble were the blossoms on the lichen-covered boughs of the climbing roses; but, mirabile dictu, the windows of the mysterious rooms were unshuttered and open!

THE BONFIRE.

Back with a rush came all the memories and hopes of childhood. It took but a minute to penetrate the kitchen precincts, and there was another surprise! A neat, white staircase, leading to a white door high up on the wall, had replaced the "broken stair." "Yes, then, indeed," said the old caretaker, "twasn't too soon they had them places opened up, the rats was congregating there terrible. No one was ever inside of them since the old mistress's grandfather died, and that's better nor a hundred years ago. What was in them? Well, then, I'll tell you; nothing but rubbish. There was three men and young Patsy for the best part of three days carting it all out to the barn. What sort of rubbish? Don't be talking, there was every sort, but mostly papers; there was a power of old newspapers, and there was barrowfuls of books, not regular books, but books all wrote by hand; the quality hadn't much to be doing in those days, an' they used to be writing down everything they'd see an' hear every day; 'twas only rubbish, I tell you. Some of the boys in the yard took away some of the books, but the writing was that bad they couldn't rightly make it out. When were the rooms cleaned out? Sure, only a couple of months ago. Fogarty's second boy, he's minding the place now, he'll show you every thing was in it, but there was only rubbish, mind what I'm telling you."

Fogarty's second boy was one of the slow, ruminating Irishmen; very sparing of words, and distrustful alike of questions and questioners. Certainly, he had moved the papers, 'twas his business, and no one else's. The place couldn't he repaired while they were there. The old woman was quite right, he had put them in the barn. No, it was quite impossible for anyone to see the papers; no one had any right to them, saving those that was dead and gone. Anyone was welcome to write to the agent to get leave to look through them, "but," getting more emphatic, "'twould be all no use, they won't get to see them. If the Lord Liftinant was set on it he'd not get a sight of them! Why? Why, indeed? Because I burned the whole lot of them a week ago! The boys made a grand fire of them on St. John's Eve, and 'twas a fine blaze they made, too; there was a power of sealing wax on some of the papers was in amongst the books. 'Twas the best thing to do with them; sure, they were nothing but rubbish!"

Going Home.

We were rather petulant and a trifle cross when the 'bus drew up. We made a rush at the door, and were rather hurt at the slow exit made by incoming passengers. Then a bright notion struck somebody, and a few of us got in at the back by the emergency door. That 'bus was somewhat stuffed and stuffy when it set out; when, by a sort of magic, every-one became cheerful. Those with seats offered knees to people standing; good natured chaff passed to and fro', while the sweat poured out on our brows. "Anybody in the back for X." A small man tunnelled his way out. On we went. A happy soul struck up "God Save Ireland"; we sang and sweated and laughed, and took the canal bumps as though we were in Manhattan. We did not feel the journey till the terminus was reached. It is wonderful how a cheeriness of heart will dissipate any amount of physical discomfort. Old and young, women and men, I believe we got off that 'bus with regret.

A Popular Actor.

The dinner arranged in honour of Sir Frank Benson in London yesterday must be counted among the outstanding events in theatrical history. All old Bensonians—and what a brilliant company they are!—were invited to attend the function, and all within travelling distance were present to pay homage to their old chief.

SIR. F. BENSON.

Many of the leading actors and actresses of the day received their early training in the profession while holding junior parts in Sir Frank Benson's company, and there came to mind at once such favourites as Henry Ainley (who has just returned to the stage after a prolonged illness), Matheson Lang, Oscar Asche and Lilian Braithwaite.

Sir Frank's life-work has been principally devoted to popularising Shakespearean plays, and, although his success, is now complete and unquestioned, he had to pass through many dark days and bitter struggles before he reached his desired ends. He is now past the allotted span of life, and this week-end banquet has been organised on the eve of his embarking on a farewell tour. He is, however, in splendid health, and his friends will hope with some confidence that he will yet "walk the boards" for many years to come.

Several Irish actors and actresses attended the Bensonian dinner, and Mr. Conal O'Riordan is one who took a big interest in the affair.

A Strange Sight.

It was early morning, and the street empty. I walked it, swinging my stick, when my eye was caught by something unexpected upon a window sill over a basement area. There sat, face to face, a small, thin cat with a nap-worn pelt and a well-proportioned rat. The window was shut behind them, its spance was small for a fight, and they eyed one another warily. I could see the slight movement of alert muscles. It seemed to me that they were ill-matched, and I had no desire that the rat should escape, so I began to consider how I could distract the attention of the rat without alarming the cat in such a way as to prevent her spring. I was still wondering when a terrier emerged from nowhere in particular, and began to interest himself in my trousers. In a moment, however, he realised that something was up, and he transferred his eyes from gazing on my legs to follow my line of vision. Cleverer than I, he noticed that the rat's back was towards the stone steps leading to a front door. On to these he sped, and set up a great barking. The cat had sensed him, but the rat shifted attention to the fresh enemy, and pussy sprang. She was not quick enough to get him, and he, with a leap of despair, got through the railings and across the road, with the dog in hot, but vain, pursuit. Whereupon, the cat, with angry eyes, fell to her ablutions. But what would have happened if they had remained on the window sill till someone opened the window? I suspect that that dog rescued some maid from the shock of her life.

"Journalese."

To taste the full flavour of American "journalese" one must read papers devoted to things cinematographic. The style is vivid and vigorous, but the metaphors are distinctly mixed, as, for example:—"No matter how the cards were shuffled, the aces, the kings and queens were in the deck. The jacks and deuces, too. Then a Black Knight appeared at the jousting to cast his gauntlet into the arena." Or "To Arms! To arms! They come! The Greek! . . . And Carthage was destroyed." While alliteration goes to such lengths as:—"And with the pioneers must go the pets of pictureland—plucked peacocks." To understand the jargon of the studios would require a complete glossary. As an English actress complained: "Even beef isn't what it seems. Someone yells, 'Beef on the piano,' and five or six husky stage hands pick up the baby grand and move it half-way across the studio lot."

A Meal-Time Story.

Some friends of mine who have just returned from a visit to a seaside resort in Northern Ireland told me a rather good story to-day. Some time after their arrival a Scots woman came to the same house, and, wishing to send word to her people at home, she asked the servant the "hours of the mails." The domestic informed her that she would find a printed card in the hall with the necessary information. Judge of the visitor's astonishment when she found a card entitled: "Hours for Meals." Whose pronunciation was to blame?

The Policeman's Lot.

I was amused the other morning by witnessing the activities of two stalwart policemen "in the execution of their duty." When I observed them first they were leaning against the railings of an empty house, in the basement of which a cat had been left stranded, and they, apparently, contemplated the rescue of the animal. Now two policemen gazing into an area is a sight pregnant with possibilities; crowds have collected in Dublin for far less. Soon the entire floating population of the street, consisting chiefly of messenger boys, had gathered in the vicinity, and two of them were despatched, one returning, with a ladder and the other with a sack. I expected to see a "limb of the law" scaling the railings in his noble work of rescue, but instead the smallest boy present was lowered down, the sack thrown after him, and, after some struggling in the basement, he was hauled up triumphant. The cat in the sack was promptly handed to a lad, who bore it away to some unknown destination, the ladder was carried away by another youth, and the policemen, brushing the dust of their arduous morning's work from their hands, resumed their beats with measured tread.

Bray Head.

A correspondent writes:—I noticed with interest in the "Diary" recently a paragraph on Wales viewed from Ireland, with Bray Head as the observation post. Since Bray Head has exceedingly steep and rocky sides, many people, especially those of advanced years, are satisfied to remain on the grassy slopes at the foot, and so miss the glorious view obtainable from the summit. Quite recently, however, I discovered an ascent which is both an easy and pleasant walk, with a gradually sloping hill up to the top, instead of the rough and trying climb which is the ordinary route.

Within a mile from Bray town lies the Kilruddery Estate, and directly opposite the imposing gateway of Lord Ardee's residence there is an entrance to Bray Head. Passing through the black gates one walks along a gently-sloping path through fragrant-scented woods, which give way to pasture lands as one nears the summit. These, in their turn, are supplanted by pine trees, and from the path above one obtains a superb view without the necessity of climbing the final rocky peaks. Those who have willing spirits, but weak hearts, may welcome this easy way of climbing the Head before the summer leaves us.

With Irish Connections.

My colleague at Malvern writes:—A few days ago I had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Howell Davies, who is a prominent member of the Birmingham Repertory Theatre Company, and one of the actors chosen to appear in "Back to Methuselah" at the Shaw Festival in Malvern. Part of his military service during the war was done in the Marlborough Barracks in Dublin, and while there he became intensely interested in the work of the Abbey Theatre, of which he speaks with enthusiasm.

MR. H. DAVIES.

Upon demobolisation Mr. Davies toured in a series of one-act plays for a few years, after which he joined Mr. Matheson Lang's Company in "The Tyrant." Since 1924 he has been associated with the Birmingham Repertory Theatre, playing such parts as Doolittle in "Pygmalion," Hornblower in "The Skin Game," and Corny Doyle in "John Bull's Other Island," under the direction of W. G. Fay. In addition he has done much producing work in the English Midlands for amateur societies, womens' institutes and clubs, and has directed several civic pageants for Midland cities. For this work he seems to be in great demand, and he has at present two pageants in hand.

His association with Dublin and Ireland was strengthened by his marriage with a cousin of Mr. William O'Brien, the well-known Irish Labour leader, and Secretary of the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union. His wife is in Dublin at present, and Mr. Davies himself plans to visit the city in the immediate future. He is seeking a play for children for Christmas production in Birmingham, and I was pleased to be able to direct his attention to Lady Gregory's delightful children's play, "The Golden Apple."

As the Horse Flies.

A story which reaches me from South Africa about the earlier exploits of a gentleman who is now a member of the Free State Civil Service, is too good to keep back from readers of The Diary. When acting some years ago as inspector of mining operations, his duties involved visits to two pitheads which lay fairly near each other, but a large river, then in spate and quite unfordable even for a skilled horseman, involved a very considerable detour. His official expense account included the cost of a journey of over a hundred miles. In reply it was pointed out, by an official who took his information from a map, that the mines were only seven miles apart "as the crow flies," and an explanation demanded. The Irishman's reply, I am told, reached the highest official circles, and is still preserved among the most treasured official archives—and I do not wonder. It ran—"I rode a horse; not a —— crow!" I wonder if the name of the official who penned that reply could be guessed by certain members of the hierarchy in Government Buildings? His friends tell me that changes of climate and the passage of years have done little to change his official style!

Brighter Garages.

An English newspaper has offered a substantial prize to the most artistic Petrol Service Station, and one feels sure that will have a most beneficial effect upon some of the crudely hideous arrays of petrol pumps of every hue in that country.

Were such a prize to be offered for the stations in and about Dublin the task of awarding it would be an easy one, for most people would agree that one such station is in a class all to itself. Between the city and Stillorgan, on the newly developed Mount Merrion estate, a garage has been built recently that combines usefulness and ornamentation in a manner most unusual in Ireland; and the passing motorist glances gratefully at the pretty place and possibly registers a vow to call there when next he is in need of "gas."

There are flowers and the effect of old courtyard buildings; there is a quaint sign, and there is a clock; and if the clock does go a bit slow it only adds to the old-world atmosphere.

Mr. Snowden's Triumph.

Whatever the actual result of the delicate negotiations now proceeding at The Hague in regard to the Debt percentages, there can be no doubt that Mr. Philip Snowden has enormously increased his prestige as a statesman, and that he will now take his place among the financial European diplomats of the day.

MR. P. SNOWDEN.

Mr. Snowden became a politician through fortuitous circumstances. He was born in a little village in the West Riding of Yorkshire, and it is recorded that his first political speech was one made to some factory workers when he was only nine years of age, and while he stood on the wall surrounding the mill.

In his early years he held strong Liberal views, but when he was twenty-nine years of age he met with a cycling accident, which was, by its effect, to change his political outlook. Seriously injured, he was confined to bed for many weeks suffering great pain, and during his long convalescence he found much solace in reading books by Carlyle and Ruskin. These writers drew him towards Socialism, and later studies confirmed him in his views.

In 1906 he was elected member of Parliament for Blackburn, which he represented up to 1918. Since 1922 he has been the Member for the Colne Valley Division of Yorkshire. He is a man of ready speech and strong convictions, and especially on financial questions he has been one of the foremost speakers in the House of Commons during the last twenty years.

An Irritating Imposition.

During the past few months I have gone to Kingstown several times either to meet friends or to wish them bon voyage, and on each occasion I have paid threepence for the privilege of doing so. Altogether I have parted with quite a number of shillings so that I might purchase permission to go on the Carlisle Pier when the Mail Boat was arriving or sailing.

The idea behind this charge of threepence for admission to the Carlisle Pier is, I was told, the prevention of congestion on the platforms, but anyone who has been on the pier this summer knows what a miserable failure the scheme has been. The charge does not, and never will, deter folk from using the pier for the first greeting or the last farewell. What it does do is to irritate people who object to a restriction that serves no useful purpose.

The proceeds from the charge must be considerable and the scheme should be profitable, as there is little expense attached to it. But the retention of the imposition is not warranted, in view of the wretched accommodation for passengers and others provided on the pier. On the other hand, if the amenities of the pier were improved, there would be some justification for asking the public to contribute to the expenditure.

Chaotic Conditions.

The congestion on the Carlisle Pier when the Mail Boat discharges her passengers is dreadful. Between the train and the Customs barrier there is left a passage about twelve feet wide, and into this is packed a heaving crowd of weary travellers, who are endeavouring to find out which is the right carriage to enter. The confusion is increased by the trucks piled with luggage and mails that are pushed along the platform by the porters. It is really marvellous that some child has not been crushed to death by the wheels of these heavy trucks.

It is useless to lay the blame for the congestion at the feet of the comparatively few people who are meeting their friends. That seems to me to be a very poor excuse for a state of affairs that is due to the inability of the authorities to move with the times. The fault lies in the fact that the pier was never intended for the work that is now done on it.

To Meet a Need.

The sooner the authorities realise that the Carlisle Pier is out-of-date, the better. The platform on the arrival side should be at least twice as wide as it is at present, and the facilities for examination of the passengers' luggage require to be enlarged, so that those waiting at the tables are not in the way of persons trying to get to the train.

I would suggest that if it is intended to continue the charge for admission to the pier, the money that is collected should be devoted to the improvement of the landing stage, so as to bring it up to the standard that might be expected in a progressive country.

QUIDNUNC.

A COMEDY BUILT ON FUTILITY.

SHAW'S "HEARTBREAK HOUSE."

FINE PERFORMANCE AT MALVERN.

FROM OUR SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVE.
MALVERN, Sunday.

It is surprising that "Heartbreak House" has not yet been staged in Dublin. During the past nine years it has been played from time to time in many American cities, and in London and Birmingham. First staged in New York in 1920 by the Theatre Guild, it was played at the Court Theatre, London, by J. B. Fagan's Company in 1921, and since 1923 has been played occasionally by the Birmingham Repertory Theatre in Birmingham and elsewhere.

If "Heartbreak House" were an unusually difficult play to stage its absence from the list of Dublin productions would not be so hard to account for, but it is not unusually difficult to stage, and many more difficult plays have been attempted. Of course, it requires very fine acting if it is to be given its full value, but the difficulty of securing the best acting has not deterred Dublin producers from attempting all kinds of plays, ranging from extremities of expressionism to the dreariest of realism. In many cities where Tchechov's "The Cherry Orchard" could be played to appreciative audiences this play of Shaw's, "In the Russian Manner," would be likely to find appreciation.

A STUDY OF FUTILITY.

Superficially "Heartbreak House" is sheer comedy from first to last, and last night's audience in the Malvern Theatre laughed incontinently throughout its three acts. But behind the comedy and the laughter is a study of futility the equal of which has never hitherto been presented by an English-speaking dramatist. Russian dramatists have presented it so powerfully that play-goers might be excused if they believed futility to be a quality peculiar to Russians. Gogol, Turgeniev, Tolstoy, Tchechov, Andriev and Gorky have made a speciality of futility, but it may be found no less well presented by Ibsen in "The Wild Duck," and it is not entirely absent from many of the people in Galsworthy and Barrie plays. But it is most faithfully and most fully presented, in so far as England and English people are concerned, in this really great play, "Heartbreak House." Ten people are shown in varying stages of footling futility; nine of them are old or middleaged, and only one, the girl, Ellie Dunn, is very young. And very significant it is that only the young girl, and towards the end the very old man show signs of rational intelligence and sincere emotion.

The entire action centres about the house and garden of Captain Shotover, who had married a negress in the West Indies, and "sold his soul to the devil in Zanzibar." His two fascinating daughters had married, one a "numbskull," who had been Governor of all the Crown colonies in succession; and the other a philanderer, who wore his moustache "like a bronze candlestick," in the manner of Germany's ex-Emperor.

UNFAMILIAR SURROUNDINGS.

When the curtain rises, the girl, Ellie Dunn, is found on a visit to Mrs. Hushabye, the wife of the imperious philanderer, and she is bewildered by the unfamiliarity of her surroundings. The captain's house resembles a ship in architecture and discipline, and all are at liberty to come and go as, and when, they please. Falt Shotover himself is an inventor now in search of concentration, who criticises his family and surroundings mercilessly. Parental affection lasts for about six years, he believes, and should not be relied upon for a longer period, as when Lady Utterword, his daughter, appears, after an absence of twenty-three years, he refuses to know her He insists that Ellie Sunn is the daughter of a boatswain, who had robbed him, and when Mazzini Dunn, "born soldier of freedom," appears he is treated as a robber and called a pirate.

The real pirate is the captain of industry, Boss Mangan, a financier, whose business it is to gain control of industrial organisations when other people had demonstrated their worth and then gone into bankruptcy. Randal Utterword, Lady Utterword's brother-in-law, a "Foreign Office swell," is so devoted to her ladyship that he must follow her everywhere like a pet dog. Finally there are the burglar, whose art consists in getting caught, and when his victims refuse to hand him to the police he collects as much cash as possible before he departs; and the old Nurse Guinness, who reared the captain's children and was wife to the burglar identified as Billy Dunn who had robbed the captain. Hector Hushabye, the philanderer husband of Captain Shotover's second daughter, had met and enthralled Ellie Dunn under another name; had fascinated her with tales of adventure, and her love romance was shattered when she discovered that he was not only the husband of her friend, but a practised liar. Ellie had made up her mind to marry Mangan for his money while loving Hector for himself.

ALL LOVE-MAKING.

The second act finds all these people making more or less indiscriminate love to one another. There was nothing else to do. Mangan falls in love with Mrs. Hushabye, and she with Mazzini Dunn; Lady Utterword flirts with Hector and with Randal, and Ellie sets out to discover the old man's secret — which is rum. Mangan is hypnotised by Ellie, but, nevertheless, hears a very frank discussion of himself, which enrages him, and the discovery of the burglar relieves the tension.

In the third act, in the garden, the futile discussion continues. Lady Utterword reclines in a hammock, and talks about "the best people," whose activities revolve about their stables. All have had their hearts broken or injured, to a greater or less degree, and all proclaim unwittingly the destructiveness or futility which actuates their lives. They are shocked by Ellie Dunn's announcement that she will not marry Mangan, as she had become in spirit the captain's white wife, and then by an air raid which scatters bombs about the garden, killing the burglar. The two "men of action" are destroyed, while the social leeches are all spared.

But all are leeches in one way or another when they are not actively destructive, and it is this portrayal of the utter worthlessness even of the apparently useful, that is the purpose of "Heartbreak House." Hearts are broken because they have no uses in the social scheme, and only the air raid galvanises this selected section of upper-class England into some kind of reality. They will be different in the future, but maybe not any more useful.

The acting all round was brilliant, and this was easily the best performance of the Festival. The Captain Shotover of Mr. Cedric Hardwicke was sheer joy from first to last, making the inconsequential comings and goings of the weird old man convey the entire significance of the play. He was ably seconded by Mr. Scott Sunderland as Hector Hushabye, the Sheik philanderer, whose performance was convincing and impressive. The Mazzini Dunn of Mr. Wallace Everett brought to mind those English Liberals of last century, who sympathised with revolt everywrere, but in themselves. Of the ladies Eileen Beldon's Ellie Dunn most impressed, because of her entire sincerity. Miss Edith Evans did not so much act the part of Lady Utterword as live it, and Miss Margaret Chatwin's Mrs. Hushabye recalled the fact that she is versatile as she is capable.

The production and settings were all that audiences have come to expect from Messrs. Ayliff and Hetwig.

URBAN AND RURAL DEVELOPMENT.

Limerick Show Revival : Waterford Exhibition : Tipperary Coalfields : School Cleaning Scandal : Hardships on the Children : County Health Scheme.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
CORK, Sunday.

IT has been a long-standing grievance with public bodies in Cork County, as well as with other institutions, that candidates for public posts in the gift of the Appointments' Commissioners should have to proceed to Dublin for the necessary interviews.

Time and again the hardship which this procedure causes to people who have experienced three or four unsuccessful journeys to the capital has been condemned, and it is consequently a matter of some importance that the need for half-a-dozen or a dozen candidates travelling to Dublin to justify application for a solitary appointment may shortly cease to exist.

Mr. John Daly, T.D., told the members at a recent meeting of the North Cork Board of Health that he had waited on the Department and had urged that the repeated requests should be granted, that sittings of the Commissioners should be held in Cork in connection with local appointments. He added that he had reason to believe he had been successful, and that such sittings would in future take place in Cork.

A TIPPERARY COALFIELD.

A very important industry may be opened up in County Tipperary at an early date if the negotiations at present in progress between Mr. P. Morris, a member of the Tipperary County Council, and the Rarlan Colliery Co., Ltd., London, prove fruitful. The latter company is acting on behalf of an important group of colliery owners with a view to acquiring the Slieveardagh coalfield, which has an estimated content of fifty million tons of anthracite coal.

It is stated that Mr. D. Morrissey, T.D., has an assurance from Mr. McGilligan, Minister for Industry and Commerce, that a mining bill will be introduced in the near future into the Dail.

If this bill becomes law it is likely to prove of no small importance to the Slieveardagh district, for it is known that a representative of an American syndicate is awaiting the passage of a mining bill before investigating the possibilities of Slieveardagh and also of the Silvermines district of North Tipperary.

A SUCCESSFUL REVIVAL.

After a lapse of fifteen years the Limerick Horse and Agricultural Show has been revived and the two-days fixture held during the week leaves no room for doubt that the show will take its place as one of the most important in the provinces. There were numerous entries, the quality was good, the competition in all sections very keen, and the gate receipts broke all previous "records" on both days.

Most attention was claimed by the horses, and rarely, indeed, have a more attractive lot been on view in the South, the quality of the animals in almost all classes being remarkable even for County Limerick. The cattle were not far behind, the general standard being extremely satisfactory.

Some doubts had been entertained as to the success of the poultry section, but the pessimists were confounded, for, in the words of the judge, this department was "a wonderful success." The entries were large, and the quality very good indeed.

The very fine attendance on both days—and the second day's crowd was even larger than the first—is all the more noteworthy considering the gloomy weather and occasional showers. With the revived fixture proving such a brilliant success, the prospects are bright indeed for the future operations of the Limerick Show Society, under the able guidance of its President, the Earl of Dunraven.

CELTIC'S USEFUL LAST DAYS.

The task of breaking up the White Star liner Celtic, which has been lying on the rocks off Roche's Point, at the entrance to Cork Harbour, since last December, is now well under way.

Up to a couple of weeks ago the appearance of the Celtic, if one excepts the fading of the paintwork, presented but little difference from that of a liner lying at anchor—a frequent sight in Cork Harbour. Now, however, with funnels gone, davits empty and masts removed, she has assumed all the aspect of a wreck.

The liner's days of usefulness are not quite ended, however; for the very necessity of destroying what remains of her has created extensive employment in a district that badly needed it. Large quantities of material are being daily brought in from the wreck to Haulbowline for temporary storage there, and if the weather is favourable the hull should be ready for floating up the harbour to the dock at Haulbowline by the end of October.

Before the hull can be got into the Haulbowline basin it will be necessary to remove the sunken steamer Alison, which has been lying just outside the entrance since last October, and this work will add to the large amount of employment which the Celtic is now providing.

Besides the large sum of money paid weekly to local workmen, the breaking-up of the Celtic is putting a considerable amount in circulation in Queenstown in connection with the purchase of materials required, and I hear that a local firm has succeeded in getting the contract for supplying the large number of barrels that will be used in the endeavour to float the liner's hull off the rocks.

WATERFORD EXHIBITION.

It is not so very long since the project to hold an Industrial Exhibition in Waterford was mooted, but already circulars have gone out to every trader in the city inviting them to take part. The dates have been decided on—15th, 16th, 17th and 18th October—and the exhibition will be housed in the Waterford City Hall.

Many well-known Southern manufacturers have been asked to give their support, and the response so far has been entirely satisfactory. Special arrangements are being made with the Waterford Gas Company and the Electricity Board to light the stalls, and the Committee feel confident that the entire space at the disposal of traders will be taken up.

TUBERCULOSIS SCHEME.

The resignation of an assistant county medical officer of health gave rise to a discussion at the recent meeting of the Cork County Council on the advisability of continuing the existing tuberculosis scheme in the county. Mr. D. L. O'Gorman, in moving that the position be not again filled, said that the scheme was a costly experiment. Mr. M. Corry, T.D., seconded the motion, which was supported by Mr. M. Murphy, who referred to the scheme as "a huge and costly farce."

These views, however, did not meet with the approval of the majority of the members. Mr. P. Bradley pointed out that it had taken years to promote such a scheme for the benefit and advantage of the suffering poor, and maintained that they should give it a chance to succeed.

Mr. T. J. Murphy, T.D., dwelt on the terrible consequences of tuberculosis, and said that Ireland was very backward in the treatment of the disease. He believed that the scheme was one of the best features of the Local Government Department's efforts to combat the disease.

Eventually an amendment, that the vacancy should be filled, was carried by thirty votes to fourteen. The Council then appointed Dr. Arthur Buckley, at a salary of £5 5s. per week, with travelling expenses, to act temporarily pending the permanent filling of the position on the recommendation of the Appointments Commissioners.

SCHOOL-CLEANING SCANDAL.

In the course of a lengthy report to the Cork County Board of Health, Dr. R. Condy, Medical Officer of Health, has stated that of 6,229 children examined in fifty-seven schools more than half suffered from various defects, and twenty-two per cent. had more than one defect. The report gave details and, inter alia, mentioned that 346 children suffered from malnutrition, and that 116 had defective clothing and footgear.

Indignation was expressed by several members at the injurious practice obtaining in many country schools of detaining children for an hour after school hours in order to sweep, clean and dust the schoolrooms. It was pointed out that, despite the length of time since their breakfast, this cruel task was imposed on hungry children, to the great detriment of their health, and while it was not suggested that the teachers or their assistants should do the work, the feeling of the meeting was clearly in favour of a cessation of the prevailing custom.

Dr. Condy assured the members that it was a most injurious practice, and that despite representations to the managers or school authorities, such work as cleaning and dusting was still being done by the children in many cases.

The meeting decided to request the proper authorities to take steps to have the practice abolished.

DUBLIN THEATRES AND CINEMAS.

THIS WEEK'S PROGRAMMES.

Artistes from the New Theatre, London, are giving performances at the Gaiety Theatre of a new comedy, "A Damsel in Distress," by Messrs. Ian Hay and P. J. Wodehouse.

The company includes Oliver Elliott, Laurie Wensley, Ian Benwell, Henry Thompson, Michael Logan, Eileen Jackson, Hilda Taylor, Lucie Evelyn, Betty Hanson-Lowe, Marion Lysaght and Kerry Kelly.

Mr. Maurice Cowan presents "Sunny Skies," a revue, at the Theatre Royal. An all-star cast includes:—Tommy Lorne, W. S. Percy, Xenia and Aston, Bert Scott, De Jay Sisters and Denise, the Gaiety Girls, and Betty Warren.

Attractions at the Abbey Theatre are Mr. Bernard Duffy's one-act comedy, "The Coiner," and Mr. Brinsley Macnamara's three-act comedy, "The Glorious Uncertainty." Performances commence to-morrow night.

A revue, "Vive Paris," comes to the Olympia Theatre. In the cast are Jack Buckland, Ernest Bray, Ted E. Rider, A. Gardiner, Gwen Astare, Dot Jukes, Clifford Atkinson, Frances Faye, Molly Kenn, Josh and Gerald, and the Ten Paree Girls.

Plays at the Civic Theatre, Kingstown, include "The Shadow of a Gunman" and "The Glittering Gate."

"Noah's Ark," a picture with sound accompaniment, is being presented at the Capitol Theatre. The "making" of the picture occupied the producer and his staff for three years, and for some of the scenes thousands of people were employed. In the principal rôles are Dolores Costello, George O'Brien, Noah Beery, Louise Fazenda, Quinn Williams and Paul McAllister. On the stage the Capitolians and the Twelve Capitol Tiller Girls appear in artistic song scenes.

For another week "The Flying Fool," a picture showing the exploits of a stunt aviator, is being retained at the Grand Central Cinema.

Screen features at the Grafton Picture House are "Treachery," starring La Jama and J. Kowal Samboriski, and "The Missing Link," with Syd Chaplin in the principal rôle.

Aileen Pringle is to be seen in "Tea for Three" at the Sackville Picture House.

"Water Front" and "The Alley Cat" are included in the programme of the Pavilion, Kingstown.

AN ENGAGEMENT DENIAL.

Lord Fermoy's private secretary has asked the Evening Standard to contradict the announcement of the engagement, which was published on August 22.

Mr. H. A. Wadsworth (77), of Breinton Court, near Hereford, one of Hereford's best-known followers of the hunt, was found lying unconscious in the roadway with his pony grazing nearby on Saturday afternoon. He died yesterday.

VILLAGE SETTLEMENT FOR PEAMOUNT.

DR. V. JONES'S ACCOUNT OF PAPWORTH METHODS.

THE PROBLEM IN IRELAND.

A large audience of doctors, nurses, patients and friends listened with the keenest interest in Peamount Sanatorium yesterday afternoon to a lantern lecture by Dr. Verrier Jones, who is in charge of the Papworth Village Settlement in England.

Sir Conway Dwyer, M.D., who presided, said that it was the first opportunity he had of addressing them since the death of Sir William Thompson, whose place in that institution it would be so difficult to fill. Sir William had devoted himself with zest and energy to the promotion of the welfare and the happiness of the patients in the institution. As they were aware, there was a project on foot to establish some recognition of the services that Sir William had given towards the care of the tuberculous in Ireland, and they were of opinion that that memorial should be at Peamount, where he had served so well. He had pleasure in introducing to them Dr. Verrier Jones, who had made the most important advance yet achieved in connection with tuberculosis. Dr. Jones had impressed all who had come into contact with him in his work, and they were anxious that he should interest those present in the new movement in connection with Peamount.

Dr. Verrier Jones, who was received with applause, said that he had come there to give them a little sketch of what was happening in the outside world, and he hoped to kindle a little flame of interest, and that that flame would grow, and that there would be an enormous wave of enthusiasm amongst not only those who were fighting against the disease, but those who were suffering from it—that dread disease, which had baffled the medical profession for hundreds of years.

OPPORTUNITY FOR SUFFERERS.

They were fortunate there in escaping from the catastrophe that was overtaking those suffering from that dread disease; but he wanted to lift up in the social scale those suffering from the disease, and who were slipping down. His object was to turn the scale in the opposite direction—to lift them up, and to give them opportunity. When he was tuberculosis officer he saw a great many men and women striken down with the disease. He used to examine them and send them to sanatoria. They came back after three or six months infinitely better, their coughs had disappeared and they had put on weight. But then the question arose about their occupation. A certain number had sympathetic employers, who were only too anxious and willing to take them back and give them an opportunity of going on with their work. Unfortunately, only a small percentage of employers were willing to do that.

WORK UNDER PROPER CONDITIONS.

The question of a light, open-air job was a myth, and every medical man who recommended a light, open-air job for a consumptive knew that it was useless, unless he was content with light wages at the end of the week. They had to decide what they could do with people of that kind, and there were a great number of them; a great number for which the suggestion he had to make would not, perhaps, be a national remedy. But for the individual, for the purpose of dealing with unemployment and ill-health, they would have to find a solution that would raise him up and make him a healthy, self-supporting citizen. They were faced with a large social and economic problem, because, after all, tuberculosis was, par excellence, an economic problem. The man with a nice balance in bank—the man who could go to Africa or South America, or elsewhere, was not faced with the severe economic problem which faced the working man when he returned from an institution.

Could they make it possible for the ordinary individual to be in the same position—to have a little bank balance after his treatment? The answer was that it could be done if they made it possible for that man to earn his living in sheltered institutions. The pace at which people had to work at present in industry was too great. It was an age of machinery, and men had to work to keep pace with machinery. They wanted to reduce that pace, so that the damaged organ (the lung) could function in the damaged organism (the body). When they put a man in a position to earn his money without injury to the damaged organ they were lifting him up. The man was faced with two enormous adverse factors at present—one, the employer, and the other the man who worked side by side with him. They found that a consumptive could earn his own wage, but he could not earn overhead charges, which were necessary to keep the whole business going. Could they put up an environment so that the overhead charges could be paid by somebody else; so that the consumptive could earn his own living, have his own house, and be a free man; a man who was enjoying the full benefit of manhood, and a man who was able to raise up a family free from disease. If they grew up free from disease, then the vicious circle had been cut, as it never had been cut before.

Village settlements were now started in Germany, Holland, France and New South Wales, and they were being started in the United States. Why should Ireland be behind? They should come forward and take the project up with enthusiasm.

THE WORK AT PAPWORTH.

Dr. Verrier Jones then showed a large number of lantern slides illustrating Papworth Village Settlement, the hospitals and houses for the residents. The houses, it might be mentioned, consist of six rooms each, including three bedrooms, with two windows in each room. The rents are 10s. 6d. to 11s. per week.

The lecturer then showed carpenters' shops, cabinetmaking factories, handbag factories, printing shops, etc., where men and women are employed under ideal conditions, and the products sold to firms in London and elsewhere. Trade union wages are paid, and the inhabitants of this model village live healthy, prosperous and happy lives.

Sir Conway Dwyer conveyed the thanks of the audience to the lecturer.

Mr. Luke J. O'Duffy, general secretary, Irish Distributive Workers' and Clerks' Union, heartily endorsed the vote of thanks to Dr. Verrier Jones, and said that the description he had given and the pictures shown had brought home to the audience the manner in which the Village Settlement under his control had placed men and women affected by tuberculosis in positions of independence, where they could earn their own livelihood. He had spent a day at Papworth village settlement with Dr. Verrier Jones, and he was astonished at what he had seen, and he as very glad that the doctor had come there to address them. He believed that in the near future an attempt would be made to do something on similar lines in Peamount. As many of them were aware, Lady Aberdeen was taking a keen interest in the institution, and was resolved that she would as far as she could, place at the disposal of patients there the opportunity of doing what the patients under Dr. Verrier Jones were doing.

SETTLEMENT AS A MEMORIAL.

A committee had been formed to perpetuate the memory of Sir William Thompson, and they had decided that the memorial would take the form of a settlement there, in which men and women would be able to carry on their work, and where they would have the opportunity of retaining their health and vigour in pleasant surroundings. They would also be able to earn a decent livelihood while at their work.

Their problem was different from what it was in England, which was largely an industrial country. Many of those in Peamount came from rural parts of Ireland, and the problem was more difficult on that account. Many of them might be owners of land or agricultural workers, and it was not easy to approach the question of a village settlement in the same way as in Papworth; but he believed that the situation could, and would, be met. Many of them felt that when they returned to their homes everything done for them in the sanatorium was undone, because in the country the houses generally were small and ill-ventilated, whereas in the cities they were not houses at all: they were either barracks or slums. The idea was to counteract these things, and to give people a chance of [illegible] to maintain the progress [illegible] during their treatment there. Dr. Verrier Jones said he was willing to [illegible] his services to the Committee.

The vote of thanks to Dr. Verrier Jones was carried with enthusiasm, and he briefly replied.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

FREE STATE EGGS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I have followed with keen interest the controversy in the Irish Times regarding Irish Free State eggs. Perhaps, your correspondents would like to hear the views of a consumer.

Having been born in Ireland, I always have given Irish produce a preference. In my home we use four dozen eggs per week. During 1928 we used Free State eggs only, and found their quality, size and appearance quite satisfactory. In fact, I was so satisfied that I induced several of my English friends to follow my example and buy Free State eggs; but since the spring of this year the quality of the Free State egg has been gradually getting worse. In every dozen of Irish selected one now finds three or four that are decidedly stale, with the result that I have been forced, very reluctantly, to buy Danish. I may remark that the quality of the Danish egg is uniformly good.

My experience is not unique. My grocer informs me that, following numerous complaints about the quality of the Free State article, he also has been compelled to stock Danish only. Previously his weekly sale of Irish eggs averaged over two hundred dozens.

You will notice that I have stressed the deterioration in the quality of the Free State eggs. I find that their size and outward appearance remain good, but it must be obvious to the Irish poultry farmers and exporters that a big stale egg is just as objectionable as a small stale one.

I understand that the humble egg brings three million pounds annually to the twenty-six counties. Might I remind those interested that it is possible to increase this figure to ten millions by playing the game with the consumer? Give him an Irish egg of good size and quality, and you will monopolise the English market in a few years.

It seems strange that those who offer for sale eggs that are bad or stale escape with a paltry fine. A workman endangers the safety of a three million pounds edifice by deliberately using bad bricks and escapes with a fine of a few shillings. Is it not a case of misplaced mercy to the individual and gross injustice to the crowd? I feel sure that the Danish farmers and merchants must thoroughly enjoy these displays of leniency to the would-be scuttlers of the Irish egg trade.—Yours, etc.,

"LANCASHIRE."

Manchester, August 24th, 1929.

THE TRAMWAY STRIKE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—You kindly published on Friday a letter of mine calling attention to the almost unbelievable selfishness of a very large percentage of motorists during these difficult days.

This selfishness has been so persistent and obtrusive that I did not expect much improvement, and was not surprised when even the heavy rainstorm during the homing hour the same evening, and again this morning, failed to make these "gentlemen" unbend.

I now make a definite suggestion: There are a number of "Knights on Wheels" among us who already carry full loads morning and evening. Will each one of them on Monday tie a streamer of blue ribbon to the radiator cap of his or her car as an invitation to the business women and girls to signal for any available seat?

We shall in this way instantly start an informal but very practical League of Courtesy, and give help to those who need it.

Is it realised how real this need is? There are scores of elderly women and girls who find a five-mile walk every day, in addition to their work, a severe tax.

Once the lead was thus openly taken possibly, for very shame's sake, Dublin's stock of blue riibbon might be rapidly bought out.—Yours, etc.,

"AN OLD-TIME MOTORIST."

Dublin, August 24th, 1929.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Although numerous suggestions have been made to put the D.U.T.C. on their feet, all seem to be in the nature of a subsidy at the public expense, 'bus-owners included. Have the causes which have led to the present position been fully disclosed, and would it not be better to remove these before seeking a remedy which may merely result in being a temporary expedient? I was perusing the balance sheet of the D.U.T.C., and one very important point seems to have escaped the notice of your correspondents—that is, the comparative figures between the earnings of trams and 'buses of the company.

There are some 320 odd trams and 70 odd 'buses. The revenue of the trams is £520,000, and of the 'buses £115,000.

The earning capacity of a tram is in the nature of £28 per week, with twice the seating capacity of a 'bus. The earning capacity of a 'bus is about £31 per week. Is further comment necessary?

I note in the balance sheet meticulous particulars are given showing cost per mile of the tram, which is over 1s. None is quoted for the 'bus.

The red-herring of wayleaves, road repairs, etc., may be excellent propaganda, but it is not good business. There are such things as economic fares—adoption when possible of a more modern form of transport, and a sane view on the type of transport the public demands.—Yours, etc.,

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—It is time that the people realised that the tramways strike is only a minor issue, and that Dublin is being made the cockpit of a conflict affecting the interests of transport workers on both sides of the Channel. The tramwaymen are merely a pawn in the game.

Why should the State be asked to relieve the Tramways Company from a contract entered into with their eyes open, and the fruits of which they have enjoyed for the past thirty years?

Such undue preferential treatment has not been sought by the railways, though their stock has been watered down by an Act of Parliament compelling the absorption of non-revenue producing lines. The railways are also large employers of labour, the wages bill, speaking from memory, of the Dublin-Dalkey lines being approximately £77,000, against, roughly, £10,000 paid by the 'buses.

If the Government decides to interfere, the whole question of transport should be considered. It transcends in importance either the League of Nations or the veto of the Privy Council in the economic life of this State.

The tramways are a utility service which the State is bound to maintain. Undue prolongation of the strike might easily drag in the railway companies. The strike raises the whole problem of national transport.

The Minister for Industry and Commerce has been repeatedly urged to tackle this question.

The national loss arising from three relatively inefficient services operating to their mutual destruction has been pointed out by all sides of the House—the competition of 'buses operated by railways against their own main lines; the disastrous results of competition between 'bus, tram and rail; and the threatened loss of either tram or rail, which the country could ill afford to lose. This strike proves the truth of these contentions.

The elimination of way-leaves, the raiding of the Road Fund, the setting up of white-washing commissions are mere palliatives that settle nothing permanently, but simply put off the day of reckoning.

I again appeal to the tramwaymen to remember how similar tactics to those now being pursued destroyed the Dublin Dockyard Company. Are they wise to refuse arbitration? Will such refusal cause the loss of the goodwill of the general public? Nor are they reasonably entitled to assume that the arbitrator will decide against them. He is bound to consider sacrifices in wages already made, and the decision is just as likely to favour the men as the company.

The most strenuous efforts to bring both sides together at once should be made by the Government. That alone can settle the strike; newspaper solutions are of little value.

The Government should create an Industrial Transport Council, of workers and masters, to consider and report upon the whole question of transport, and to draw up a scheme of ways and means, by which a single or dual national transport system may be created. Such system should be self-supporting, independent of bounty or subsidy. Working conditions, rates of pay also, should be settled.

Then the findings of the arbitrator can be permanently settled by confirmation or otherwise.

The Minister for Industry should give an undertaking, subject to reasonable powers of revision, to embody substantially by statute the findings of the Transport Council.

This method now operates in Germany, and forms the basis of the "Federal Economic Council," subordinate to, but working side by side with, the Reichstag, constituting a "Parliament of Industry"—a model of efficiency and "creative power" to the whole world.

There can be no hopes of industrial peace or expansion in the Saorstat until industry is run on properly organised, scientific lines, free from the trammels of the party machine.—Yours, etc.,

"RETROSPECTIONS."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—There seems to be money for everything except books. Some months ago one advertisement appeared in the Irish Times of "Retrospections of Dorothea Herbert, 1770-1789." It was ordered from Dublin and found to be worth far more than 7s. 6d. net. It is of especial interest to people of the Counties of Kilkenny and Tipperary, and would be a welcome gift to exiles in far lands. It is a magic glass through which we look into the past that seems the real substance and the present the shadow. People truly of all sorts and conditions pass before us: even those whose hearts lie in fashion and foolery may find delight here; nor can the learned woman of to-day look down on that time—an heiress who was afterwards wife of the second Sir John Blunden was "compleat mistress of Music—Drawing—Dancing—And understood Greek, Latin, French, English, and Italian as well as her Masters—Wrote Capitally and was in every Respect a most accomplished Pretty little Creature."

In 1783 Dublin never appeared to greater advantage; Parliament met and the town was as full as possible; the Franchises that year were remarkably beautiful; the Dublin Volunteers, newly dressed and accoutred, continually paraded the streets; there were grand masquerades. Kilkenny, Carrick-on-Suir, Galway, Killarney, Cashel were then prosperous. Carrick-on-Suir was famed for its ratteen. Enough remains of the "Retrospections" to fill another book, if there were a demand for it. One person, at any rate, would rejoice to have the second volume. In whatever misery you may be there are passages that will make you laugh aloud. Dorothea Herbert's mother was daughter of the first Lord Desart. The good old words and phrases warm the heart.—Yours, etc.,

CIVIC WEEK.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I was concerned to read in your issue of the 23rd a statement that I had undertaken to conduct personally visitors to the National Gallery between the hours of three and five during Civic Week. I gave no authorisation for this statement, and was not approached on the matter by anyone. My work in the Charity Commission and in the Gallery absolutely precludes my rendering any such service, much as I might desire to do so.—Yours, etc.,

DUBLIN DISTILLERS COMPANY.

IMPROVING PROSPECTS.

INCREASED SALES.

The general meeting of shareholders of the Dublin Distillers Company was held at the Engineers Hall, Dawson street, Dublin, on Saturday.

Mr. Martin Coles Harman, chairman, presided, and the other directors present were—Messrs. Joseph Devlin, M.P.; Henry J. Moloney, K.C.; Major H. R. S. Aldom, and Mr. J. W Levingston, managing director. Mr. S. M. Dunne, secretary, was in attendance.

In their report the directors stated that, after charging all trade expenses, outlay on buildings, machinery, etc., income tax and expenses of management, interest on Debenture Stock, the trading to 30th June, 1929, resulted in a loss of £25,565; deducting £1,787, balance from last account, the amount transferred from special reserve was £23,778. The report added that the improvement in sales represented a steady and normal recovery, and was most marked during the concluding quarter. Compared with the same month last year the sales for June, 1929, showed an increase of over 100 per cent. The directors were satisfied with the progress and development of the company during the latter portion of the financial year, and they have every confidence that the improvement in trade would not only be maintained, but continue to develop.

THE BALANCE SHEET.

Moving the adoption of the report and statement of accounts, the Chairman (Mr. Harman) said that, on comparing the balance sheet with last year's, they would see that the amounts due to bankers and others had disappeared, and instead they had now standing to their credit a substantial sum.

Dealing with the items seriatim, he pointed out that the machinery, plant, premises, stood at £157,583, which was about £432,000 lower than they did at this time last year. They stood to-day at a reasonable figure. The same could be said of the next item—stocks of whiskey—which stood at £368,058. Motor lorries and vehicles came next. They had largely increased their fleet during the last six months, and this item was worth its value. The same could be said of sundry debts, investments, etc.

On the liabilities side the £650,000 Ordinary and Preference capital had been reduced to £190,000, taking 25 per cent. of the profits. The 520,000 "A" Shares, which took 75 per cent. of the profits and which had a par value of £130,000, represented the new cash which had been invested in the business. The amount of Debenture Stock had been reduced from £350,000 to £200,000, and they had the option, by purchase in the market or redemption at par, to redeem the whole of this Stock. The Board felt indebted to their colleague, Mr. Moloney, for his skilful and successful handling of the difficult situation.

EFFECT OF REORGANISATION.

By the time the reconstruction of the company's finances had been completed a good part of the financial year had already gone by and a considerable loss had already been suffered. It was not until after the new year that the company was able to take advantage of the resources which had become available. No good purpose could be served by telling them in detail of all the work that had been done, but it was not until the last quarter of the year under review that the effect of the re-organisation began to make itself felt. The decline in sales was first arrested, then their turnover began to improve, and it improved steadily, and to such an extent that in the last three months they had recovered all that had been lost in the early part of the year, and their turnover exceeded that of the previous year; but the important thing was not so much the amount they had recovered, but the rate of their recovery. The sales for the month of June, 1929, showed an increase of more than 100 per cent. on the sales of the corresponding month in the previous year. He added that the weekly returns for July and August indicated that their sales figures were steadily maintaining their climb. He did not wish to belittle the difficulties which beset them, or to underrate the strength and ability of their competitors at home and abroad, but the company had the advantage of being able to market an article of an age and quality which could not be excelled. They felt justly proud of their achievement of having doubled their monthly turnover as a result of three or four months of concentrated effort, and that was a clear index that the public had begun to appreciate the wonderful merits of their product.

PROSPECTS OF THE COMPANY.

With regard to the prospects of the company, his colleagues and he felt absolutely confident that the progress which had been made during the last quarter of the year under review could be maintained, and, if that were the case, then the future of the company was assured, and instead of a deficit in the next year's balance sheet there was every reason to hope for a substantial surplus. When he and his friends took a financial interest in the company they did not do so out of any measure of philanthropy, but because they were satisfied that it was a good proposition. In the home market there were dwindling sales, due to many causes, but mainly due to the entirely excessive and abnormal duty. As regards the markets abroad, there was no reason why the Scotch should have a monopoly of these markets, considering the merits of the article which the company had to put up in competition with them.

Some Englishmen had been inclined to fight shy of Irish investments and Irish industries in consequence of the events of the past ten or eleven years. That attitude must be changed. He was happy to say that he was a great believer in the future of this country and in the capacity of Irishmen not only to manage their own affairs, but to build up the prosperity of their native land. He thought they had a country of wonderful possibilities, and that they had several men of great courage, vision and foresight in charge of affairs. They would pardon him for suggesting that possibly some of the people were too near these men to put a true value on their abilities, but in London they were able to see them in a more correct perspective. History would prove their greatness.

The Board was absolutely confident that, if people only got to know what wonderful whiskey the company offered, they would drink nothing else. Not only did the Board feel they were entitled to the support of the shareholders, but they went further and said that they were entitled to the best consideration of everyone who had the welfare of the country at heart, not excepting those good friends their competitors, whom they should always be pleased to meet, and with whom they should always be pleased to discuss any subjects of mutual interest.

In conclusion, he bore testimony to the loyalty of the staff and to their faithful co-operation in promoting the interests of the company.

Mr. Henry J. Moloney formally seconded the adoption of the report.

Mr. Maguire expressed the view that the shareholders, taking the balance sheet as a whole, should be well satisfied with the state of affairs. Since the events of last year, and with the energy of the present management, they found the company on the high road to prosperity. They had got over the difficulties in connection with their Debenture Stock, and, of course, the position would be still better if the majority of that stock were redeemed.

Another matter of great interest was that overdrafts amounting to £60,000 had been repaid, and there was a substantial sum to credit at the present time.

Mr. Sleigh, as representing a considerable group of shareholders, said that they were very pleased indeed with the tremendous improvement in the balance sheet, but they were disappointed it was not possible to pay a dividend yet. Their feeling was that that was owing to the fact that the Chairman's policy had not received as much encouragement as it ought.

The Chairman, replying, said that the issue of the further block of 50,000 "A" shares was being considered, but it really was a matter for the shareholders to decide. As to representation on the Board he reminded the shareholders that a Board cost money, and any person proposed for it would have to stand a most critical test on the grounds for his capacity to give constructive help. That was the one thing they wanted.

The report and statement of accounts were unanimously adopted.

The co-option of Mr. Harman and Major Aldom as directors was unanimously confirmed, and Mr. H. J. Moloney was re-elected a director.

Messrs. Craig, Gardner and Co. were re-elected auditors.

Mr. Perry proposing a vote of thanks to the directors, [illegible]

The vote [illegible] seconded by Dr. Myles Keogh, T.D., and carried unanimously.

DIOCESE OF DOWN AND CONNOR.

CONSECRATION OF NEW BISHOP.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY IN BELFAST.

The solemn consecration of the Right Rev. Daniel Mageean, B.D., Dean of Maynooth and a former Professor of St. Malachy's College, Belfast, as Roman Catholic Bishop of Down and Connor took place in St. Patrick's Church, Donegall street, Belfast, yesterday. The new Bishop, who is a native of Saintfield, Co. Down, succeeds in the bishopric the Most Rev. Dr. MacRory, Archbishop of Armagh, who performed the ceremony. He was assisted by two other Northern Bishops—the Most Rev. Dr. McKenna, Bishop of Clogher, and the Most Rev. Dr. Mulhern, Bishop of Dromore.

There was a very large congregation in St. Patrick's for the ceremony, and the attendance included the Most Rev. Dr. McNeilly, Bishop of Raphoe; the Most Rev. Dr O'Kane, Bishop of Derry; the Most Rev. Dr. T. Mulvanny, Bishop of Meath; the Most Rev. Dr. McNamee, Bishop of Ardagh and Clonmacnoise; the Most Rev. Dr. Morrisroe, Bishop of Achonry; the Most Rev. Dr. Keane, Bishop of Limerick; the Most Rev. Dr. McCarthy, Bishop of Galloway; the Most Rev. Dr. Cappo, Bishop of Paliopolis, Asia.

The majority of the priests of the diocese also were present, and many prominent laymen, including Mr. Joseph Devlin, M.P.

THE CEREMONY.

The vast congregation in St. Patrick's followed with the deepest interest the solemn rite of consecration, which is remarkable for its dignity and beauty. The ceremony includes the imposition of hands by the consecrating prelate and his assistants, the handing to the Bishop-Elect of the crozier, the ring, and the Book of the Gospels. Chrism is used in anointing the head and hands of the Bishop-Elect, as the oil of Catachumens is used in anointing the hands of the priest at his ordination.

After the consecration the Bishop was enthroned in the episcopal chair, wearing the mitre and holding in his left hand the crozier, and the consecrator intoned the "Te Deum." While this hymn of thanksgiving was being sung the newly-consecrated Bishop blessed the congregation, walking down the centre aisle, and returned to the episcopal chair, when an antiphon was recited and sung and the consecrator recited a prayer. The consecrated Bishop then pronounced on all priests a solemn blessing, and was embraced by the consecrator and the assistant bishops in turn.

THE SERMON.

After the first Gospel the Very Rev. Hugh Kerr, C.SS.R., Rathgar, Dublin, preached the sermon, in the course of which he said that the ceremony they had witnessed must have filled them all with a sense of pride in the Church to which they had the privilege to belong. For in substances it was the same ceremony as that so tersely described in the words of the text, whereby St. Paul was "separated unto the apostolate."

As with St. Paul, the preacher proceeded, so to-day, the Spirit of God speaks through the successor of Saint Peter, by whose warrant and authority another Bishop is clothed with the fulness of the priesthood and takes his place in that unbroken and venerable line which reaches back to the Apostles. Thus the Bishop who is consecrated to-day, like Saint Paul before him, is sent with the authority of an apostle, and the church of Down and Connor, of which he is the latest pastor, will, through him, enjoy the note of apostolicity.

To-day we realise, far more than we ever realised before, that the Church of God is indefectible; has never failed, and will never fail, unto the end of time. To-day we have a tangible proof of those glorious words of promise: "Behold I am with you all days, even to the consummation of the world." To-day we realise that though Bishops come and go, live and die, yet the episcopate, like the Church, of which it is the divinely-appointed source of authority, remains for ever.

The Church of God is the living and perpetual witness to the supernatural on earth, not only in her manifestly spiritual operations, but in the never-failing principle of life which sustains her. She is the perpetual miracle of God on earth. She is that Holy City which the prophet in dim vision had foretold which even in the last of days, when the brief shadow of this world is about to pass, will still clearly be discerned high upon the Mount of God. (Isaias ii., 2 and 3).

THE CHURCH.

Proceeding, the preacher said:—Time cuts no wrinkle on the Church's brow. Centuries piled on centuries have but enhanced the bloom of her eternal youth. She is old and venerable, indeed, but her strength is unimpaired, and she is the only force to-day that can grapple with the paganism of the hour. And being old and venerable, she is wise with the garnered wisdom of two thousand years. Every part of the Old World, even the lands that once boasted of their disloyalty and their schism; every part of the New World, even the smallest and remotest islands, with peoples the most barborous and climates the most injurious, are made pervious to her messengers of peace. A divine vitality is in her veins that knows neither decay nor decrepitude; and only when the race of man is run and the world is consumed in its regenerating fires will the Church Militant on earth be finished when the Church Triumphant in Heaven is complete.

And by a perfect historical fitness is it that in this great anniversary year, in the ruined shrines of Celtic faith and piety, the Holy Mass should again be offered. Here in this corner of the island, where an alien civilisation and an alien religion are so much more in evidence, we may not, perhaps, just yet so publicly recreate the glories of the ancient faith Saint Patrick brought us.

But let us rest assured that no political institutions, no matter how cunningly devised nor lavishly supported, can outlast the indestructible Church enshrined in the heart of this nation. And, for our common consolation, let us remember that in the vast spiritual inheritance of the Gael, symbolised by the ruined sanctuaries that dot the land, we people of this Northern portion hold no little share.

HISTORIC DIOCESE.

Truly, this is a most historic Diocese of Down and Connor. Despite the tide of intermittent war that rolled over it; despite, above all, systematic plantations whose direful legacy is with us still, the relics of our ancient Faith are everywhere around us. Some, indeed, the despoiler's hand could never injure.

In conclusion, Father Kerr said:—The priests and people of Down and Connor would have generously accepted and loyally obeyed any bishop whom the Holy See would have chosen for them. But it was with peculiar pleasure that they learned that the Holy Father had selected a native of the diocese, and one specially suited for the office. His modesty debars me from enlarging on those qualities of mind and heart that in a special way fit him for the duties he is called upon to discharge. Suffice it to say that when he was selected for the office of Dean in the great Seminary of Maynooth the Council of Bishops who made the choice must have seen in Dr. Mageean a shining example of every priestly virtue. And throughout Ireland today the young priests ordained during the past ten years can bear abundant testimony to the respect and affection with which he was regarded.

THE NEW BISHOP.

So Dr. Mageean takes up to-day the crozier of St. Malachy in this historic Diocese of Down and Connor. The blessing of God rests upon him this morning, not merely by reason of the holy consecration he has just received, but also by reason of those priestly virtues with which he has adorned his soul. And if it will in any way lighten the burden of his responsibility, he can rest assured of the affectionate loyalty and whole-hearted co-operation of priests and people of whom he is now the Pastor. Our prayers and good wishes go with him to-day and will accompany him all his life.

Under his guidance may this flourishing Church of Down and Connor still make further progress. May religion prosper and piety increase. May Bishop, priests, and people remain closely united in the bonds of [illegible] in the heavenly sheepfold.

GIFTS.

The priests of the diocese accompanied their address with the gift of a motor car, and his class-fellows gave the new Bishop as a gift a gold chalice and pastoral staff.

MESSRS. CRAIGIE BROTHERS' SHEEP SALE.

The opening auction of 6,000 breeding ewes, rams and store lambs for this season, which was held in the Cattle Market, Dublin, last Friday by Messrs. Cragie Bros., attracted the largest attendance of buyers from all parts of Ireland for some years. The quality of the Galway ewes on offer was hardly up to the usual standard. Cheviot ewes, of which close on 3,000 were penned, easily topped the sale in point of quality and numbers. The popular blackfaced horny was also extensively shown for so early in the season, totalling some 2,000 head. Trade was buoyant from start to finish for all classes of sheep showing quality, and, with the exception of some rough lots, the whole supply was cleared by 4.15 p.m. The following are some of the principal transactions:—

Galway Ewes.—Mr. James Mulhern, 52/- to 64/-; Mr. James Flannery, 57/- to 60/-; Mr. P. J. O'Malley, 56/-; Mr. M. NEWS SUMMARY.

IRELAND

Colonel Charles Russell yesterday completed his flight from London to Oranmore Aerodrome, County Galway, whence to-day he will start his experimental air mail service to London.—(Page 7.)

The new Bishop of Down and Connor, the Right Rev. Daniel Mageean, B.D., was consecrated yesterday in St. Patrick's Church, Donegall street, Belfast.—(Page 5.)

Madame Anna Bodart, a native of Newry, and a friend of Nurse Cavell, has been on a visit to her native place.—(Page 8.)

Irish barley-growers met at Maryborough on Saturday with the object of finding a market for surplus barley among stock-feeders.—(Page 8.)

At a Special Court which was held in Nenagh Mrs. M. Carey, of Silvermines, was remanded on bail charged with having sent a threatening letter to Lord Dunalley.—(Page 8.)

GREAT BRITAIN

Damage estimated at £250,000 was caused by a fire which destroyed a new market building and several fully-laden trawlers at Hull last night.—(Page 8.)

ABROAD.

The Arab-Jew riots in Palestine have spread to towns thirty miles from Jerusalem. At Hebron forty-five Jews have been killed, including two Rabbis. A British immigration official was killed in a Jerusalem suburb. Two battalions of British troops have been despatched to the scene, and warships are hurrying from Malta.—(Page 7.)

Three airmen were killed and three seriously injured when a troop-carrying aeroplane crashed at Cairo on Saturday.—(Page 7.)

A British seaman was drowned when a motor car in which he was a passenger fell into a Belgian canal.—(Page 7.)

Eight passengers were killed and thirty seriously injured in an accident to the Paris-Warsaw express yesterday morning.—(Page 7.)

SPORTING

At Baldoyle on Saturday Sol de Terre won the Foal Plate, Vanity Box the Juvenile Plate, Bristol Rocket the Seaside Plate, Lord Astolot the Kinsealy Plate, Swift Agnes the Sutton Plate, and Glass Boss the August Plate.—(Page 10.)

At Hurst Park Mr. Jinks won the Richemount Stakes.—(Page 10.)

At Haydock Park Yutrill won the South Lancashire Handicap.—(Page 10.)

FINANCIAL

London Money Market was well supplied with credits, and loans till Monday were offered below 3½ per cent. Discount rates remained very firm. The Bank lost £8,863 in bar gold and sovereigns.—(Page 3.)

Palestine.

The rioting at Jerusalem between Jews and Arabs, of which the recent incidents at the Wailing Wall provided the occasion, is charged with the gravest possibilities. Trouble has been latent in Palestine for a long time, and some people have expressed surprise at the fact that, while under Turkish rule no interference with Jewish religious rites took place, such distressing convulsions should be possible under a British mandate. The position to-day is entirely different from that which existed before the war. Among many causes of the present crisis, the well-intentioned Balfour declaration of November, 1917, by which "His Majesty's Government viewed with favour the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people," is the most outstanding. The few orthodox Jews, who had remained on their native soil since the days of Judas Maccabaeus, were not sufficiently numerous or politically active to inspire irritation among their Ottoman overlords or their inflammable Arabic neighbours. Under the Balfour declaration, however, an immense number of Jews arrived in the country, and with their characteristic sense of racial kinship established important communities. In the Galilee region, for instance, the Arabs found themselves suddenly dispossessed, or at least crowded out, of their lands. The resultant hostility between the two races has caused the procrastination of the proposed measures of self-government intended for Palestine, since it was obvious at Geneva that the removal of British control would precipitate a massacre.

The laconic message, "Palestine Jewry is in the greatest danger; rush help," sent by the Chief Rabbi of Palestine to Dr. Hertz, the Chief Rabbi of the British Empire, is a sufficient indication of the peril in which the Jews find themselves. Arab attacks are perpetual, and the lamentable murder of Mr. Best shows their indiscriminate nature. The range of the disturbances extends at least from Jaffa to Hebron, and signs are not wanting that religious and racial fanaticism is being used by the Arabs as a convenient cloak for their time-honoured pastime of looting. Nevertheless, the arrival of British troops from Egypt seems to have produced a salutary effect, and there is reason to hope that the situation soon will be brought under control. Both the Palestine and Imperial Governments have displayed commendable firmness; the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem has been told that he will be held personally responsible for any further riots, and the despatch of H.M. ships Barham and Sussex from Malta will lend weight to the orders of local authority. Until, however, a permanent settlement is achieved, Palestine is likely to be a continual source of trouble. Great Britain has been blamed with great speciousness for undertaking the Palestinian Mandate, and similar French troubles in Syria with the Druses have been cited as an abundant proof of this contention. There can be no doubt, however, that the country cannot now be abandoned, if only because of the loss of prestige and broken faith that such action would involve.

Behind the Palestinian question itself three further weighty reasons demand the retention of British influence over the country. Not only is the Suez Canal vital for imperial communications, but the development of the air service to India depends on the possession of suitable landing grounds in the Levant. Most important of all, however, is the safety of the Anglo-Persian Oil Company's pipeline from the Zagros range. Few realise the enormous possibilities of this property, which, if it escapes political convulsion, must become the most valuable oilfield in the world. Although its existence has been known since Achaemenian days, its resources even now are scarcely more than tapped. Indeed, some have averred that it will outlast the American and Burmese fields and become not merely the richest, but the only, oilfield of the world. Its geographical position, in what may be termed the cockpit of Asia, is its only serious drawback. Soviet Russia lowers upon it from the north, certain European nations with footholds in the Levant watch it covetously from the west and the awakening east surrounds it. Moreover, its value to the Empire will increase as its needs, both civil and military, depend more and more on the internal combustion engine. In these circumstances, it would be criminal folly to permit the use or abuse of Palestine by any other nation, and there is no doubt that such an event would follow immediately upon a British withdrawal. Palestine will not be able to govern itself for many years to come, and, until it has developed a proper political sense, both honour and interest demand a continuance of the British mandate.

Irish Barley.

For more than one reason we applaud the move made by the Irish Farmers' Union on behalf of barley-growers. The union summoned a conference at Maryborough, to which came representatives of the growers of barley and of stock-feeders. Means were discussed for the establishment of a steady market and for the fixing of a price for the grain which would be mutually acceptable to producer and consumer. Mr. E. Cussen, Secretary of the Cork Farmers' Union, made a sensible speech in which he expounded the necessity for an alternative market to that which is represented by brewers and maltsters. Last year maltsters paid as low a price as £6 a ton for barley. Is the farmer to enjoy no other means of disposing of his grain when they, his principal customers, obtain competitive supplies at prices that will not repay him for his expenditure? What is he to do with a crop that exceeds the demand? It is obvious that the consumer on whom he ought to depend for an alternative market is the stock-feeder; but three difficulties beset him. In the first place, he is not in touch with the desired buyer; in the second place, imported maize holds the market; and, in the third place, there exists a prejudice against barley which must be conquered before maize can be ousted and the market secured. Mr. Cussen quoted evidence that proves that the inferiority of barley as a feeding stuff lies within a margin of but five per cent., and he truly said that, if the situation were clearly understood by stock-feeders, barley ought to become readily saleable at a price but little below that of maize. The conference adopted means to establish contact between barley-growers and stock-feeders throughout Ireland, and we hope that the report of the conference and of Mr. Cussen's statement will suffice to prompt farmers to co-operate loyally in the policy that it is proposed to pursue. Perhaps, the conference would have done well to go into the problem of barley transport costs; for here the influence of the Free State Government reasonably could have been invoked. A good start, however, has been made towards the recovery of the market for feeding stuffs by native produce. This is satisfactory; but we commend also the fact that the farmers came together and devised their plans for themselves. Here is an example of self-help that ought to be followed in all branches of agriculture. It is high time that the farmers, through their voluntary organisations, should grapple with their own affairs. Millions of pounds are spent by Ireland every year on imported maize. Industry ought to keep that money at home. To that end, however, steady co-operation between producers and consumers, loyal service by labour, and honest dealing by employers are required.

Moralities.

Not long ago Dean Inge gave it as his opinion that the actor is fated to become the apostle of to-morrow. This cannot occur so long as the dramatist aspires no further than the comedy of manners and those tragedies which, arising out of the structure of a purely social code, are but transient, for all their poignancy; or so long as the producer thinks that his box office receipts will be satisfactory only while he supplies patrons of the theatre with what Miss Susan Mitchell called "an after-dinner lounge for the mind." That the English-speaking public is ill-content with this attitude may be inferred from the many instances of a happy return to an earlier conception of what it is the duty of the servants of the theatre to provide. Civic bodies plan pageants, the aim of which is to stimulate a higher sense of tradition, continuity and purpose among the citizens by an idealised exhibition of the city's past achievements, both in local and general history. A statesman like Augustus, literary men like Livy and Vergil considered that such work, among the functions of the artist, stood second only to that of deepening the roots of religious life in mankind. When the Church in the Middle Ages permitted the sacred story to be dramatised and acted under her auspices and in hallowed precincts, she was attempting for Christianity what the Greek tragedians attempted for an earlier faith. The mantle of Phrynicus fell upon the shoulders of monks, content to work unknown for the greater glory of God. With a similar purpose, men and women in England recently have been producing Nativity plays and moralities, old and new. To this movement Canterbury has given its imprimatur. From the western end of the Cathedral during the city's festival was witnessed the old morality "Everyman." In giving permission for this production, the Dean did not allow the sacred fane become the stage of profane entertainment upon which Mr. Worldly Wise might watch evolved some light-hearted solution of the problem of how to get as much pleasure and as little neighbourly disapproval out of life as possible.

Liman von Sanders.

The death, at Munich, of General Liman von Sanders recalls one of the most notable, and, in some respects, the most tragic, episodes of the Great War. Von Sanders, who went to Turkey at the head of a German mission in 1913, was the real leader of the Turkish forces both in Gallipoli and in Palestine. It is too soon yet to estimate with any degree of accuracy the rights and wrongs of the Dardanelles campaign. Ex parte statements in abundance have been made on both sides, and those who regard the campaign as a mad adventure are almost balanced by those who declare it to have been one of the most brilliant strokes of the whole war. Everybody agrees, however, that the conduct of the defences by the Turks was admirable. Liman von Sanders, who when he went to Turkey first found the army exhausted after its experiences in the Balkan wars, re-organised it with German thoroughness, and by the time when it was required to defend the Peninsula it was a first-class fighting machine. Throughout the campaign he was the guiding spirit of the Turkish Army. Even the fiery Enver Pasha deferred to his views, although at times the Turks and the Germans did not see eye to eye. Subsequently he admitted that there were moments when the British might have broken through the Turkish lines; but he arranged his defences with such skill that the Turkish movements were kept completely secret. His work in Palestine afterwards was obscured by the spectacular victories of Allenby. He was a German soldier of the old school. Although he was a bitter enemy of the British, he was respected highly by the generals who strove against him; for they recognised that he fought a clean fight, and that, in victory or defeat, he always was loyal to the soldier's code.

MARRIAGE OF MR. RICHARD McGONIGAL AND MISS ANNETTE PILKINGTON.

A very pretty scene was witnessed in the Catholic University Church, St. Stephen's Green, last Saturday morning, when the marriage took place of Mr. Richard McGonigal, son of Mr. John McGonigal, K.C., of Belfast, and Miss Annette M. E. Pilkington, younger daughter of the late Colonel H. L. Pilkington, C.B., of Tore, Westmeath, and Mrs. Pilkington, 69 St. Stephen's Green. The bride, who was given away by her uncle, Mr. Alexander J. Pilkington, wore a picturesque gown of ivory white satin, completely covered by a veil of white tulle, held in place by dainty sprays of orange blossoms, and her bouquet was composed of white roses and foliage. She was attended by two bridesmaids—Miss Ena McGonigal (sister of the bridegroom) and Miss Judith Caulfield, who were dressed alike in pretty Lido blue costumes, with hats of the same tone, and carried bouquets of pink roses. The page in attendance was the bride's nephew, Master Alexander Hinkson, in a white sailor suit. Mr. James O'Reilly supported the bridegroom as best man.

The Rev. Joseph Dwyer officiated, and full Nuptial Mass was celebrated after the ceremony.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the United Arts Club, 3 Upper Fitzwilliam street, at which only relatives were present, including Mrs. H. L. Pilkington (the bride's mother), Mr. and Mrs. John McGonigal (the parents of the bridegroom), Miss Peggy and Miss Letty McGonigal, Master Ambrose and Master Ian McGonigal, Mrs. and Miss Davoren, Miss Carmen Davoren, Dr. and Mrs. O'Farrell, Master Ambrose O'Farrell, Sir Henry and Lady Sophie Grattan Bellew, Sir Harry Reichel, Lady O'Loghlen, Lady Murphy, the Rev. Henry and Mrs. Joly, Mrs. Hinkson, Master Arthur Pilkington, Mr. A. J. Pilkington, Colonel and Mrs. Esmonde, Miss Grattan Esmonde, Mr. and Mrs. Stacpoole, Miss Hickie, Mrs. Randall McDonnell, Mr. Robert Daniell, Mrs. Caulfield, Mrs. Lentaigne, Miss Rosemary and Miss Frances Esmonde, and Mr. and Mrs. Mulligan.

Later in the afternoon the bride and bridegroom left for the Continent, where their honeymoon will be spent.

BALDOYLE RACES.

A PLEASANT AFTERNOON.

Deterred no doubt by the heavy rain in the earlier part of the day the attendance at Baldoyle races on last Saturday was rather on the small side. The afternoon, however, turned out both fine and sunny, and the course and surrounding country looked very picturesque. The Rambler roses and herbaceous borders made an attractive splash of colour in the enclosures, where, in consequence of the uncertainty of the weather the "toilettes" of the ladies were somewhat sombre. Bright-coloured waterproofs and tailormades were principally worn, several suits of tweed were accompanied by hats in the same material, with scarves and stockings in fine check to tone.

Among those noticed in the Members' Enclosure were:—Sir Micheal and Lady O'Loghlen, Sir Walter Nugent, the Hon. Gerald and Mrs. Wellesley, the Right Hon. T. K. Laidlaw and the Misses Laidlaw, General and Mrs. Waldron, the Misses Gaisford St. Lawrence, Colonel and Mrs. Clarke, Miss Clarke, Captain C. Moore, Major and Mrs. King French, Miss M. Fitzgerald, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Maher, Mr. E. Kenny, Mrs. Budd, Captain and Mrs. Gerald Martin, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. H. Peard, Mrs. St. Clair, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Wilson, Mr. J. Morrogh Ryan, Miss Morrogh Ryan and Masters Morrogh Ryan, Major and Mrs. Power, Mr. H. O'Reilly, Miss O'Connor, Misses Kennedy, Mr. E. Delany, Mrs. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard, Mr. Isodore Blake, Colonel A. J. Blake, Miss Crawford, Mrs. Maunsell, Mrs. Lingard, Mr. E. Bellaney, Mrs. Redington Roche, Mrs. Page Croft, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Hartigan, Miss Gregg, Mr. and Mrs. Creighton, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Cogan, Mr. M. Arnott, Mr. A. D. Comyn, Mrs. J. P. Hartigan and the Misses Hartigan, Mr. W. Murland, Captain Harding, Mr. J. T. Rogers, Mr. J. J. Parkinson, Major E. M. Conolly, Mr. T. Levins Moore.

FORTHCOMING MARRIAGE OF FAMOUS AIRWOMAN.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
LOS ANGELES, Saturday.

The Examiner, in a copyright article, says that Miss Ruth Elder, the airwoman, and the first woman to attempt to fly the Atlantic, is engaged to marry Mr. Walter Camp, junior, son of the late Athletic Director of Yale University. Mr. Camp, who is President of Inspiration Pictures Inc., is now on his way to New York to arrange the wedding, which is to take place on September 15th. Miss Elder is at present competing in the "Air Derby," from Santa Monica, California, to Cleveland, Ohio, and her marriage will take place shortly after the end of the race.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

The King's departure for Sandringham was the most universally discussed topic in London last Saturday, and when the news came that His Majesty had borne the journey well a jubilant air predominated. Crowds lined the streets through which the Royal motor passed from Buckingham Palace to King's Cross Station, and cheered heartily as the King and Queen drove by, and at all the country stations on the line to Wolferton there were large gatherings of cheering people, while children collected on the fences and walls lining the entire railway track, and a very large crowd greeted Their Majesties at Wolferton Station, where the King spoke to the various officials who welcomed him on the platform. It is expected that Their Majesties will remain at Sandringham for at least three months.

The Prince of Wales is staying at Le Touquet, where he arrived the end of last week, having made the journey from Lympne to Berck Aerodrome in his private plane, piloted by Flight Commander Don, and then motored to Le Touquet, where he is staying with friends till to-morrow. Before leaving London His Royal Highness received Sir Percy Loraine, High Commissioner for Egypt and the Sudan, who is leaving England to-morrow for Cairo.

It is expected that Prince George will join the Duke and Duchess of York at Birkhall, Balmoral, before the end of this month. Though the weather has not been very favourable, good bags have been secured on the Birkhall moors, where the Duke of Gloucester is now shooting with his brother and some friends.

Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles will entertain a party at Goldsborough Hall this week for York races. Their guests will include the Earl of Lonsdale, Sir William and Lady Noreen Bass, Mrs. Edward Clayton and Miss Clayton, and Major Fetherstonhaugh. After fulfilling a round of engagements during her visit to Castleford, Princess Mary planted a laburnum tree in the grounds of the new Castleford, Normanton and District Hospital in commemoration of her visit.

King George of Greece has arrived in Scotland, and is the guest of Viscount and Viscountess Massereene and Ferrard at Lochbuie House, Isle of Mull, where the Earl of Jersey is included in the shooting party they are entertaining this week.

The Duchess of Brabant and her infant daughter, Princess Josephine Charlotte, have arrived in Sweden from Brussels, and are staying at Fridhem, the summer residence of Prince Charles of Sweden, who is entertaining a family party.

The Infante Don Jaime of Spain has quite regained his strength, and is making many expeditions through the country. Last week he motored from Santiago to Vigo, and was received by the municipal authorities and conducted to Regueiro, where he laid the foundation stone of the Cancer Sanatorium, in which the King and Queen of Spain are taking much interest. After the ceremony the Prince was entertained at a banquet in the Municipal Palace, and left later by motor for Luce, en route for Santander. The enthusiasm of the welcome and send-off accorded the Prince by the crowds in Vigo was very remarkable.

Constance Duchess of Westminster and Captain Lewis Fitzpatrick are staying at Vichy, where the latest British arrivals include Sir Ernest Palmer, Sir George Bettesworth Piggott, Sir E. Sassoon, Mrs. R. Martin, and Captain and Mrs. Hall. At Brides-les-Bains, where a most successful golf tournament has just concluded, many English and Irish visitors were reported, including Mrs. Walter Payne, who won the Ladies' Cup; Colonel and Mrs. Knowles-Stansfield, Mrs. W. A. Bradley, Colonel and Mrs. Murray, Colonel Shaw, Sir George and Lady Leon, Mrs. Maloney, Mr. Warden, Mrs. and Miss Law, and Mrs. Robb.

The Duke and Duchess of Atholl are entertaining a family party at Eastwood, near Dunkeld. The Earl and Countess of Inchcape's guests at Glenapp Castle, Ayrshire, include Viscount and Viscountess Churchill. Sir Herbert and Lady Cayzer are having good sport on their grouse moor at Lanfine, Ayrshire, where their guests last week included Sir John Gilmour, Sir Cecil Graham and Sir George Bowyer.

Count and Countess Larisch and their family have arrived in Dublin and are staying at the Shelbourne Hotel.

Dr. T. Gillman Moorhead has returned to town.

Dr. G. R. Wilson has returned to Littlegate, Carrickmines.

Dr. J. S. Quin has left 22 Fitzwilliam place for three weeks.

Mr. J. J. Murphy has returned to Merrion square and Blackrock.

Mr. Norman Stephens has left 27 Fitzwilliam square for two weeks.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference.—An anti-cyclone covers the British Isles, while an apparently large low pressure system lies westward of Ireland. Drizzle or rain is not improbable along the Western Seaboard, but elsewhere the weather will be mainly fair.

North-East and South-East Ireland.—Wind light, variable, becoming southerly, moderate; cloudy; moderate temperature.

North-West and South-West Ireland.—Wind southerly, moderate or fresh locally; cloudy; perhaps drizzle or rain; moderate temperature; coastal mist or fog.

Irish Sea and St. George's Channel.—Wind southerly, moderate; mainly fair; perhaps local mist or fog; sea slight or moderate.

TATTOO REHEARSAL.

A spectacular display of unusual splendour was witnessed at the Curragh Camp last night, when a dress rehearsal was given of the tattoo and pageant which are to be given at Lansdowne road during Civic Week in Dublin.

LONDON LETTER.

THE KING'S PLANS.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

The King's departure for Sandringham was witnessed by huge crowds. It was a triumphant progress from the Palace to the railway station through miles of hearty cheering. This was the first time people had a chance of seeing the King since the Thanksgiving Service on July 6, and the second occasion since the beginning of his prolonged illness last November. He evidently was highly gratified by the great reception which London and its visitors gave him, and the spectators were equally grateful at His Majesty's appearance, which pronounced him well on the road to complete recovery. A satisfactory feature of the journey was that it was possible to dispense with the attendance of both doctor and nurse. Many rumours are current concerning the winter programme, but nothing has yet been settled in that direction. One suggests a long visit to the West to recuperate on the "Cornish Riviera," and another that the choice will lie with the Duke of Connaught's villa on the shores of the Mediterranean.

The Hague.

Mr. Snowden's already attenuated patience is evidently near breaking point. Hence his peremptory Note to the representatives of the other Powers at The Hague to put definitely on paper without further delay exactly what is their last word on the matter in dispute. The private conversations, which have been in progress avowedly for the purpose of easing the situation, seem to have resolved into a decorous and friendly game of financial hide and seek. Speaking broadly, they have achieved nothing, and there is little enough prospect of their now proving more than of a blind alley order, though at one time they inspired hopes of providing a way out of the present dilemma. The conference has now been in session for something like three weeks with nothing done, as a settlement of the Young Plan was to be the prelude to general business. The meeting of the League of Nations is due in another week.

Situation in Palestine.

The disturbing elements reported from Palestine have met with prompt military action. The situation is unquestionably a grave one, as the High Commissioner, Sir John Chancellor, is not a man to request armed assistance unless the need were imperative. Consequent on the bitter feud in that part of the world between the Jews and the Arabs, trouble has been smouldering for a long time. All the patient, placatory efforts of the authorities on the spot succeeded in delaying but not preventing an open clash. Spasmodic incidents of the past week or so have culminated in large scale rioting and fighting, and it is to be hoped that the naval and military aids, despatched from Malta and Egypt, respectively, will be in time to get the situation in hand and prevent the disturbances spreading. The Government are taking a sufficiently serious view of the position to call emergency meetings of the Cabinet.

Naval Disarmament.

Indications on both sides of the Atlantic are not wanting as to the success of Mr. Macdonald's coming visit to America. The date of his departure is still indefinite, but it is generally understood that he will leave about the last week in next month, unless the unforeseen should happen. Developments abroad and on the foreign horizon are not as clear as one could wish, and might result in the projected meeting with Mr. Hoover being cancelled, at any rate for the present, though postponement would cause great disappointment both in the United States and here. There is a strong impression that naval reduction will be brought about, not by scrapping existing vessels, but rather by non-replacement of those reaching the age limit during the next six years, and abandoning the construction programmes that have been authorised. As soon as the Anglo-American plan has been formulated it will be submitted to a general conference, to which the other Powers will be invited.

The Royal Dockyards.

Rumour is prevalent in all the three great dockyard towns that the Government contemplate closing down one of those national establishments, and grave fears are felt as to which of them is to share the fate of Pembroke and Rosyth. People are not blinking at the transparent fact that if the great Powers agree to further naval reductions, then the dockyards will be "surplus to requirements." No efforts seem to have been made to provide the yards with the alternative work which was promised to take the place of the abandoned ship building programme, and they are badly handicapped in the matter of tendering for private construction by their remoteness from the great industrial centres, where materials are produced. Gloomy in the extreme is the outlook for these establishments, and, based on certain significant official inquiries, which have been made at Portsmouth, Devonport and Chatham, there is strong feeling in those localities that the Government would close down at least one of the yards forthwith but for the resultant unemployment that would be caused.

The Schneider Cup.

With Italy's withdrawal from the Schneider Cup race, following the Royal Aero Club's refusal to postpone that event, and, if America does not participate, her entry still being doubtful, the British team will have a walk over. At the same time, however, they would make a big effort to beat the world's seaplane speed "record." Profound sympathy is felt for Italy in the irreparable loss she has sustained by the tragic fate of Captain Motta, but the Aero Club had no option to refusing postponement, being bound by the rigid rules of the International Aeronautical Federation. Besides, they had to consider the thousands of people who have made arrangements, involving money obligations, to witness the race and the losses to those catering for them if the fixture did not take place.

The Post Office.

By making greater use of motor vehicles the Post Office has been enabled to expedite the collection and delivery of correspondence throughout the country. Credit for this development is really due to the Conservative Government; for it was under the direction of Sir W. Mitchell-Thomson that it was inaugurated. In large centres most of the mail matter is carried by motor cars, with an intermediate service of motor cycles with sidecars, while in smaller urban districts motor cycles with sidecars do most of the work. There are some districts, however, where solo motor cycles are more suitable, and they are being increasingly used in rural areas. Postal workers, however, have not taken kindly to the use of solo machines, and, in response to representations, the Post Office will, where possible, arrange for sidecar machines where normal weight to be carried exceeds fifty-five pounds.

THE EARL OF IVEAGH.

The Earl of Iveagh, who is cruising with a party round the coast of Ireland, called at Bantry last Friday, when much attention was attracted by the yacht, which may be described as a miniature palace, and cost about £70,000.

LONDON TO ORANMORE.

COLONEL RUSSELL DESCRIBES HIS FLIGHT.

ADVENTURES BY THE WAY

CONFIDENCE IN TO-DAY'S AIR MAIL JOURNEY.

COLONEL CHARLES RUSSELL on his Vickers aeroplane arrived at Baldonnel at 2.30 p.m. yesterday, lunched while the machine was re-fuelled, and then flew to Oranmore Aerodrome, Co. Galway, whence this morning he will start on his experimental flight with mails to London.

The flight from London to Dublin was not lacking in adventure. A slight accident befell the Vickers at the start on Friday, and the flight, therefore, was delayed. On Saturday the machine took off, but was forced down by the bad weather near Newbridge-on-Wye, Radnorshire. Yesterday, however, Colonel Russell completed the journey in good time.

At Oranmore he was welcomed with enthusiasm by people from all parts of the county. He was greatly pleased with the machine's behaviour.

Colonel Russell this morning will carry mails brought from New York by the liner Karlsruhe, and a bag of Free State mails from Galway, and, if all goes well, he hopes to bring a bag of mails from London in time to catch the Karlsruhe this afternoon.

At night he will be a guest of honour at a banquet in the Hotel Royal, Galway.

AT GALWAY IN SCHEDULED TIME.

GALWAY, Sunday Night.

Everything is in readiness for the first experimental air mail flight from Galway to London and back, which will be undertaken by Colonel Charles Russell to-morrow morning. Despite the many unforeseen difficulties that Colonel Russell encountered during the early stages of the journey to Galway from Weybridge Aerodrome, near London, he arrived at Oranmore Aerodrome before the scheduled time.

It was 4.45 o'clock when he flew over the aerodrome, which he described to me this evening.

"As you know, I left Dublin for London on Thursday night to take over the machine," said Colonel Russell. "Early on Friday afternoon, with Captain Summers as my assistant pilot, I set off from Weybridge Aerodrome with the machine. As we were taxi-ing down the field for the take-off one of the tyres burst, and the nose of the aeroplane tilted over, with the result that the propellor was damaged. Our wing was not injured, as has been stated. We were then held up for repairs until the following day, and it was just as well, as the weather was atrocious, even though we could have made Baldonnel despite it.

"We started off again on Saturday at about 3.30 p.m., and encountered rather miserable weather, so that when we got to Rugby we were down over the wireless poles, and I decided to go further South and fly across the Irish Sea from Fishguard, as I thought that conditions would be more favourable there. We got down into the Welsh hills, but the weather was worse than ever, and as we were dodging around about twenty feet above the ground we got into a valley, out of which we could not rise. There was nothing for it but to land in a small field near Newbridge-on-Wye, Radnorshire, and stay there for the night.

"This morning, at 11 o'clock, we took-off for Sealands Aerodrome, which was about sixty-five miles away, to re-fuel. Leaving Sealands, at 1.30 p.m. we arrived at Baldonnel under an hour and five minutes, after a good crossing. At Baldonnel we remained for lunch and to re-fuel, leaving there at about 4.15, and barely half-an-hour later we arrived over Oranmore Aerodrome. The machine behaved splendidly all the time, and I am very pleased with it.

LIKE IRELAND.

"I must say," continued Colonel Russell, "that I found the Welsh people very like the Irish. I was astonished, and one might have as well been in Ireland. They were most hospitable and kind. The whole village turned out to help us to get our machine weather-tight for the night, as we were up to our knees in Welsh mud. An extraordinary coincidence was that the townland in which we landed was called Ireland."

Colonel Russell said that he had every confidence in the success of the flight to-morrow morning. Its main purpose was to demonstrate that to carry mails by air from liners from Galway to London was practicable and profitable, and that considerably over a day's time would be saved thereby.

THE MACHINE.

The machine that Colonel Russell is using is a Vickers, fitted with a 500 horse power Rolls-Royce Condor-Vixen engine. It is capable of a maximum speed of 174 miles an hour, though the maximum cruising speed at a reasonable height is 160 miles an hour. It is a machine of fine lines and great wing space, and can carry, in addition to the pilot and assistant pilot, 200 pounds of mail.

All Galway turned out this afternoon to meet Colonel Russell on his arrival in glorious weather at Oranmore. From all parts of the county people came by motor car, and fully a hundred cars were parked in the aerodrome and on the road outside, while many hundreds of people crowded the side of the field.

For a time a remarkable scene of animation was witnessed. Already one Moth aeroplane from Dublin was on the field, and when Colonel Russell arrived it was seen that he was followed by a small red aeroplane. Before he landed, Colonel Russell flew over Galway Town at a tremendous speed, doing a steep banking turn, and then flying back to the aerodrome, to make a perfect landing. Almost as soon as he had landed, the red aeroplane touched the ground, and pulled up, and out jumped a man without goggles, helmet or flying suit. When I questioned him, he said that his name was Mr. G. F. E. Story, and that he lived in Ireland. He had brought over his own Moth light aeroplane about three weeks ago, and had kept it at Baldonnel Aerodrome. He was down at Loughrea staying for the week-end with some friends, and was up flying when he saw the strange machine making for Galway. He decided to follow it, and was delighted to find that it was the Galway-London air mail 'plane.

A GREAT RECEPTION.

Colonel Russell was given a great cheer on stepping out of the aeroplane, and was received by the Reception Committee, headed by Mr. Martin MacDonogh, T.D. The crowds swarmed round the aeroplane, and the Civic Guards had difficulty in keeping them clear of it. In a few minutes the three machines were lined up side by side, and they were viewed as objects of curiosity until the darkness fell. The people were very orderly, however, and the machines were not tampered with in any way.

Hundreds of letters continue to pour into Galway Post Office for transmission by to-morrow's air mail, and it is expected that a full load will be carried. The North German Lloyd liner Karlsruhe will arrive in Galway Bay at about four or five o'clock in the morning. She will be met by a fast motor launch, which will take aboard a special bag of mails and rush it back to Galway Harbour. Thence a motor car will speed with the mails to Oranmore aerodrome, where Colonel Russell's machine will be in readiness. He hopes to get off by seven o'clock in the morning, and to make the flight to London in three hours. The weather prospects are good. In London he will refuel immediately, will take aboard another bag of mails, prepared by the British Post Office authorities, and bring them back to Galway. He expects to arrive at Galway on his return flight at about four o'clock in the afternoon at latest.

THE BANQUET.

President Cosgrave will be present at a banquet to be given in the Hotel Royal to-morrow night in celebration of the first experimental air mail flight from Galway to London and back. Colonel Charles Russell will be one of the guests of honour. A hundred people will be present, and among them will be the Most Rev. Dr. Fogarty, Bishop of Killaloe; Sir John Purser Griffith, the well-known engineer; Sir Walter Nugent, General Caddel, managing director of Vickers, Ltd.; Mr. George Ridgway, Dublin manager of Vickers; Mr. M. R. Heffernan, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Posts and Telegraphs; Mr. W. J. Mares, general manager of the Dublin Dockyard Company; Dr. Oliver St. John Gogarty, member of the Senate; Mr. T. J. O'Connell, T.D., leader of the Labour Party in the Dail; Mr. R. J. Kelly, K.C.; the Bishop of Galway, and others.

Mr. Cosgrave has intimated that he will motor to Galway to-morrow, in company with the Bishop of Killaloe and two other distinguished ecclesiastics.

Mr. Martin MacDonogh, T.D., Chairman of the Galway Harbour Commissioners, will preside at the banquet.

A PILOT PLANE.

At 1.30 o'clock this afternoon a pilot aeroplane arrived from Baldonnel Aerodrome, carrying an aerial photographer, and piloted by a member of the Irish Aero Club. The machine made the flight from Baldonnel to Oranmore in one hour twenty-five minutes, and the pilot stated that the weather was perfect. This evening the machine went up for the purpose of taking aerial photographs of Galway City and harbour, the Connemara coast and islands and Lough Corrib. To-morrow it will take pictures of the arrival of the liner Karlsruhe and the departure of the air mail 'plane from Oranmore. The pilot then proposes to accompany the air mail machine to Baldonnel.

THE ARRIVAL AT BALDONNEL.

Colonel Charles Russell's aeroplane was first sighted over Baldonnel Aerodrome shortly after two o'clock p.m., and at 2.30 a perfect landing had been made. Colonel Russell and Captain Summers were congratulated by members of the Irish Aero Club, who were present to meet them.

Interviewed by an Irish Times representative, Colonel Russell spoke of the circumstances which induced him to make the landing in Wales, saying that he thought the landing was the wiser course. The machine, he said, behaved splendidly. The weather during the trip from Newbridge-on-Wye was very fine, and the journey was made in good time. He had every confidence in the 'plane.

When Colonel Russell landed mechanics busied themselves in tuning up the engine of the aeroplane and refilling the tanks, while Colonel Russell and his companion snatched a hurried meal before continuing on their flight to Galway.

MOTOR CAR HITS LOCOMOTIVE.

ONE KILLED: THREE INJURED.

FROM "THE TIMES" OWN CORRESPONDENT.
PARIS, August 25.

M. Lucien Moritz, of Paris, was killed, and Miss Josephine Greve, an American; Mr. Henry Stirling, of Manchester, and M. Xavier Henriquet were injured early yesterday morning when their car dashed into a locomotive at a level crossing at Deauville. M. Henriquet is in a critical condition, but the injuries of the other two survivors are not considered serious.

The level crossing where the accident occurred is an open one, and is only guarded by a watcher, whose duty it is to stop traffic while trains are passing. M. Henriquet, who was, it is alleged, driving very fast, apparently failed to see the warning light, and the car struck the locomotive with terrific force, being completely wrecked.

THE KING AND QUEEN AT SANDRINGHAM.

MORNING WALK TO CHURCH.

People who assembled outside Sandringham Church yesterday morning in the expectation of seeing the Queen were astonished when they saw the King accompany her to attend the Service. Their Majesties appeared from a belt of trees surrounding Sandringham House, walking at a steady pace, the King making light use of his walking-stick. A member of the household told a Press representative that the King was looking as well yesterday as he had ever done since his illness began. His appearance was a pleasant surprise; he wore a carnation in the buttonhole of his blue overcoat, and smilingly raised his hat in acknowledgment of the salutations of the people.

The Queen was dressed in silver grey, with toque and furs to match. The weather was gloriously fine, and the King appeared to enjoy his walk in the crisp morning air.

After luncheon the King and Queen went for a drive in a motor brougham, and made a call at one of the home farms.

THE SCHNEIDER TROPHY.

POSITION OF ITALY UNCERTAIN.

THE RACE TO TAKE PLACE.

The position of Italy in regard to the Schneider Race is not clear. A London message states that Italy has withdrawn, while a Reuter message from Rome says it is Italy's intention to take part.

The Press Association says that an official message from the Italian Government was received by Lieutenant-Colonel P. F. Bitossi, the Italian Air Attaché in London, early yesterday, that the Italian Schneider Trophy team had withdrawn from the contest.

"The communicaton I have received indicates that the decision not to compete is final," Lieutenant-Colonel Bitossi said, "and it will be passed on as soon as possible to the Royal Aero Club, under whose auspices the race was to have been decided."

The race for the Schneider Trophy, which Great Britain wrested from Italy at Venice in 1927, was to have been flown over the Solent on Septemebr 7. France and Germany have already withdrawn from the contest, and the solitary American machine which is entered for the race is an extremely doubtful starter.

Italy's decision to withdraw follows the death of Captain Guiseppe Motta, their chief pilot, while practising on Lake Garda, and the fact that it has been found impossible by the British authorities to postpone the race.

"The message from Rome is a very laconic one, vouchsafing no details," Lieutenant-Colonel Bitossi told the Press Association later. "It simply states that the Italian team will not be coming to Calshot, as it has been decided to withdraw altogether from the contest."

NO DECISION YET.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
ROME, Sunday.

No decision has yet been taken on the question of whether Italy shall withdraw from the Schneider Cup, but according to trustworthy reports the present intention is that she shall take part in the contest.

RACE TO TAKE PLACE.

Colonel M. O'Gorman, Chairman of the Schneider Trophy Race Committee of the Royal Aero Club, informed the Press Association last night that, in the event of Italy's withdrawal from the contest, the race would still take place.

"The race," he said, "will be decided on the date fixed for it, and the public may witness a first-class thrilling spectacle. Even if there were no other competitors, the three British 'planes would still take part in the race."

NEW ENGINE FOR AMERICAN 'PLANE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
PHILADELPHIA, Saturday.

The necessity that Lieutenant William, United States entry for the Schneider Cup race, should make some sort of a show here before sailing to England resulted in the shipment to him to-day of the 24-cylinder engine which the backers of the flight originally intended to have quietly installed in the Mercury Racer during the sea voyage. The new engine is said to be the most powerful ever built, and to be capable, with super-charger, of developing 1,500 horse-power.

BRITISH SEAMAN DROWNED.

MOTOR CAR FALLS INTO BELGIAN CANAL.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
BRUSSELS, Sunday.

Four seamen from the British steamer Apple Leaf were being taken for a drive along the Ghent-Terneuzen Canal by a Rotterdam lawyer named Wessels, when the car ran into a telegraph post and fell into the canal.

Three of the seamen saved themselves by swimming, but the fourth, Parry Harding, aged thirty, of Portsmouth, and M. Wessels were drowned.

TROOP 'PLANE CRASH AT CAIRO.

THREE KILLED AND THREE INJURED.

Three airmen were killed when a Vickers Victoria troop-carrying aeroplane crashed at Heliopolis Aerodrome, Cairo, on Saturday. They were: Sergeant John Melville (first pilot), Pilot Officer John Wilson (second pilot), and Leading Aircraftsman Charles Ernest Langan (a member of the crew).

Three members of the crew were injured:—

Leading Aircraftsman Mervyn Henry Creed—Dangerously injured; fractured base of skull and occiput.

First-class Aircraftsman Frank Wilfred Mabbet—Dangerously injured; fractured femur and multiple head injuries.

Sergeant Sydney Deacon—Slightly injured; concussion, shock and abrasion to lower limbs.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT IN GERMANY.

EIGHT KILLED AND 30 SERIOUSLY INJURED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
COLOGNE, Sunday.

Eight passengers were killed and thirty seriously injured as a result of an accident to the Paris-Warsaw express just as it was entering the station at Buir, near Dueren, at eight o'clock this morning.

The accident occurrrd at a place where the line is under repairs, and is believed to have been due to the driver failing to reduce speed sufficiently. The locomotive and luggage vans left the rails, and were followed by the passenger carriages and sleeping car, which were telescoped with such force that it was impossible to open the doors. The rescue parties had to cut their way through the roofs of the carriages.

The number of dead is officially stated to be eight, while thirty injured persons have been taken to hospital. The killed and injured were mostly French and Poles, but there were a few Germans and one American. Among the French were the members of a French swimming club, who were on their way to Berlin and Warsaw to take part in swimming contests.

There were no British among the killed.

PRIVY COUNCIL APPEALS.

SOUTH AFRICAN OPINION.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
JOHANNESBURG, Sunday.

The Sunday Times, of Johannesburg, says it understands that when the Imperial Conference meets in London next year the Irish delegates will have the full support of the South African representatives in pressing for the abolition of the practice of appeals to the Privy Council from the Dominions.

TRAM DISPUTE DEADLOCK.

ARBITRATION NOT FAVOURED.

NEW PEACE EFFORT.

TRAM DIRECTORS' BREAK SILENCE.

It is understood that the proposal for arbitration advanced by the Ministry of Industry and Commerce as a means of settling the Dublin tramway strike has been rejected on the ground that no useful purpose would be served by arbitration.

On this, the twelfth day of the strike, the men remain as firm as ever in their determination to resist any reduction in wages.

During the week-end, however, there were abundant signs of a desire on the part of the men's leaders to bring the dispute to an end. Other influences have been at work, and the indications are that a really serious effort will be made early this week to end the deadlock and bring about a resumption of the tram service.

While a meeting of the men on strike was in progress in the Trades Hall, Capel street on Saturday afternoon, Mr. T. J. O'Connell, T.D., leader of the Irish Labour Party, entered the building in some haste. Almost immediately the meeting ended and Mr. O'Connell reappeared with officials of the union. They left the building before they could be questioned by Press representatives, and hurried away.

It was gathered that something was "in the wind." Later, it was given out that Mr. O'Connell and Mr. T. J. McKenna, Chairman of the Dublin Trades and Labour Council, were "endeavouring to secure support for a basis on which work might be resumed"; but on Saturday night Mr. O'Connell stated that they had not succeeded.

While the Labour Party's intervention appears to have failed to bring a settlement of the dispute any nearer, peace moves from outside, however, have not been abandoned.

A MEETING TO-DAY.

It is learned that a Senator interested in the public's plight has convened a meeting, to be held at 12 o'clock noon to-day, to discuss the situation. The whole circumstances of the tramway stoppage will be reviewed exhaustively, and every effort will be made to find a solution of the problem with which the Tramways Company is faced, so that the service can be resumed forthwith.

A COURT OF INQUIRY.

It was stated in the Irish Times on Saturday that pressure was being brought to bear on the Government with a view to setting up a court of inquiry to investigate the whole question of transport, while the Dublin tramway service was continued at the status quo, and the suggestion was put forward that this proposal would be acceptable to the men.

Now, it is learned on good authority that the strikers would be willing to return to work to-morrow on such an understanding.

The meeting of the men which was held on Saturday was addressed by Messrs. Cliffe, Kershaw, Berry and Gleave, of the Executive, and Messrs. Dempsey and O'Neill, Chairman and ex-Chairman, respectively, of the Dublin Branch of the Amalgamated Transport and General Workers' Union. The men re-affirmed their decision to have nothing to do with arbitration, since it meant agreeing with the principle of a reduction of wages, but indicated that they were prepared to enter into an inquiry into the entire question of transport in the City and County of Dublin.

STATEMENT BY TRAM DIRECTORS.

REPLY TO CITY COMMISSIONERS.

We are asked by the Directors of the Dublin United Tramways Company to publish the following:—

"The Directors of the Dublin United Tramways Company have deliberately refrained from public comment on the Press reports and correspondence published, although in them the position and attitude of the company have been frequently misrepresented. The Board adopted this course because they felt that their intervention would be merely prolonging discussion on wide aspects of the company's grievances, and obscuring the only issue between the company and its men—viz., that of wages.

"The directors' silence must not be taken as in any way ignoring or belittling the recent unexaggerated exposition in the Press of the grave and unfair burdens compulsorily endured by the company without any prospect of early relief.

"The 'official' communiqué published in the Press of Friday last of the Dublin City Commissioners is one, however, which the Tramways Company cannot permit to pass unchallenged.

"In calling attention to the fact that the net profits shown in the company's accounts for the year 1928 exceeded those of the previous year 1927, this fact was stated with the avowed object of suggesting that it was incorrect to represent the company's financial position as becoming seriously unsatisfactory.

THE ACCOUNTS EXAMINED.

"It is to be regretted that the Commissioners, before committing themselves to this conclusion, did not examine the accounts to which they referred. They would have seen that despite the alleged improvement of 1928 the dividend paid to the shareholders for that year was less than that paid for 1927. Further, they would have observed that there was a very decided and significant fall in the tramway receipts of 1928 as compared with 1927, and a very substantial reduction in expenditure; and, if they had desired to give the fullest information to the public on the subject of the company's position, they might have referred to the fact that the directors were obliged to withhold for the first time in the company's history the usual half-yearly dividend for the half year ending June last, and that this passing of the dividend was directly due to the state of the company's accounts for the half-year ending 30th June. The actual position of the company was disclosed to the men's representatives, and has not been controverted by them.

"Seeing that the Commissioners declare themselves to be opposed to any removal or abatement of way-leaves—whatever the condition of the Tramways Company's accounts—the company feels entitled to remark that the reference to the company's financial position, even if the reference had not been misleading, appears to them, at least, uncalled for.

"The gratuitous advice of the Commissioners on the subject of settlement by arbitration was also unnecessary, so far as the company is concerned. The subject has not been overlooked, and the company has only to say that in that regard no reproach can be levelled at its directors."

FATAL ACCIDENTS IN CORK.

OMNIBUS DASHES INTO CROWD.

PEDESTRIAN AND CYCLIST KILLED.

Four pedestrians—two men and two women—were seriously injured when an omnibus mounted a crowded pavement in Cork on Saturday night. One of the injured men died almost immediately.

The accident occurred at about 10.30 p.m., when an omnibus, the property of the Irish General Omnibus Company, was about to enter Bridge street, and when the driver, in endeavouring to avoid a collision with an oncoming car, suddenly jammed his brakes. The 'bus swerved and, mounting the footpath, crashed into four pedestrians, fatally injuring one and injuring the others.

The dead man is Denis Murphy, aged 22, a native of Rathmore, Co Kerry, who was employed at the Ford factory. He received such severe internal injuries that he succumbed almost immediately.

Two of the three injured people are sisters named O'Keeffe, and the third is Thomas Honan. Many passers-by had narrow escapes.

Another fatal accident occurred yesterday, when a cyclist, Michael Reilly, aged 28, a mill worker, of Shannon Vale, collided with a Carbery 'bus and was fatally injured at the Pike Cross, about two miles from Clonakilty.

BRIGHTER OUTLOOK AT THE HAGUE.

IMPORTANT CONCESSIONS TO BRITAIN?

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
THE HAGUE, Sunday.

The delegates of the four Powers, after conferring for four hours, this evening adjourned their deliberations until 9.30 to-night. It is learned that they now believe that they can satisfy Mr. Snowden to the extent of 75 per cent. of his claims.

Italy, it is understood, is prepared to give up £500,000 of her unconditional annuities, whilst the other Powers are prepared to surrender £1,300,000 of their share of the annuities.

An unusually hopeful atmosphere prevails throughout The Hague now. The optimists, for a change, are in a majority, and believe that next Thursday at the latest will see the successful conclusion of the Conference, which has been so replete with dramatic incidents.

The Chancellor spent to-day motoring in the country. A prompt denial was issued to the rumours current here that Mr. Ramsay Macdonald was going to meet the Chancellor during the week-end somewhere in Holland to discuss the situation with him, and it was emphasised that Mr. Snowden has an entirely free hand and enjoys the full support of the Prime Minister and of the Cabinet in whatever action he may think fit to take.

ZEPPELIN'S WORLD TOUR.

AIRSHIP NEARING SAN FRANCISCO.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
NEW YORK, Sunday.

At six o'clock this evening (Eastern standard time) the Graf Zeppelin was 520 nautical miles from San Francisco.

She is travelling at the rate of sixty miles an hour, and is expected to reach San Francisco at about ten o'clock this evening (Eastern standard time).

NAVAL PARITY.

A FORECAST FROM WASHINGTON.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
WASHINGTON, Saturday.

Naval parity, or parity between the United States and Great Britain, is expected in informed quarters here, to be attained between 1934 and 1940.

It is pointed out that 1936 would be the logical time, as 65,000 tons of small British cruisers laid down between 1910 and 1916 will then be completely obsolete.

Reports that an agreement or an accord on the problem has been reached are, however, described as premature.

Overwhelming support for the President's policy of naval reduction is voiced in letters received at the White House and the State Department on the subject. About 1,500 communications have been received so far.

RUSH FOR OMNIBUSES.

SOME PEOPLE CRUSHED.

The absence of tramway cars was keenly felt in Dublin yesterday, when six special trains brought people to the city for a hurling match and a number of football matches.

At the railway termini there were exciting rushes for omnibuses, and in some cases people were badly crushed. The number of conveyances available could only accommodate a fraction of the crowd of visitors, and most of them had to walk to the sports grounds from the stations.

Early in the afternoon omnibus termini in different parts of the city were very congested, and it was with difficulty one could obtain a seat. At Eden quay, during a rush by a crowd of people for an omnibus, a man was knocked down and his leg was injured. He narrowly escaped being crushed by a 'bus wheel.

ELECTION OF KILKENNY COUNCILLOR.

THE OLD SYSTEM OF VOTING.

The election of a councillor on the Kilkenny Corporation for St. John's Ward resulted as follows:—

Mr. John Kenna (Business), 359; Matthew O'Keeffe (Independent), 302; James Leahy (Labour), 203; William A. Cox (Independent), 6.

The vacancy was created by the disqualification of Mr. Patrick Walsh (Labour) by reason of his having absented himself from meetings of the Corporation for over six months. The election was carried out under the old system of marking the ballot paper with an X.

SURPRISE POLICE RAID.

FRENCH TRAWLERS SEARCHED.

The crews of a number of French fishing trawlers, which were lying at anchor off Arranmore Island, County Donegal, had a surprise in the early hours of Friday morning, when a large party of Civic Guards and detectives boarded the vessels from a motor boat, which had conveyed them from Arranmore Island. The police, it is understood, searched the vessels for goods alleged to have been smuggled; but it is not stated whether any were found.

The police returned to the island, and a number of houses was searched, and a large quantity of spirits, on which, it is alleged, Revenue duty had not been paid, was found.

A Customs and Excise officer and an interpreter accompanied the police in the searches.

It is understood that a number of prosecutions will follow.

LATE NEWS.

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH THE TIMES.

THE JERUSALEM UNREST.

GOVERNMENT'S PROMPT MEASURES.

In a leading article on Jerusalem, The Times to-day observes:—The despatch of warships and troops to Palestine might seem out of proportion to the occasion if it were only a question of suppressing the recent disorders in Jerusalem; these, though serious, could probably have been dealt with effectually by the small local forces, if there was nothing more behind them. But clearly the purpose for which these considerable forces have been despatched is not so much to quell streets riots as to bring home to actual and potential rioters that overwhelming force is available to keep the peace, and that it would be used if its employment were needed. The ships and the airmen and the soldiers have been sent very much as the police are called out in times of disturbance—to show would-be authors of mischief that they are available.

The promptitude with which the Government have acted cannot but increase the significance of the step, and increase its salutary effect. Fifty men sent by air from Egypt on Saturday reached Jerusalem the same day, and a composite battalion of 600 arrived on Sunday. The impartial intentions of the Palestine Government are sufficiently shown by the invitation they have issued to the Arab leaders to confer with them, and the warning which accompanied it, as by the announcement that they are ready to receive deputations from the different communities.

The legal situation of the British Government, proceeds The Times, is laid down by the mandate for Palestine. That of the Palestine Government has the same source. The Mandatory Power is, of course, answerable for the maintenance of law and order, and special responsibilities are imposed upon it to ensure to all complete freedom of conscience and the free exercise of all forms of religious worship, subject only to the maintenance of public order and morals. Nothing, it is expressly declared, should be done which might prejudice the civil and religious rights of existing non-Jewish communities. Last year the Mandatory Government and the Palestine Government had to apply these principles to the question of Wailing Wall in circumstances foreshadowing those of this month. The facts and the conclusion reached are stated in the documents submitted to the Mandates Commission of the League of Nations last October. The British Government declare that the Wall is legally the absolute property of the Moslem community, and the strip of pavement facing it is Wakf property. The Jews have established a right of access to the pavement for purposes of devotion; but the Turks, when they were masters of Palestine, repeatedly ruled that they would not permit the bringing of chairs and benches to the pavement. Screens, it is said, were forbidden in 1912. The Jewish use was, in fact, a strictly limited use. The Mandatory Power and the Palestine Government naturally feel bound to preserve the status quo, as they found it. The Moslems complain that the Jews have been trying to extend the limits of this use bit by bit, and to encroach upon the right of the owners.

The Palestine Government found as a fact that last year, on the Day of Atonement, the Jews had made an innovation on the established practice, which they were obliged to abate by the hands of the police.

Both Governments and the Zionist organisation have stated their opinion that the only solution of the problem of the Wailing Wall is to be found in an agreement. That would certainly be the best solution, and it may be the sole solution of the great underlying problem of Palestine, of which this sectarian dispute is a symptom. In the circumstances, such an agreement must needs be an imposed agreement, and it should be imposed before any fresh rights and sanctions are allowed to grow up by possession or custom. Meanwhile, the stages leading up to something like a premeditated outbreak require prompt and impartial investigation. Measures of this kind are the plain duty of the Mandatory Power and of the Palestine Government, whose whole raison d'être is to keep the peace between the conflicting races and creeds of the Holy Land.

MEDICAL TREATMENT OF CHILDREN.

FERMANAGH REGIONAL COMMITTEE'S SCHEME.

At the monthly meeting of the Fermanagh Regional Education Committee a new scheme for the treatment of the eyes and teeth of school children was considered, also the further treatment of surgical cases. The minutes of the special meeting in Committee stated that the Committee recommended that for eye treatment the schools medical officer was to be empowered to consult an eye specialist with a view to securing his services when required, and that the scheme for eye treatment be given a six months' trial; an eye clinic to be established in the County Hospital, and the part-time services of one of the nurses there to be obtained.

The Committee also recommended the employment of a dentist (part-time) for dental treatment at a fee of 10s. per hour of actual work done, and a travelling allowance of 5d. per mile to be made to and from centres; further, an annual allowance of £25 for use of instruments and drugs; equipment to be provided where necessary, one set only of a portable type to be purchased, and dental treatment to be provided at suitable centres. The fees chargeable to parents in all cases to be one-half the cost of treatment, where parents can afford to pay.

The scheme was adopted. And further, on the motion of Sir Basil Brooke, Bart., seconded by Mr. A. Anderson, J.P., it was decided to approach the district nursing associations in the county to give the part-time services of their nurses as required to the School Medical Officer, in return for which £25 per annum would be paid in respect of each nurse assisting.

It was further agreed to have tonsils and adenoid cases treated at the County Hospital, but no charge to be made by the hospital where children, in the ordinary course, would be admitted on tickets and treated free.

CONSTABLE'S DEATH.

POLICE SEARCH FOR ASSAILANT.

No arrest has been made in connection with the tragic death on Saturday of a London policeman. The police are anxious to find a hatless man who was seen to run away.

LIMERICK GASWORKS.

APPEAL AGAINST VALUATION

Judge McElligott, at Limerick, delivered considered judgment in an appeal by the Limerick Municipal Gas Committee against the valuation of £2,100 placed on the gas concern by the Commissioners' valuation. The appeal was heard at the last sitting of the Circuit Court.

The Judge reduced the valuation to £780.

A boy, aged seven years, John Dixon, 85 Northcote avenue, Kingstown, was knocked down by a motor car yesterday evening at Williamstown, Blackrock. He sustained injuries to the head.

RIOTS SPREAD IN PALESTINE.

45 JEWS KILLED AT HEBRON.

RABBIS AMONG THE DEAD.

BRITISH TROOPS SENT BY AEROPLANE

The Jew-Arab riots in Palestine have spread beyond Jerusalem. At Hebron forty-five Jews have been killed, including two rabbis, and forty-seven wounded. The number of Jews who have been killed or have died of wounds in Jerusalem was yesterday stated to be twenty-one.

Mr. E. T. Best, Inspector of the Immigration and Travel Section, was killed by rifle fire while on patrol as a special constable in a Jewish suburb of Jerusalem. Two Oxford undergraduates have been injured in the riots.

Martial law has been proclaimed in Jerusalem, and two battalions of troops are being despatched to the scene. Two officers and fifty men of the South Wales Borderers arrived by aeroplane, and six hundred reached the city by train from Egypt. 'Planes have fired on fanatical native villages.

Two battleships left Malta for Palestine on Saturday.

ARRIVAL OF BRITISH TROOPS.

NATIVE VILLAGES FIRED ON FROM 'PLANES.

The following communiqué was issued by the War Office in London on Saturday:—

"In view of local disturbances in Palestine, the General Officer Commanding the British troops in Egypt, at the request of the High Commissioner for Palestine, and with the concurrence of the Acting High Commissioner for Egypt, has despatched by air a detachment of British troops fifty strong, and is sending a composite battalion by rail to-night."

[According to the latest Army List the British troops in Egypt are under the command of Lieutenant-General Sir E. Peter Strickland. The infantry regiments forming the Cairo Brigade are the First Battalion Welsh Guards, First Battalion South Wales Borderers and First Battalion Gloucester Regiment. In the Canal Brigade are First Battalion King's Regiment, Second Battalion Green Howards and First Battalion Durham Light Infantry, while there is a cavalry brigade which includes the Royals, the 10th Hussars and the 12th Lancers.]

"Colonial Office, Saturday.

"Immediate action is being taken which will enable the local authorities to restore and maintain order."

DESPATCH OF WARSHIPS.

On Saturday also the Admiralty published the following statement:—

"H.M.S. Barham and H.M.S. Sussex are sailing from Malta to-day for Palestine at the request of the High Commissioner."

[The Barham is a battleship of 27,500 tons, attached to the First Battle Squadron. She is the flagship of Rear-Admiral R. A. R. Plunkett-Ernle-Erle-Drax, commanding the First Battle Squadron. The Sussex is a cruiser of 10,000 tons, attached to the First Cruiser Squadron of the Mediterranean Fleet. Her principal armament is eight 8-inch guns and four 4-inch.]

TROOPS SENT BY AEROPLANE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
CAIRO, Sunday.

With reference to the despatch of British troops from Cairo to Jerusalem, it is officially announced that, in view of the inter-communal disturbances in Jerusalem, it was decided yesterday by the authorities concerned to despatch a battalion for temporary duty in Palestine in co-operation with the Air Force.

Two officers and fifty men of the South Wales Borderers left Heliopolis shortly after noon in four troop-carrying 'planes, arriving at the aerodrome near Jerusalem late in the afternoon, after covering nearly three hundred miles. The remainder of the troops—namely, three companies of South Wales Borderers from Cairo and one of Green Howards, with a section of sappers from Ismailia—left in two special trains later.

ANOTHER BATTALION.

The War Office last night issued the following communiqué to the Press:—"10.15 p.m. At the request of the High Commissioner for Palestine, the Governor and Commander-in-Chief, Malta, has been instructed to despatch the 2nd Battalion South Staffs Regiment to Palestine."

The Press Association was informed at the Admiralty that H.M.S. aircraft carrier, Courageous, would convey the battalion to Palestine.

'PLANES FIRE ON VILLAGES.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
JERUSALEM, Sunday.

Six hundred British soldiers have arrived here from Egypt.

Aeroplanes have flown over Lifta, a small village near Jerusalem, and are reported to have fired upon the villagers. The village is known to contain fanatical natives, who have been prominent in the recent attacks on the Jewish population.

COLONIAL OFFICE STATEMENT.

JERUSALEM CASUALTIES NOT YET KNOWN.

The following statement on the situation in Palestine was issued from the Colonial Office in London last night:—"The Acting High Commissioner, Palestine, issued a communiqué on Saturday to the effect that disturbances had broken out in Jerusalem during the past twenty-four hours, and in other parts of Palestine, resulting in the destruction of life and property.

"The Government in Palestine were taking the necessary measures to restore order and were carrying out their duty of protecting the life and property of all the inhabitants without distinction, and would continue to do so until order was completely restored.

"The Acting High Commissioner added that the Government in Palestine was always prepared to receive deputations to represent the views and demands of the different communities, but that the restoration of law and order was the first essential.

OUTLYING PARTS ATTACKED.

"The Acting High Commissioner reports various attacks on outlying colonies during Friday night.

"On the morning of the 24th two companies of the trans-Jordan frontier force arrived at Allenby Bridge and Jisr Majamie respectively, the first with the object of preventing a possible contingent of trans-Jordan Arabs coming to Jerusalem, the second to guard the Rutenberg works and to keep order in Beisan and in the Jezreel Valley.

POLICE BARRACK ATTACKED.

"At Nablus on the same morning a crowd attempted to invade the police barracks, with the result that the police opened fire and there were eight casualties.

"There was a demonstration at Hebron which ended in the death of two Jews. The situation both at Nablus and Hebron is to some extent under control for the present.

"There was an Arab demonstration at Jaffa. The latest reports from Jaffa and Tel Aviv indicate that those places, while restless, are not disorderly.

"All is quiet at Haifa.

"It is regretted that Mr. E. T. Best, Inspector of the Immigration and Travel Section, was killed by rifle fire while on patrol as a special constable.

"The Acting High Commissioner states that the casualties in the recent disturbances at Jerusalem are at present unknown.

"As some doubt appears to have arisen as to the movement of troops to deal with the position, it is considered desirable to state that, up to the present, the troops which have been, or are being, sent to Palestine amount to two battalions."

BRITISH OFFICIAL'S DEATH.

OXFORD UNDERGRADUATES INJURED.

Reuter's Agency is informed that the Jewish Telegraph Agency has received the following cable from Palestine, despatched last evening, but delayed by Censor:—

"A British immigration officer of the Palestine Government, Mr. Best, was killed yesterday afternoon when repelling an assault on the Jewish suburb of Givatshoul. Mr. Best was reputed to be on friendly terms with the Jewish colony.

"Two Oxford undergraduates, now on a visit to Palestine, have been seriously injured, and three wounded Jews have died in hospital.

"The riots have spread from Jerusalem to Hebron, where there were several killed and injured. The Arabs during the night burned the Labour settlement of Gdud Avadah, near Jerusalem, and looted the suburb of Baitvegan. The suburb of Mekorchayim has also been assaulted.

RABBI'S APPEAL FOR HELP.

"The Chief Rabbi of Palestine, Dr. Kook, has sent the following telegram to Dr. Hertz, the Chief Rabbi of the British Empire: 'Palestine Jewry is in the greatest danger. Rush help.'"

The English official, Mr. Best, who was killed yesterday, was to have been married this week. All arrangements for the wedding had been completed.

Of the two Oxford students who were wounded one was named Wenny. The name of the second is still unknown.

HEBRON MASSACRE.

In Hebron forty-five Jews have been killed, and not forty as was previously stated, and forty-seven Jews have been wounded. It is rumoured that among those killed in Hebron there were many American citizens who have been studying in the Jewish College of Slobodka there. A woman was among those buried last night, having been killed by Arabs yesterday. She and fifteen other Jews were buried in one grave next to Ben Yehuda. Ben Yehuda was the founder of modern Hebrew, and he it was who, on the one hand, secularised the Hebrew language and made it possible for it to become the every-day speech of Palestine Jewry. His son, Ittimar Ben-Avi, was yesterday wounded by an Arab.

Invaluable books and priceless manuscrips, many of them unique, are stated to have been destroyed in the looting of Talpiot. Talpiot is the new and fashionable suburb outside Jerusalem. The books and manuscripts were in the libraries of Professor Joseph Klausner, the author of the Hebrew "Life of Jesus"; of Dr. Ephraim Epstein, Professor of the Hebrew University, and of the famous modern Hebrew writer, Shai Agnon.

In an attack by Arabs on Kelandia, a colony north of Jerusalem, four Arabs were killed.

At the colony of Emek Arazim, near Motza, where a family of six was yesterday murdered by Arabs, an attack was made which resulted in one Jew being seriously wounded.

The Government has invited the Arab leaders, including Musa Kazim and the Sheiks and Mukhtars of the surrounding villages, to confer with it, and at the same time has issued a warning against allowing any further riots.

In an official communiqué the Palestine Government states that it is taking measures to restore order, and that it has warned all sections of the population that they must desist from acts of violence and return to their normal occupations. The Government declares that it is ready to receive deputations from the different communities.

The representative of the Jewish National Council has asked Mr. Luke to allow the re-appearance of newspapers in Palestine, all of which were yesterday suspended. Mr. Luke has promised to consider the matter.

TWO RABBIS KILLED AT HEBRON.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
JERUSALEM, Sunday.

It is reported that forty-five Jews have been killed in Hebron, where there is a Jewish community, which has been in existence for hundreds of years. Among the killed are two Rabbis. Fifty Jews have been wounded.

During an attack made by the Arabs last night on the Orthodox suburb of Baitvegan, which is situated between Teli Evid and Tetach Tikvah, the Jewish police sergeant was killed.

The Government has ordered that the sixteen dead Jews in Jerusalem should be suitably buried during the night.

As a result of last night's riots two more Jews are lying dead in the Jewish hospital at Hadasseh.

Arabs also attacked the Colony of Nachleh, in the Valley of Israel, in the neighbourhood of Haifa, but their attack was repelled.

The number of Jews who have been killed or who have died of wounds in Jerusalem and district is now twenty-one, including the family of six Jews who were slaughtered in Motza. Seven more Arabs have been killed.

During the night remote Jewish quarters were attacked, including the famous Difkin Orphanage. The assault was repelled.

The Jewish police have been informed that Arabs from Hebron and Nablus are proceeding to Jerusalem to help the local Moslems. All shops and offices remain closed.

Herr Neumann, a German Christian, is among the seriously wounded.

RIOTS NEAR JAFFA.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
JERUSALEM, Sunday, Later.

Riots are also reported to have occurred in Tel Aviv, which is in the neighbourhood of Jaffa. One person has been killed, and thirteen injured, five gravely.

The funeral of the British official of the Immigration Department, Mr. Best, took place this afternoon. It was a quiet one, and only British officials were present. Mr. Best was a Roman Catholic.

LIBRARY DESTROYED.

The library of Mr. Agnon, which was destroyed to-day by Arab rioters, contained 3,000 valuable manuscripts and documents relating to the history of Palestine for the last three centuries. This is the second time that the library of Mr. Agnon, who is a noted Hebrew writer and poet, has been destroyed. The first time it was burned, and his entire work for eighteen years was destroyed. All the furniture of Mr. Agnon's villa in Talpioth was broken to pieces by the Arab rioters.

Despite the intensity and extent of the present outbreak of racial hatred between Arabs and Jews, it is not believed in quarters best qualified to express an opinion that the crisis is likely to endure much longer. Indeed, now that the troops have begun to arrive on the scene, it is felt that the authorities will quickly have the situation well in hand.

GRAND MUFTI WARNED.

The Jewish Telegraphic Agency cables from Jerusalem that the Palestine Government has warned the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem that he will be held responsible for any further riots. In the meantime, the Arab attacks on the Jewish quarters still continue. The modern Jewish quarter of Talpioth, a suburb of Jerusalem, has been looted by the Arabs.

The quarter of the Georgian Jews in Jerusalem, which has been deserted by its inhabitants in view of the fact that it is situated in the Arab neighbourhood, has been looted and partly burned by the Arabs. The Synagogue of that district has also been looted and burned by the Arabs.

The consuls of the various countries in Jerusalem have submitted protests to the Palestine Government insisting that energetic steps should be taken to restore order.

THREAT TO LORD DUNALLEY.

WOMAN ACCUSED.

At a special court, which was held in Silvermines, Nenagh, last Friday, before Mr. J. Hewitt, Peace Commissioner, Mrs. Margaret Carey, Silvermines, was charged with having, on August 12 sent a letter to Lord Dunalley, Kilboy House, threatening to kill him and burn his mansion unless he left a sum of £50 at a given place.

Lord Dunalley, on the receipt of the letter, sent his chauffeur with the £50, which he left on the doorstep of the accused woman's shop. In the meantime, he informed the Guards of the transaction, and Sergeant Lynch, of Dolla, kept watch on the house. A customer going into the shop of the accused woman picked up the parcel of money, which she handed to Mrs. Carey.

Sergeant Lynch immediately came from his hiding place and entered the shop, and after some questioning Mrs. Carey handed him the money.

The accused woman was remanded on bail of £100 to the next Nenagh District Court.

Lord and Lady Dunalley are very popular in the district, where Lord Dunalley is a large employer of labour.

THE PREMIER'S BUSY SUNDAY

LONG INTERVIEW WITH LORD READING.

The Prime Minister, despite his eventful and tiring journey by air from Lossiemouth on the previous day, rose early, and after a short morning walk, spent almost the whole of yesterday at 10 Downing street, conferring with colleagues, State officials and others. Mr. Macdonald's first visitor was Mr. A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, who arrived at eleven o'clock with a bulky leather document case. The two were conversing for the greater part of the morning.

Lord Thomson, the Air Minister, also visited Mr. Macdonald. Just before three o'clock the Marquis of Reading was ushered into No. 10, and the arrival of the Liberal peer caused some surprise. He was there for two hours.

Lord Reading was Viceroy of India from 1921 to 1926. He has been Attorney-General and Lord Chief Justice, and was a High Commissioner and Special Ambassador to the United States in 1918. His lordship, too, is personally interested in Palestinian affairs.

Apart from the interviews granted by him, Mr. Macdonald, it is understood, was in telephonic communication with Mr. Snowden and Mr. Arthur Henderson at The Hague.

THE AMERICAN VIEW.

BRITISH MEASURES ADEQUATE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
WASHINGTON, Sunday.

The State Department has been informed by the American Consul in Jerusalem that the British authorities have taken the most adequate measures to deal with the Wailing Wall disturbances, and the general attitude of the State Department is that "The British are fully equipped to take care of the position."

Considerable doubt is expressed as to whether or not the United States will decide to send an American vessel to Near Eastern waters. The light cruiser Raleigh is at present the only American war vessel in European waters, and is under orders to return to the United States, which would necessitate the despatch of another vessel from American waters should events warrant such procedure.

ANTI-BRITISH PARADE IN WARSAW.

JEWS DISPERSED BY POLICE WITH SWORDS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
WARSAW, Sunday.

The large Jewish element in Poland, especially in Warsaw, is very much exercised by the present happenings in Palestine, and expresses humiliation at the alleged "inactivity and indifference" of the British authorities.

Yesterday evening a large number of Jews, chiefly Zionist students, marched through the main streets of Warsaw and made a hostile demonstration outside the British Legation. They were dispersed by the police with drawn swords.

Later on, however, the crowd gathered again and tried to make another demonstration outside the British Consulate, but were headed off by the police.

To-day meetings headed by Rabbis are being held by local Jews, with the object of defining what the attitude of Polish Jews is to be towards England.

WOMAN FOUND MURDERED.

WIDESPREAD SEARCH FOR ASSAILANT.

BODY FOUND UNDER BUSHES.

The body of Miss Mary Learoyd, the daughter of Mr. L. P. Learoyd, a builder and contractor, of Little Gables, Sedbergh Park road, Ilkley, Yorkshire, was found yesterday morning on a vacant plot of land on the Sedbergh Park estate, within a hundred yards of her home, in circumstances which clearly indicate that the woman was brutally murdered. A stocking was tied tightly round her neck, and her face and body were badly cut and bruised.

The body, which was almost destitute of clothing, portions of which were found under a tree close by, lay under some bushes.

The scene of the tragedy is just off Cow Pastures lane, which leads straight up on to Ilkley Moor.

Miss Learoyd, who was between thirty and thirty-five years of age, was well known in Ilkley, where her father is prominently identified with Ilkley Parish Church and was formerly a member of the Urban District Council. She was seen in Ilkley about eight o'clock on Saturday evening, and it is stated that she did not return home on Saturday night.

A resident in Cow Pastures lane is stated to have heard a scream about 10.30 on Saturday night, but, as it was not repeated, attached no importance to it at the time.

THE DISCOVERY.

The discovery of the body was made shortly before ten o'clock yesterday morning by a labourer who was in quest of mushrooms, who noticed a woman's bare foot sticking out from some brushwood in a small coppice. He immediately telephoned the police. The trampled state of the long grass showed that the body had been dragged from a tree to the bushes. The face was badly disfigured, and there were also terrible injuries to the lower part of the body. The soil round about was saturated with blood, and nearby was found a woman's open and empty purse and a string of beads.

As soon as the discovery was made, the police took immediate steps for scouring the whole countryside for the assailant. Police officers and detectives were rushed to the district from Leeds, Bradford, Harrogate and other parts of the West Riding. A close search of the scene of the tragedy was made and the long grass was mown. During the day large numbers of people gathered near the building estate, but no one was allowed to approach the actual spot where the body was found.

Every motor garage in this district was visited by the police with a view to interviewing any motorist who may have passed along the road beside the land where the murder occurred.

An intensive search was conducted in Leeds and Bradford, as well as throughout the countryside.

Though the possibility of the crime having been committed by someone who subsequently drove off in a motor car is considered, the theory that the assailant may be a tramp is not lost sight of, and all common lodging houses in the neighbouring towns and villages are being searched, with the object of tracing those occupants who were absent from their quarters on Saturday night.

The Chief Constable of the West Riding, Colonel J. de F. Coke, is on the scene with a full force of detectives.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT.

MISSING CLOTHING.

ACCUSED WOMAN REMANDED.

(BEFORE MR. CUSSEN.)

Ellen O'Rourke, who gave an address in Russell street, was remanded until next Wednesday on a charge of stealing three frocks, valued at £10 10s., and underwear, valued at £6, from the warerooms, 3 South Anne street, the property of a Miss Ryan.

A similar order was made in the case of Elizabeth Dowling, of Upper Dorset street, who was charged with receiving a pawn ticket from O'Rourke for three articles of underwear, which had been pawned in a shop in Dominick street for 3s., and releasing the articles in question and selling them for 10s.

TYRONE MOTOR ACCIDENTS

An accident occurred to a heavy motor lorry the property of Mr. Hudson, Irvinestown, on the road between Strabane and Sion Mills, last Friday night, in consequence of which the vehicle was badly wrecked. It appears that the lorry was on the return journey from Derry with a load of merchandise when, at Ballyfatton, the steering gear broke and the lorry dashed into the entrance gate of the avenue leading to the house of Mr. Robert McCarter. One of the pillars was smashed, while the cab of the lorry was wrecked and other parts bore traces of the impact. The driver of the lorry escaped injury.

A street "island" for the control of traffic at Dublin road corner, Omagh, was completely demolished when a touring car, driven by Mr. Lewis Meldon, of Dublin, came into collision last Saturday. The front portion of the car was greatly damaged but the occupants escaped unhurt.

THE STREET TRADING ACT IN OMAGH.

Omagh Rural Council decided to call a special meeting to consider the question of the adoption of the Street Trading Act regulating the sale of merchandise on the streets.

Mr. J. H. Williams said now that shopkeepers and townspeople in the North of Ireland would have to pay practically all the rates something should be done to protect them from street traders who paid no rates, and who came from Belfast and other big towns into the provincial towns and villages and sold their wares.

Mr. T. J. Kyle said that he would oppose the adoption of the Act, as poor people got cheap articles of clothing from street traders.

Mr. Williams—If they continue to trade as at present how will shopkeepers be able to pay the rates?

Mr. Kyle—The shopkeepers are well able to protect themselves. Do not be too narrow-minded.

DISCOVERY IN FERMANAGH.

Mr. George Archdale, of Dromard, Co. Fermanagh, has communicated with the Society of Antiquaries regarding the finding of the human remains of two persons who had been buried on the site of his lawn. Mrs. Archdale was digging in her rock garden when she struck one skull, breaking it into pieces, and on careful digging with a trowel she unearthed one complete skeleton. It had been buried wedged between two rocks, and was laid on a rock, and protected from overhead also by a rock. The teeth were perfect. Although less than two feet from the surface of the ground, from the appearance of the bones, the skeletons must be some hundreds of years old. It is surmised that they were victims of the rebellion of the 17th century.

AUDIENCE OF 11,000 HEARS EGYPTIAN PREMIER.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
ALEXANDRIA, Sunday.

The Egyptian Prime Minister's speech last evening was received with the greatest enthusiasm by a crowd of over 11,000 people. Inside and outside the spacious pavilion microphones were used to carry Mahmud Pasha's words to the farthest corners of the building. The speech was punctuated by prolonged applause, but the crowd was very orderly.

A MARKET FOR BARLEY.

BETTER THAN MAIZE FOR FEEDING.

CONFERENCE OF GROWERS.

Under the auspices of the Irish Farmers' Union, a conference was held in the Courthouse, Maryborough, on Saturday last with the object of finding a market and fixing a price for surplus barley amongst stock-feeders. Plans were made by which growers and feeders would be brought into contact through the general secretary Irish Farmers' Union. The conference included delegates from Barley Growers' Associations, County Associations of the Irish Farmers' Union, and Co-Operative Stores, which retail feeding stuffs.

Mr. R. A. Butler, Chairman of the Irish Farmers' Union, presided, and there were present:—

Leix—Messrs. W. H. Cobbe, T. Gowing (Kilminchy), J. Delaney, W. Dobson.

Carlow—Messrs. H. R. Thorpe and W. H. Bennett.

Kilkenny—Messrs. R. Holohan, T.D.; W. Deady, P. McGrath, Major J. S. B. Loftus.

Offaly—Messrs. J. Glynn, P. Moran, J. Larkin, J. Corcoran.

Tipperary—Messrs. M. R. Heffernan, T.D.; J. Mounsey, Wm. Jocelyn Waller, J. Fletcher, P. Darcy.

Wexford—Mr. B. M. Murphy.

Cork—E. J. Cussen, county organiser, Co. Cork Farmers' Union; B. W. Brazier.

Wicklow—W. H. Hammond.

Meath—H. W. Redpath, H. Brogan, K. Martin.

Messrs. J. Johnston, inspector Department of Agriculture; W. T. Tynan, Leix County Instructor in Agriculture; M. V. Buckley (Nitram, Ltd.); D. Connor (Leix); P. Mahon (Leix), and W. J. Fahy general secretary Irish Farmers' Union, were also present.

The Chairman said that their object was to find an alternative market for their barley, especially for feeding purposes. At present, when he had a surplus, the grower of barley had no means of getting into touch with feeders, and the question before them would, therefore, be the consideration of means by which that market could be developed. In County Cork a great deal had been done in that direction, and there were many potential buyers present from Cork and other counties.

Mr. E. Cussen, Secretary, Cork Farmers' Union, said that he represented both growers and feeders, and many people in his county were potential buyers of barley. To what extent they would buy depended on the economic value of the barley. The problem of marketing barley was largely one for the growers themselves. They would have to do a great deal to find a solution of the problem. The only way to solve their difficulties was to have an organisation acting on behalf of growers to find a way out of their troubles. So far there had been very little effort made on organised lines.

FEEDING PROPERTIES.

If a market was to be found amongst feeders—and a market was to be found—as an alternative to that provided by brewers and maltsters, feeders must be educated in the feeding properties of barley. There is now a great prejudice on the part of feeders towards maize as against barley.

It has been demonstrated by experiments conducted by the Department of Agriculture that barley as a feeding stuff was almost as valuable as maize. It had been shown that in the fattening of heavy adult pigs barley compared with maize in the ratio of 105 to 100. In other words, 10½ cwt. barley was equal in feeding value to 10 cwt. maize. That was not sufficiently known throughout the country. If it were there would be no difficulty in getting rid of the surplus in the hands of barley growers.

He suggested that every effort should be made, through the medium of the Press and otherwise, to bring that fact to the notice of feeders. Business was not conducted on sentimental lines, and nobody would feed barley because it was grown by an Irish farmer. It would be fed only because of its economic value. If that effort was made, he believed it would be successful.

As to what should be done to create the necessary alternative market, he suggested that the Conference should consider what was an economic purchasing price for the feeder, and, at the same time, what was an economic price for the grower. Because of the fact that there was a comparison in the mind of the feeder of barley with maize, the price of barley must bear relation to the price of maize. There was a prejudice to be uprooted, and in the meantime the price of barley must bear relation to the price of maize.

AT AN ATTRACTIVE PRICE.

From the state of the maize market, it could be inferred that maize during the next twelve months would be very dear. It might be safely assumed that maize would not drop below £10 per ton. Could they, as growers, sell their barley at such a price that the feeder would take it to replace some of his ration, as would prove an economic proposition? If the alternative market was to be firmly established, they would have to consider whether they could offer barley at a price that would be attractive to the feeder.

Mr. Deady (Kilkenny) believed there were great possibilities in the proposed market for barley amongst stock-feeders.

As a miller of maize and barley for farmers, he found there was an increasing demand for barley by feeders. Barley growers would, no doubt, like to get £10 per ton, but a price might be fixed at £9 per ton.

Mr. Gowing (Leix)—You cannot grow barley at £9 per ton. It would not pay.

Continuing, Mr. Deady said that the maltster paid in or about 16s. per barrel, and when the maltster paid a certain price the feeder dropped out. Could they say they could offer a certain price? Could they hold out in the hope that the brewers would give a better price. If they made a move in that direction they would be doing a good day's work.

ORGANISATION NEEDED.

Mr M. R. Heffernan, T.D., Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister for Posts and Telegraphs, said that the problem was mainly one for the practical barley-growers and consumers in the country. He welcomed that meeting because it had nothing to do with political controversy. The most they could hope to do that day was to lay down a fundamental proposition which would enable them to make a beginning on practical lines. Mr. Cussen had shown them what could be done in this matter. In North Tipperary they had one of the biggest barley-growing districts in the country, and in South Tipperary they had many dairy farmers and pig-feeders, and in that connection organisation was undoubtedly useful in bringing the two together. The secret of success was combination.

There were also the questions of transit and storage to be considered.

Mr. R. Holohan, T.D. (Kilkenny), stated that a vital mistake on the part of growers was that they put their barley in the stores of maltsters before a price was fixed. He knew that some farmers were badly situated as regards stores, and after threshing their barley could do nothing but run it into the maltsters. In addition, they had farmers rushing their barley on to the market when a price had been fixed. His experience was that better prices could be obtained two months after threshing than at the time of threshing. Barley, to his mind, was not fed properly in many cases, and feeders did not, therefore, get the best results. It had been proved that barley-fed pigs produced bacon of superior quality to that obtained from maize. The only way they could tackle the problem before them was by having a strong organisation in every county, and try to regulate the market as between the grower and the feeder.

The Chairman said that they should get down to business. Who, he asked, were the feeders to communicate with?

WANTED—A PAMPHLET.

Mr. Fahy said that the main points should be considered before getting down to detail. The question asked by the Chairman brought them back to the need for a barley-growers' association in each county being formed, in order that they might have a body to deal with the question. He thought that they should request the Department of Agriculture to make out a pamphlet dealing with the comparative values of barley and maize as feeding stuffs, and the comparative value of the products produced from both. He knew for a fact that some bacon factories to-day paid as much as 8s. a cwt. more for pigs finished with barley-composed mixtures, and where barley entered largely into the ration, than for ordinary pigs of the same weight fed largely on maize and milk. (Hear, hear.) Regarding the question of freights, he

FRIEND OF NURSE CAVELL.

MADAME BODART REVISITS NEWRY.

Madame Anna Bodart, of Brussels, a native of Newry, who was associated with Nurse Cavell in assisting British soldiers to escape from Brussels during the war years, has been on a visit to Rostrevor, Newry, during the past week. Her decorations include the O.B.E., the British Medal for Secret Service, the Legion d'Honneur and the Croix de Guerre avec Palm. Her father was Mr. Richard Doherty, a brother of Mr. Robert Hogg Doherty, for forty-five years Town Clerk of Newry.

It is thirty-seven years since Madame Bodart last visited her native town, where she has been staying with a cousin, Miss Doherty. Another cousin is Mrs. Wilbone, who resides at Kilkeel. She was educated in England, and afterwards went to Brussels, where she married a Belgian.

With Nurse Cavell she was arrested, and sentenced to death; but on it being discovered that she was a Belgian subject the sentence was commuted to penal servitude. She was released at the Armistice, after spending three years and four months in a German prison. She and her son Philipe took a prominent part in the much-discussed film, "Dawn."

IDENTITY OF BRAVE IMMIGRANT.

YOUNG IRISHMAN WHO SAVED TEN LIVES.

The identity of the heroic Irish immigrant who, it is stated, saved nine lives in a raging sea off Long Beach, New York, has been established.

William Noonan is a well-known young Cork man, who has already performed a similar act of heroism in his own city.

On the 9th of September last near Patrick's quay he plunged into the Lee and saved a small boy from drowning.

Mr. Noonan, who was a keen sportsman, played Association football for Bohemians, and had won several races at local swimming galas. He left Cork last January for the United States.

BUILDING TRADE STRIKE IN LIMERICK.

OFFER TO LABOURERS.

The Limerick Masters' Builders group of the Employers' Federation has offered their labourers on strike a flat wage of a shilling an hour for a forty-seven hour week. The offer was the result of a conference which was held last Tuesday at the Chamber of Commerce, when the employers asked the Transport Union, of which the men are members, to specifically formulate their demand. The demand was for a basic wage of one and threepence halfpenny an hour for a forty-seven hour week. The reply of the master builders has been sent. Upwards of two hundred and fifty men, skilled and unskilled, are effected by the dispute, and several building schemes are held up as a result.

THE LATE MR. GRIFFITH.

Wreaths were placed on the graves in Glasnevin Cemetery of Mr. Arthur Griffith and General Michael Collins by members of the Old Dublin Brigade, I.R.A.

A Mass was celebrated in the Carmelite Church, Clarendon street, for the repose of the souls of President Griffith, General Collins and other Irishmen who died during and since 1916. After Mass the members of the Old Dublin Brigade, as well as former members of the I.R.A., marched to Glasnevin, headed by the band of the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union.

(Mr. Fahy) had a letter from the Great Southern Railways Company's traffic manager, wherein it was stated that the company were prepared to offer special facilities for the transport of barley in six-ton lots. Taking the rate between Cork and Tullow as an example—they would be prepared to take six-ton wagon-loads that distance for 22s. 9d. as against 30s. 2d.—a reduction of 25 per cent. (Hear, hear.)

THE BEST STANDARD.

Mr. Hammond (Wicklow), as a representative of the growers, and to a great extent a barley feeder himself, said that there were times of the year when barley was unobtainable as a feeding stuff. First of all, the barley-growers should stand together loyally and give mutual support to one another and put on the market supplies of the best standard that could be produced. The question then arose as to when the barley should be threshed, because when once it was threshed it could not be held in storage. Some means of storage should be devised to carry it along until such time as it was marketable to the best advantage.

Mr. D. O'Connor (Leix) thought that there should be some means of subsidising the small growers during the period they would be asked to hold their barley while awaiting a suitable market. In many cases they required the money the moment they could thresh the crop, and sold it at any price at all.

Mr. Brazier (Cork) said this problem of the barley-growers was like the poor—always with them. He had made appeals from time to time to the Farmers' Union to help them. The question had to be considered from three standpoints: that of the brewer, the feeder, and the shipper. The brewers' requirements owing to the enormous tax on drink had fallen from twelve millions a few years ago to less than six millions to-day, which was very eloquent testimony as to the effects of the tax on a great home industry that made the real demand for malting barley. (Hear, hear.) There were then the feeder and the shipper.

The Agricultural Credits Corporation was unsatisfactory. It was open to every other people except those who had barley to sell, and while the State continued to import barley they were simply taking away the employment of the labourer, and giving him public assistance out of the very barley-growers' pockets. That was a thing with which they had to cope. They saw an enormous amount of wheat and maize imported, and up to the end of the first half-year of 1929 they had imported over three millions worth. He believed they would have to develop, through the Farmers' Unions, where these existed. The acreage for barley this year had fallen by more than 8,000 acres. Last year, out of 129,000 acres, they had got 131,697 tons, and this year, out of 121,000 acres, they could expect 150,000 tons. In 1927 they had 120,796 acres, yielding 134,886 tons, and the extraordinary thing was that this year, when they had a bountiful crop, from January to June their imports were 293,340 cwts., at a value of £144,000, and malt, whereas for a similar period to the end of 1928 barley imports were 233,428 cwts. at £120,000. This meant that this year they were going to have a big slump in the barley market.

Mr. Brogan (Meath) said he would be prepared to get feeders to purchase barley if furnished with the names of growers and prices, but the market in Meath would not open until early in November. He strongly urged the encouragement of stall feeding, a limited embargo on imported barley, experiments showing the value of barley as a food-stuff; and urged support for brewers and distillers using Irish barley.

Mr. Murphy (Wexford) told how a market for barley had been established by Campile Co-operative Society, with good results to growers and feeders.

Mr. W. H. Cobbe (Leix) said that in getting up a market for barley they would have to face the problem of continuity of supply. If farmers could guarantee this, the demand would be there. He referred to the difficulty of renting suitable stores, and also mentioned that, as many farmers wanted ready cash, some arrangement could be made with the Agricultural Credit Corporation.

Mr. Brogan then moved a resolution proposing the formation of a standing committee to put growers and feeders into touch.

Mr. Holohan, T.D., seconded, and the motion was passed as amended in the following form:—

"That all barley growers' associations send the addresses of their secretaries to the Irish Farmers' Union General Secretary, 37 Upper Fitzwilliam street, Dublin, who will supply this list to the county secretaries for feeding organisations, so that contact be at once established between them."

U.S. MARKETS.

STOCKS CLOSE IRREGULAR.

REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.
NEW YORK, Saturday.

Stocks opened strong and, despite recurrent realising on a large scale, bullish activities held control of the market most of the day. Powerful buying appeared for independent Steels, Chemicals and Communication issues, many of which, including U.S. Steel, American Telephone and Telegraph, International Telephone and Telegraph, Industrial Alcohol and Bethlehem Steel, reached "record" high levels before breaking. Week-end realising and profit-taking in the final dealings resulted in marked pressure, which reduced a number of advances. However, the day's gains outnumbered losses. Allied Chemical, Inland Steel, Republic Iron and Steel, U.S. Industrial Alcohol, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Pacific Gas and Electric, and Underwood, Elliott and Fisher rose 6 to 8 points, and American Telephone and Telegraph, International Telephone and Telegraph, and Western Union Telegraph 4 to 5. U.S. Steel early declined 3, but rebounded to a new high price of 260½. Among weak spots Pere Marquette declined 6, Chesapeake and Ohio 3, People's Gas 4, and Du Pont Radio, Westinghouse Electric and New York Central 1 to 3 points. The market closed irregular. Government Bonds and Railroad Bonds steady. The day's sales totalled 2,125,000 shares.

NEW YORK COTTON.

COTTON opened steady, 1 point up to 2 points down. The market ruled firm for a while, due to trade buying on higher cable advices, but this was offset by Southern selling owing to continued nervousness regarding weather developments in the South-West over Sunday. Later on, shorts covering was influenced by a forecast for fair weather in West Texas. The market closed barely steady, with old contracts 8 to 3 points up, and Southern contracts 3 to 17 points higher. Spot quiet at 5 points advance. At New Orleans futures opened 3 points up to unchanged. Around 10 o'clock Oct. was quoted 18.56, Dec. 18.63, Jan. 18.72, and May 19.03, while fifteen minutes later Oct. reached 18.37, Dec. 18.64, Jan. 18.70, and March 18.85. At the close values were 5 to 9 points higher. Spot rose 5 points.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Saturday.

WHEAT was easy at the opening, 1⅞c. to 1¼c. down, due to excellent weather conditions for harvesting over all of the North-West area. An estimated large increase in the world's stocks during July, together with a poor foreign demand for hard winters and selling by Winnipeg houses, caused further recessions. Then buying by Eastern houses brought partial recoveries. The market closed easy at 1⅜c. to 1¾c. decline.

BIG DOCK FIRE AT HULL.

MARKET HOUSE AND TRAWLERS BURNED.

DAMAGE ESTIMATED AT £250,000.

St. Andrew's Dock, Hull, last night, was the scene of a great fire which virtually destroyed a new market, constructed by the London and North-Eastern Railway Company at a cost of £100,000. The flames spread to and destroyed 150 fish vans and wagons, and seven trawlers berthed at the quay to discharge their catches were extensively damaged, more than one of them being burned to the water's edge.

The damage is estimated at not less than £250,000.

The fire occurred in the new Billingsgate area, and during its progress the city of Hull was covered with a pall of smoke.

The market, 1,400 feet long, contained accommodation for 100 merchants, with offices and storerooms. Apart from the concrete floor and iron pillars it was constructed wholly of timber. Once the flames attacked the woodwork they spread rapidly, and within half-an-hour the structure was ablaze from end to end.

Hull City Fire Brigade and the London and North-Eastern Railway firemen were unable to control the fire. The intense heat burst the gas pipes, and from these a hundred tongues of flame shot up. Great difficulty was experienced in finding a place from which the gas supply could be controlled and stopped.

At a late hour the fire still was burning, and all that was left of the market structure was a mass of twisted ironwork and blackened débris.

THREE TRAWLERS DESTROYED.

The seven trawlers were the Marconi, Frobisher, Lord Deramore, St. Alexander, Norman, Daisy Coates and O.H.M. They could not be approached so long as the flames were at their height, but after a time tugs towed them burning from the quay, still burning, and with water playing on them. Despite all efforts, however, the trawlers Marconi, O.H.M. and Lord Deramore were completely destroyed. All seven had catches valued each at £1,000, and the weight of the fish aggregated over 600 tons.

Two boys played a conspicuous part in rescuing watchmen who were aboard the trawlers. They got a boat and rowed across the dock to the assistance of the men, some of whom were hanging over the sides of the vessels by means of ropes. A tug took off the others.

William Henry Clark, a fisherman, was injured while fighting the flames on the trawler St. Alexander. He was taken to the Royal Infirmary, suffering from injuries to his spine.

A SUDDEN BLAZE.

The fire was reported by Mr. J. W. Charlton, who was walking along the dockside with his wife. "Suddenly," he told a Press Association reporter, "there was a blaze, which spread rapidly over the whole of the market."

Sergeant Pearson, of the London and North-Eastern Railway, who was one of the first to arrive on the scene, said that the flames ran along the structure like a racehorse. Four boys found themselves in the danger zone, but they assisted in getting out hoses to fight the flames. One boy, hearing the mewing of a cat, boarded one of the trawlers and rescued the animal.

A vivid description of the blaze was given by a member of the Hull Fire Brigade. "Soon after seven p.m.," he said, "the sky was lit up by flames coming from the new Billingsgate dock. Huge banks of smoke rolled over the city and up the river. Thousands of people rushed to the scene. The river and the docks presented an amazing spectacle. All the fire brigades in neighbouring districts arrived. Fortunately the flames were fanned in the direction of the river and neighbouring houses were not in peril. At nine p.m. the fire was still raging, and it is likely to go on all night."

WATERFORD FIRE.

DRAPERY SHOP DESTROYED.

A fire, which broke out in the tailoring and drapery shop of Denis Hassey, O'Connell street, Waterford, last Saturday morning destroyed the entire stock. At one time there was grave danger that the upper portion of the premises could not be saved. After three hours' hard work the Fire Brigade, assisted by Civic Guards and volunteers, succeeded in confining the outbreak to the shop premises, which were completely gutted.

FIRE AT CLONTARF.

At 7.30 yesterday morning a fire broke out at 31 Hollybrook road, Clontarf, the residence of Mr. Nolan, who did good work in combating the flames until the fire brigade, under Lieutenant Connolly and Station Officer Howard, arrived within a few minutes of being summoned. Lines of hose were laid down, and the pressure from the hydrant was augmented by the motor fire engine. After about twenty minutes' work the fire was extinguished.

The fire originated under the staircase in the hall, and the damage done was considerable.

NEW BISHOP.—The Most Rev. Dr. Mageean about to enter St. Patrick's Church, Belfast, where he was consecrated Bishop of Down and Conner yesterday. The Most Rev. Dr. McRory, who performed the consecration ceremony, is following Dr. Mageean.

THE PLACE OF LAMENTATION—Jews of Jerusalem mourning at the foot of the huge wall that is all that remains of their ancient temple. It was here at the Wail-Wall, as it is commonly called, that rioting between Mahommedans and Arabs occurred last week, culminating in the loss of many lives.

LONDON'S FIRST "TOTE."—Portion of the crowd that gathered round the "tote" during the first race at Hurst Park on Saturday last.

BARLEY-GROWERS IN CONFERENCE—A group of barley-growers who met at Maryborough on Saturday last to discuss suggestions for the marketing of surplus produce. Included are Messrs. R. A. Butler, E. Cussen, R. Heffernan, R. Holohan, W. H. Hammond, W. H. Cobb, H. Brogan and B. W. Brazier.

A Money Saver

Consignments of coal leaving our Moss Street Depot.

THIS time last year we told you that prices of Coal, owing to the operations of the Five Counties Scheme, would advance considerably later on. Many of our clients took our advice and saved money. This year the situation in the coal trade will be more difficult, and coal will be scarce and dear as the season advances.

PRICES will soon be advancing, and now is the most favourable time to stock your coal cellar and save substantially.

COALS WE RECOMMEND

YORK HOUSE—This Coal is of excellent quality and better than most Wigans: a grand coal, free of slack, which makes a clear, bright fire of great heat and leaves little ash. At 39/- per ton, less 2/- per ton for cash, delivered in the city, it is splendid value and a real money saver.

GOLDEN ASH—This famous coal is highly appreciated for use in Reception and Sitting Rooms. It burns with a bright, clear blaze and makes a delightfully cheerful, lasting fire, which is very economical and satisfactory.

At 43/- per ton, less 2/- per ton for cash, delivered in city, it is unbeatable for value and satisfaction.

WE CAN ALSO SUPPLY
BEST WALLSEND, BEST ORRELL, BEST WIGAN and KITCHEN COALS at reasonable prices; also BEST COKE and ANTHRACITE BEANS.

Special Quotations for Coals on Rail and Institutions; also by Motor Lorries to any country district.

MONAGHAN BANK MANAGER IN MOTOR ACCIDENT.

OCCUPANTS OF CAR ESCAPE.

Mr. Hall, bank manager, Ballybay, while driving an Austin car near Monasterboice, County Louth, at about one o'clock on Saturday morning had his car badly damaged. The car, which was travelling in the direction of Ardee, while rounding a turn in the road skidded and swerved, colliding with the earthen embankment. As a result of the impact the fence was knocked down and a tree damaged before the car toppled over. Travelling with Mr. Hall in the car at the time of the occurrence were four ladies, but, beyond the fact that they suffered from shock and some slight cuts and bruises from splinters of broken glass, they all escaped serious injuries. They succeeded in getting out of the car through a broken window, and eventually procured a car from Ardee in which they were all able to travel home.

CARRIER PIGEON FOUND.

A carrier pigeon, which is being looked after by Mr. J. Kilbride, Kildea House, Newtownmountkennedy, carries a ring inscribed N.U. 24, L.N.E. 132.

ASLEEP IN MOTOR CAR.

TWO MEN FINED FOR DRUNKENNESS.

At Ballymena Petty Sessions Robert Harkness Davidson, of Cullybackey, was fined £10 and 10s. 6d. costs for being drunk in charge of a motor car on August 4, and 20s. and costs for having no light on the car. William Logan also was fined 10s. and 10s. 6d. costs for drunkenness on the same occasion.

Police evidence was given that the motor car, in which the two defendants were asleep, was found on the outskirts of Cullybackey at 2.10 a.m. Both defendants were helplessly drunk, and had to be partially carried to the barrack.

Defendants, who denied being drunk, said that their petrol supply ran down, and they intended sitting in the car till the morning.

TOPICS OF THE TURF.

The St. Leger: A Look Through the York Card Tag End to Oppose Royal Minstrel: An Open Ebor: Zeno's Chance: Cragadour To Run: Hurst Park Incidents.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.
LONDON, Sunday Night.

It cannot be anticipated that the excellent racing at York which we are promised this week will shed much light on the St. Leger, for very few of the horses with the Doncaster engagement are included in the entries. The St. Leger promises to be remarkably open, and I am still inclined to think that the French colt, Mr. Edward Esmond's Hotweed, will start favourite.

I heard yesterday that he is well and has given every satisfaction in his work since he won the Grand Prix de Paris. As the general opinion of French trainers is that their three-year-old form of this season is bad, it is hard to find Hotweed's proper level. He may be the outstanding one in a bad year, but then he has to make the crossing from France before the race, and due allowance must be made for the possibility of his shedding some of his form on the journey.

In the circumstances he may not be a very formidable opponent. The Manton stable, for one, will not fear to oppose him, for Lord Astor's filly, Pennycomequick, is giving every satisfaction, and so also is Mr. Tattersall's Brienz, who was third in the Derby to Trigo and Walter Gay.

TAG END TO TACKLE ROYAL MINSTREL.

It is regrettable that Tiffin will not be in the field to oppose Royal Minstrel in the Nunthorpe Stakes on Tuesday. The Ring will bet as if it were a walk-over for Captain Boyd-Rochfort's horse, yet I should be in no way surprised were Tag End, who will oppose him, to give him a race. It can be argued that the class of Royal Minstrel will pull him through, but Mr. J. B. Joel's gelding is a hurricane over five furlongs when he is in the mood. The Irish Two Thousand Guineas winner, Salisbury, has been taken out of this race, so we shall have to wait until later in the season for his first appearance on an English racecourse.

The race which follows the Nunthorpe Stakes is the Prince of Wales's Plate for two-year-olds, and Manton will have a much-fancied candidate in Valediction, the first horse to run in England in the colours of Mr. Ronald Tree, the joint Master of the Pytchley, who is a stepson of Earl Beatty. She did not have the best of luck when beaten three-parts of a length by Stingo at Liverpool last month. Stingo, a son of that promising Tredennis horse, Tremola, is to run for the Convivial Plate on Wednesday, and he looks to be easily the best thing of the week.

AN OPEN EBOR.

I make the Ebor on Wednesday out to be an open race. Old Orkney remains in, but I imagine he is only there to keep the weights down for Mountain Lad, who is likely to be the better of the two from Captain Gooch's stable. Disqualified for bumping after finishing in front of Clear Cash in the Goodwood Stakes, Mountain Lad must have a good chance.

King's Oven, high as he is in the handicap, is fully expected to win. He has won all his races this season with a little in hand, and so far the handicappers have not been able to get to the bottom of him. Baytown is another likely runner, but he has been wrong, and has only made a single appearance on a racecourse this season—at Ascot, where he was well beaten. Siegfried, Highbury and The Consul are all more or less fancied.

The best handicapped horse in the race, to my mind, was Zeno, who has only been given 7st. 2lb. Unfortunately, he broke down in his last gallop, so that he will not be among the runners. The victory of Sir Picton at Stockton last week puts Pomagne in the race with a good chance; for this filly, who has only 6st. 10lb. to carry, gave Sir Picton 31lb. and a head beating in the Great West Riding Handicap at Pontefract last month. Peacock can send another runner in Polyanthus, of [illegible] we did not see the best at Stockton week.

CRAGADOUR TO RUN.

I see it stated that Count John McCormack is sending Cragadour to run for the Duke of York Plate on Wednesday, where he can oppose a St. Leger candidate like Hasteaway. One can be very interested in his running here because he is a likely sort of colt to win the Cambridgeshire if at all well handicapped. Jelliss, who rode him in the Guineas, thinks he should have beaten Mr. Jinks in that race had he not been tied down by riding instructions. The distance of the Cambridgeshire is probably about his best, and if he is handicapped in that race with a little under 8st., then, on the form he has shown in the early part of this year, his chance would be a very good one. Year by year we see three-year-olds who just miss the classic races do well in the Cambridgeshire at weights ranging between 7st. 10lb. and 8st.

Challenger and Lovat Scout have been taken out of the Gimcrack Stakes on Thursday as both are coughing, which is unfortunate for the owner, Lord Dewar. This race may not be so interesting as in other years, and the Aga Khan's Tetratema colt, Teacup, should win if he runs. The Irish Derby winner, Kopi, is to run for the Great Yorkshire Stakes on Thursday, and he is likely to win. Golden Oracle is to run for the Harewood Plate on Thursday, but on the running on this course in May he is badly in with Capaquette.

AT HURST PARK.

No attempt was made at Hurst Park yesterday to work the electric light indicator in connection with the totalisator, and the cumbersome method of chalking up the state of the market had to be resorted to. The machine, however, did very good business. The Balreask Stud sire, Haki, a great long distance performer on his day in this country, claimed the winner of the first race, the Hammersmith Selling Plate, Headache, whom Owen Anthony trains for Mr. Ben Warner. An odds-on chance in Mr. Joe Cooper's Virilia ran badly, and finished last of all, Headache leading throughout to win by a length and a half from Planaphone.

I thought the Irish gelding, West Wicklow, was a little unlucky to have lost the Fountain Handicap by a head to the tubed Jugo. He had well taken the measure of the pace-maker, Dazzler, inside the distance, when he changed his legs and lost ground. He came again in the last fifty yards, but could not catch Jugo, who just beat him in a very exciting finish.

The event of the day was the appearance in the Richemount Stakes of Mr. Jinks, whom Major McCalmont and Lady Helen McCalmont came from Ireland to see run. The colt is in the best of heart, and, though he only beat his opponents, Aroostook and Vanstaaden, by a length and a neck, he could have gone right away from them if Harry Beasley had wished to make the margin any greater. Vanstaaden led him until they were a furlong from home, when the grey had only to be shaken up to win as he pleased.

It was suggested here some time ago that Mr. Jinks would not start for the St. Leger at the 25 to 1 which was then the current offer. His price for the Doncaster race has since been cut in half, and if everything goes well with him he will be at a still shorter price on the day of the race.

TEL ASUR'S VICTORY.

That very useful gelding, Tel Asur, whom Captain Rolo and Captain Elgee own in partnership, won the Lennox Plate by a head from Galhampton. He had the advantage in being quickest away from the gate, and hung on just long enough to beat the favourite cleverly.

De Mestre won the Ditton Selling Plate with Glena, a filly by Orpheus, who took the lead from Pamela May at the distance, and won by half a length.

Frank Hartigan won the last race of the day with Canfield, a six-year-old gelding by Phalaris, bred at the National Stud. He was getting 4lb. from Somme Orb and beat him rather easily by a length.

NEW TOTE RECORD.

At Hurst Park on Saturday £18,790 10/- passed through the Tote, which is a "record" for a single day in England, the previous best having been on Friday, when £16,378 8/- was handled.

The Tote dividends again beat the bookmakers' S.P. in all races, bar one, on Saturday, as the following comparison shows:—3.20 Race—Headache, 10 to 1 S.P.; 18¾ to 1 Tote. 3.50 Race—Jugo, 3 to 1 S.P.; 4⅜ to 1 Tote. 4.20 Race—Glena, 5 to 2 S.P.; 3 to 1 Tote. 4.50 Race—Mr. Jinks, 11 to 4 on S.P.; 4 to 1 on Tote. 5.20 Race—Tel-Asur, 9 to 1 S.P.; 9⅜ to 1 Tote. 5.50 Race—Canfield, 2 to 1 S.P.; 2⅜ to 1 Tote.

HANDBALL.

I.A.H.A. CHAMPIONSHIPS.

At Ballymun yesterday, in the Senior Championship P. Butterly (Metropolitan) beat J. Clarke (Ballymun); J. J. Kelly (Dublin) beat Morgan Pembroke (Ballymun); J. Fagan (Metropolitan) beat J. Bray (Ballymun). In the Junior Championship P. Kelly beat P. McDermott.

SPORTING GOSSIP

Cesarewitch Scratchings.

The scratching at 9 a.m. on Saturday out of all engagements in 1929 of Royal Pom includes the Ceseraewitch. Royal Pom, who belongs to Sir Delves Broughton, has not been seen out in public this season, but last year he won the Yorkshire Cup at York in May, amongst those who finished behind him being Finglas and Invershin.

Jugo's Ebor Handicap Penalty.

By virtue of his success in the Fountain Plate at Hurst Park on Saturday Mr. T. Richards' Jugo has incurred a 10lb. penalty for the Ebor Handicap at York. This brings his weight to 9st. 4lb.

Tullycross Falls Lame.

The Press Association's Newmarket correspondent states that after his gallop on Saturday morning with S. H. Darling's team Tullycross, a three years old colt by Apron out of Gilford, pulled up lame, and had to be conveyed back to his training quarters by horse-box.

"Tote" and Greyhound Racing.

Brigadier-General Critchley paid a visit to Hurst Park Races on Friday to watch the working of the totalisator, with a view to the possibilities of its adoption at the White City, Harringay and other G.R.A. greyhound racing tracks. The Act of Parliament relating to the totalisator applies only to racecourses where horse racing is held, but it is possible that a portable electric model would be legal on greyhound racing tracks. A machine of this type is on its way from Australia, and there is a possibility of arrangements being made to use it on G.R.A. tracks.

Improvements at Baldoyle.

A much appreciated improvement in the weigh-room at Baldoyle has been carried out under the direction of Mr. D. Mangan, the secretary of the meeting. Hitherto there had been some congestion at times when many jockeys had to be weighed out. The weigh-room and Press room have now been considerably enlarged, and the improvement was very noticeable at Saturday's meeting, when runners for most of the races were numerous.

POLO.

NORTHUMBERLAND DEFEAT KILMARTIN.

The sides that turned out at the A.I.P.C., Phœnix Park on Saturday, did not exceed an aggregate of 6 points each on handicap, and consequently the polo did not reach a high standard. The teams were Northumberland and Kilmartin, and the result was a win for Northumberland by 3 goals to 2. Mr. Larminie and Herr von Dehn played very well for the winners, while Mr. Durack and Mr. Magee were prominent for Kilmartin.

Play was at mid-field for some time, but eventually Northumberland got down and Herr von Dehn had a good shot stopped by Mr. Durack. Keeping up the pressure Mr. Larminie got in a long shot to register the first goal. Northumberland got down with the hit in, and Baron Graevenitz registered the second for his side. Kilmartin attacked towards the end of the third period and Mr. Durack scored for them.

In the fourth chukkar Kilmartin attacked for a long time and eventually scored per Mr. Magee. Thus they entered upon the last period on level terms. Mr. Durack galloped over half the length of the ground, but missed his shot at goal. Northumberland then got down, and Captain Daly got on after a hit in to score the winning goal.

Northumberland—Baron Graevenitz, Captain B. Daly, Herr von Dehn and Mr. J. P. A. Larminie (back).

Kilmartin—Mr. D. Malone, Mr. J. P. Lawlor, Mr. J. J. Durack and Mr. W. Magee (back).

Umpire—Mr. W. Fitzgerald.

BALDOYLE.

BRIGHT RACING.

INTERESTING FINISH FOR FOAL PLATE.

SOL DE TERRE'S CLEVER WIN.

The heavy rainfall during the early hours of Saturday morning doubtless had the effect of keeping away many people who otherwise would have attended the Baldoyle meeting. As matters turned out the afternoon was as fine as any during the present summer season, and with sport of an exceptionally interesting order provided visitors had a very enjoyable experience. The Baldoyle Foal Plate, the chief race of the afternoon, provided another score for the Heath (Maryborough) stable, Mrs. C. L. Mackean's Sol de Terre winning in clever style from Ballyferis.

Major Blennerhassett being still indisposed, the duties of starter were fulfilled by Captain E. Boylan.

SOL DE TERRE'S IMPROVEMENT.

Sol de Terre and Ballyferis had met previously in the Breeders' Produce Stakes at the Phœnix Park July Meeting, when Ballyferis won by a neck. In the meantime Sol de Terre filled second position to Golden Lure in the Leopardstown Grand Prize, and also to Confetti in the Phœnix Plate, and this running suggested that the son of Soldennis had maintained steady improvement during the two months. This opinion was well borne out in the race, for Sol de Terre, who is usually a slow beginner, lost several lengths through swerving on this occasion, whereas Ballyferis was always in the lead until challenged in the last furlong. For a long way Junius and Bonford appeared to be the ones most likely to contest the issue with Ballyferis, but when the latter had successfully beaten off their challenges, Sol de Terre, who had been moved over from the position he occupied on the rails at the start, to the outside, settled the question in very short time. It was a decisive win, and proved beyond all doubt that Sol de Terre has trained on in consistent fashion, and Ballyferis, in attempting to concede him 19lb., probably went as near to achieving it as any horse would. It has been a particularly lucky year for Mrs. Mackean and her husband, the successes of Soloptic in the Irish Oaks and One Thousand Guineas and Salisbury in the Two Thousand Guineas, together with Sol de Terre's score on Saturday, being possibly a record achievement by horses in virtually the same ownership. Sol de Terre's full brother, Soldanel, was the one horse to disappoint the stable, and he with change of environment and stable has since earned distinction.

HEATH STABLE'S DOUBLE.

The Heath stable had another success earlier in the afternoon, when Lord Astolot triumphed in a desperately close finish with Kildare's Pride and Fishpool in the Kinsealy Plate. The three were in close company for most of the journey, and it was only by a head that Mr. A. McCann's colt scored.

Backers of Old Roy, the favourite for the Juvenile Selling Handicap, may have been a bit unlucky not to have drawn their money; for he dwelt so badly at the start as to be virtually out of the reckoning from the beginning. It was a one-horse race throughout, the Vencedor filly Vanity Box going off in front and never being headed. She subsequently found a new owner in Mr. T. J. Fleming, who secured her at auction for 155 sovs.

BRISTOL ROCKET'S WINNING SEQUENCE.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Walker, with a limited number of horses in training, have had a very successful season. Bristol Rocket, the property of Mrs. Walker, completed a sequence of four wins when leading throughout and capturing the Seaside Plate in easy style. Bristol Rocket only ran once as a two-year-old, but this season has carried all before him, and, judging by his easy win on this occasion, he must be one of the best three-year-olds of the season over a distance of a mile.

A 20 TO 1 WINNER.

Backers on the general run of the racing had the better of the deal with the layers, but they suffered a severe reverse over the Sutton Handicap, in which the two best supported candidates were Culnagor and Kileager. Neither ever looked like scoring, and, after Boinne-na-Brugh had held out every hope of landing home Mr. E. Delany's colours in front, an unexpected challenge came from the 20 to 1 outsider, Swift Agnes, who, staying on in fine style, won comfortably.

Glass Boss and Jill, who had dead-heated for the Malahide Plate at the Phœnix Park a fortnight previously, met again, and on the same terms, in the August Plate; but on this occasion Glass Boss beat the other by a matter of a couple of lengths, the pair being split by Vixen's Charm. Knight's Battle, the crack two-year-old of last season, again ran in disappointing fashion. Details:—

3.0—JUVENILE SELLING HANDICAP of 100 sovs. For two-year-olds. The winner to be sold for 100 sovs. 5 f.
Mr. John M'Enery's b. f. VANITY BOX, by Vencedor—May Pride, 7-7 ... W. Howard 1
Mr. W. W. Ashe's LION'S DEN, 9-0 P. Fitzgerald 2
Mr. H. M. Hartigan's PRONTO, 7-12 R. Cullen 3
Mr. Peter Kelly's Bem, 8-9 ...... P. McEntee 0
Mr. C. A. Rogers's Gallant Prince, 8-10 J. Moylan 0
Mr. R. W. Flannery's Galleon, 8-10 V. Coombs 0
Mr. J. J. Parkinson's Old Roy, 8-4 E. Quirke 0
Mr. Jas. F. Byrne's Gay Soul, 8-2 J. H. Harty 0
Mr. D. J. Cogan's Prince Zan, 8 0 J. Patman 0
Mr. H. M. Hartigan's Bold Sally, 8-2 James Doyle 0
(Winner trained by D. Rogers.)

Betting—5 to 2 agst. Old Roy, 4 to 1 each VANITY BOX and Pronto, 5 to 1 Bold Sally, 8 to 1 Gallant Prince, 10 to 1 Prince Zan, 10 to 1 Lion's Den or any other.

Old Roy lost ground at the start, and Vanity Box made the running from Pronto, Bold Sally, Lion's Den, Gay Soul, and Prince Zan. Inside the distance Lion's Den took second place, but failed to make any impression on Vanity Box, who won in a canter by eight lengths; a head divided second and third. Bem was fourth, Old Roy fifth, Gay Soul Sixth, and Pronto next. Time—63 1-5 secs.

The winner was sold to Mr. T. J. Fleming for 155 sovs.

Captain H. T. Musker's Herd, 3, 7-10 P. Kirby 0
Mr. John O'Brien's Sweet Gift, 5, 7-7 R. Cullen 0
(Winner trained by R. Walker.)

Betting—2 to 1 on BRISTOL ROCKET, 8 to 1 each agst. Minnetonka and Harum Scarum, 20 to 1 Jollification or any other.

Bristol Rocket settled down in front, with Minnetonka, Percival Boy, Jollification, Harum Scarum, and Billy Kelly in attendance. Half a mile from home Jollification joined Bristol Rocket, but soon dropped back beaten, and Bristol Rocket, holding Minnetonka at bay, won easily by four lengths; six lengths divided second and third. Sweet Gift was fourth, Harum Scarum fifth, Billy Kelly sixth, South Quay seventh, Athmoy eighth, and Starstep next. Time—2 mins. 5 3-5 secs.

4.0—KINSEALY PLATE of 75 sovs For maidens at starting. 7 f.
Mr. A. McCann's b. c. LORD ASTOLOT, by Prince Galahad, dam by Jaeger, 3, 8-4 E. Quirke 1

Mr. P. Behan's Louisa, 3, 8-4 (car. 8-7) Joseph Canty 0
Mr. J. T. McGee's Cruising, 3, 8-4 C. O'Connor 0
(Winner trained by Colonel A. J. Blake.)

Betting—Evens LORD ASTOLOT, 5 to 2 agst. Fishpool, 7 to 2 Kildare's Pride, 100 to 1 any other.

Kildare's Pride led from Fishpool, Take My Advice, Spruce, and Lord Astolot, to below the distance. Kildare's Pride was then joined by Lord Astolot and Fishpool, and, the three running out a close finish, Lord Astolot won by a head from Kildare's Pride, with Fishpool three-quarters of a length off, third. Spruce was fourth, and Louisa fifth. Time—1 min. 32 2-5 secs.

4.35—BALDOYLE FOAL PLATE of 500 sovs. Second 75 sovs., third 50 sovs. For two years old. 5 f.
Mrs. C. L. Mackean's ch. c. SOL DE TERRE, by Soldennis—Cascate, 8-0 ...... E. Quirke 1

Mr. E. R. Purdon's JUNIUS, 9-3 ... J. H. Harty 3
Mr. W. Barnett's Bonford, 9-0 ...... M. Wing 0
Major E. M. Conolly's Rose Cygnet, 8-11 Jas. Doyle 0
Mr. J. H. H. Peard's The Whooper, 8-2 J. Connolly 0
(Winner trained by Colonel A. J. Blake.)

Betting—5 to 4 on SOL DE TERRE, 3 to 1 agst Ballyferis, 7 to 1 each Bonford and Junius, 200 to 1 Rose Cygnet, 500 to 1 The Whooper.

Sol de Terre lost ground by swerving at the start, and Ballyferis set the pace to Junius, Bonford, Rose Cygnet, and The Whooper. After a couple of furlongs had been covered, Sol de Terre, coming round on the outside, drew into second place, and challenging Ballyferis in the last furlong, won by half a length; two and a half lengths divided second and third. Bonford was fourth and Rose Cygnet next. Time—61 4-5 secs.

5.0—SUTTON HANDICAP of 75 sovs. A flat race. 1½ m.

Mr. J. A. Mangan's Pucka Ranee, 4, 11-2 Owner 0
(Winner trained by C. Brabazon.)

Betting—3 to 1 agst. Kileager, 7 to 2 Culnagor, 5 to 1 Boinne-na-Brugh, 7 to 1 Sunigree, 100 to 8 each Nice Token and Achates, 100 to 6 each Pucka Ranee and Pucka Shikhari, 20 to 1 each SWIFT AGNES and Royal Orb, 100 to 1 Pensionary.

Achates cut out the work from Sunigree, Pucka Shikari, Culnagor, Boinne-na-Brugh, Royal Orb, and Kileager, for a mile. Pucka Ranee then took second place behind Achates, the pair being attended by Culnagor, Boinne-na-Brugh, Kileager, and Swift Agnes. Inside the distance Boinne-na-Brugh took command, but was headed close home by Swift Agnes, who won by a length and a half; a neck divided second and third. Kileager was fourth, Pucka Ranee fifth, Nice Token sixth, and Royal Orb next. Time—2 mins 47 4-5 secs.

5.30—AUGUST HANDICAP of 100 sovs. 5 f.

THE BOYS' CHAMPIONSHIP.

SCOTTISH SCHOOLBOY WINS.

James Lindsay, a sixteen years old Scottish schoolboy, won the Boys' Golf Championship on Saturday when he defeated J. Scott-Riddell, of Duff House Royal, another Scottish competitor, in the 36 holes' final, on the course of the Edinburgh Burgess Society, at Barnton, by 6 and 4.

The early play presaged a win for Scott-Riddell, who won the first three holes. Lindsay at each of these made errors and his game afterwards suffered. He played poorly against moderate opposition, and was 2 down at the ninth. Then Lindsay settled down to his normal game. He squared the match at the fifteenth hole, and at the next took the lead for the first time. With two halves following, the Falkirk boy finished the round 1 up.

In the second round Lindsay completely outclassed his opponent. He made excellent recoveries to win holes which he seemed certain of losing. Lindsay became 2 up at the first hole of the round, and 3 up at the next, where he holed a three yards' putt for a three. A "birdie" three enabled Lindsay to take the third, his putting now being deadly. On this green he got down from twelve yards. Riddell's first success of the round came at the fourth, where Lindsay made a putting error for once. Halves followed to the seventh. Here Lindsay holed out from fifteen yards, to increase his lead to four, and he won another hole when he negotiated a ten-yarder for a three at the eighth. He turned 5 up, and eventually became dormie 6. Riddell could only secure halves at the thirteenth and fourteenth holes, so that the Falkirk boy won by 6 and 4.

YACHTING.

SKERRIES REGATTA.

What is a regatta committee to do when it is faced with a wet, lowering morning, such as Saturday was in its early hours? Remember that the weather was bad during the day and the night before—that is to say, that it was gloomy and damp, and holding out little or no hope of improvement.

Well, what the Skerries Committee did when this problem was before them was to chance their luck. They went on with their fixture, and they must have some wonderful weather prophets at this popular seaside resort for to anxious queries coming from Howth and Kingstown, their reply was that they were looking for a break in the weather after noon. And duly it came, the damp morning being succeeded by a glorious afternoon.

Perhaps their opinion was stiffened by the optimism shown by some visiting yachts. The first arrivals the evening before were the Happy Days (Mr. Palmer) and Whimbrel (Mr. Borland). They were joined about daylight by the 25-footer, Alana (Mr. H. J. Brown), and Klysma (Mr. C. O'Lochlainn). Thus, there was the nucleus of a regatta fleet.

It was known that many Clontarf boats were weather bound at Howth, that there was a private race for 17-footers from that port, and that two more 25-footers were on their way from Kingstown, and so the Committee held to their fixture, and were rewarded for their courage.

By the way, the sweepstakes match for 17-footers from Howth was won by Bobolink, with Zaida next, then Leila, which had done splendidly up to Skerries. Echo finished fourth, and Anita next.

What a splendid regatta course for the largest class of yachts could be laid out north of Skerries? On a day such as Saturday was, for instance, and with just such another nor-westerly breeze. What the distances sailed on Saturday were did not transpire, but the 25-footers reeled off their three rounds in quite fast time, and, thanks to the wind, the courses in the other races did not appear long.

Mr. Jos. Dollard was officer of the day.

MATCH FOR 25-FOOTERS. Finish:—

	H.	M.	S.
Punctilio (winner), Messrs. Newsom and Stephens	4	58	5
Alana (2nd prize), Mr. H. J. Brown	5	1	20
Concha, Mr. E. G. Peake	5	2	17

Alana had much the best of the start, with Punctilio next, through the line, but on the beat up to the Western (Barnageeragh) mark the latter worked ahead of the other. Alana, however, was only seconds astern as they reached out to the sea mark, where there was a gybe, followed by a run home with spinnakers on starboard hand. At the close of the first round Punctilio was leading Alana by five seconds and Concha by 1 min. 45 secs. Concha pulled up a lot on the beat next time, but at the close of the second round Punctilio was leading Alana by 45 secs. and Concha by 2 mins. 45 secs. Up to the final round Alana was giving Punctilio a grand race for first place, but on the beat this time the former seemed to strike a softer wind at one point than the other, and Punctilio now drew away to win by 3¼ mins. at the line.

MATCH, for 17 Footers. Finish:—

	H.	M.	S.
Zaida (winner), Dr. H. H. Poole	5	25	40
Echo (2nd prize), Mr. R. Hall	5	26	30
Bobolink, Mr. R. N. Guinness	5	28	0
Leila, Mr. W. MacBride	retired.

Some of the 17-Footers were caught unready by the preparatory gun, and the start suffered in consequence. At the close of the first round Echo, which had got away late, had made a remarkable recovery, Zaida leading her by one minute, she being just ahead of Leila. At the end of the second round Zaida led Echo by 1 min. 43 secs.; Leila by 3 mins. 12 secs., and Bobolink by 5 mins. 33 secs. Leila dropped out soon afterwards. Both Echo and Bobolink reduced Zaida's lead on the final round.

HANDICAP, for Small Cruisers. Finish:—

	H.	M.	S.
Klysma (winner), Mr. C. O'Lochlainn (2 mins.)	6	2	10
Mavis (2nd prize), Mr. J. B. Kearney (scr.)	6	4	3
Nirvana, Mr. A. W. Mooney (3 mins.)	6	7	20

Mavis was a late arrival at Skerries, but was in time to start in this match, in which she was scratch boat. She led Klysma by 34 secs. and Nirvana by 3 mins. 24 secs. at the close of the first round. Klysma, which was sailing particularly well, led her by 30 secs., and Nirvana 5 mins. 40 secs., at the end of the next. At the finish Mavis took second prize by 17 secs. from Nirvana on the handicap.

HANDICAP, for Decked and Half-decked boats. Finish:—

	H.	M.	S.
Maureen (winner), Mr. J. McDermott (scr.)	6	15	3
Falcon (2nd prize), Messrs. Paine and Hutchinson (3½ mins.)	6	18	16
May Mischief (3rd prize), Mr. J. Ricard (3½ mins.)	6	21	27
Seabird, Messrs. Tucker and McMorrogh (—)	6	27	2

Maureen was a post entry, the others being units of the Clontarf fleet, and she was made scratch.

DUBLIN BAY SAILING CLUB.

With the 25-Footers away at Skerries the 21-Footers were the largest boats competing in the bay on Saturday. The afternoon was a splendid one, with smooth water and a fine W.N.W. breeze.

HANDICAP for 21-Footers. Start, 3.10 p.m. Finish:—

	H.	M.	S.
Geraldine (winner), Mr. W. McDowell (1 min.)	5	15	34
Garavoge, Mr. L. Gower (scr.)	5	16	36
Oola, Mr. F. E. Bermingham (4 mins.)	5	17	45

Once again Geraldine was back in winning form. She led at the start—Oola was second at the line—and held the lead to the finish, but with Garavoge, which secured second place fairly early, never far astern.

HANDICAP, for 17-Footers. Start, 3.15 p.m. Finish:—

	H.	M.	S.
Pauline (winner), Mr. G. F. Rae (scr.)	4	49	19
Deilginis, Captain O'Brien-Twohig (6 mins.)	4	57	31
Mimosa, Dr. J. T. Wigham (3 mins.)	5	14	35

Pauline led from start to finish, to win easily at the end. In addition to the club prize, she took the 2nd tie for the Commodore's prize.

HANDICAP MATCH FOR WATER WAGS. Start—3.25 p.m. Finish:—

	H.	M.	S.
Phyllis (winner)—Mr. G. A. Newsom (scratch)	4	31	15
Tomboy—Messrs. Barrett and Donnelly (scratch)	4	32	40
Blue Bird (2nd prize)—Dr. G. Pugin Meldon (2 mins.)	4	33	32
Coquette—Mr G. H. Jones (4 mins.)	retired.

The starting order was Tomboy, Coquette, Phyllis, Blue Bird, and at the first mark (the Guardship Buoy) Coquette was leader (with the inside berth as they came round it), with Phyllis and Tomboy close up. Halfway through the beat, then to the Coal Harbour Mark, Coquette dropped out for no apparent reason. This left Phyllis with the lead, but Tomboy and Blue Bird gave her a good race up to the finish.

SEAPOINT BOAT CLUB.

	H.	M.	S.
Bonita (winner)—Messrs. Hartnell and McGoogan (scratch)	5	19	39
Mercia III—Mr. W. J. Smalldridge (1½ mins.)	5	29	10
Alethea—Mr. J. Kelly (3½ mins.)	5	32	20
Brunette —— (—)	5	58	7

The handicaps are in minutes for hour, and on such a scale Bonita must be an easy winner. The difficulty is Brunette. What is her handicap? Mercia III. led at the start, then coming Bonita and Alethea (somewhat late), and, lastly, Brunette. On this occasion Bonita made hacks of the others, as the finishing times show.

MATCH FOR DINGHIES. Start—3.40 p.m. Finish:—

	H.	M.	S.
Cormorant (winner)—Dr. H. J. Wright	4	54	35
Seamew (2nd prize)—Mr. W. B. Conyngham	5	2	50
Ibis—Mr. J. Wallace	5	10	48

With Kittiwake a non-starter and Curlew absent also, the start was on the small side. Cormorant literally ran away with the race.

BRIXHAM REGATTA.

MISHAP TO SHAMROCK.

There was a somewhat light wind yesterday when Brixham regatta was brought to a close. An interesting programme included matches for the over 21 metres, 12 metres, and 8 metres classes. In the match for the over 21 metres class the starters (at 10.30 a.m.) were: Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock, Mr. H. C. Davies's Westward, Mr. A. Paton's Lulworth, Lord Waring's White Heather, and Lord Camrose's Cambria. The schooner Westward had to allow Shamrock, White Heather, and Lulworth 38 secs.; Candida 3 mins. 48 secs. and Cambria 4 mins. 45 secs. over the course of 38 sea miles. Shamrock was recalled at the start, being over the line before the gun. She was, however, second boat at the end of the run to the first mark, where she carried away her topmast in a hard puff, and gave up.

Lulworth, Candida, Westward, Cambria, and White Heather was the order at the end of the first round. On the second circuit Westward the scratch boat, worked into the second place, but did not save her time for a prize. The official corrected times of a very keenly contested race were:—

	H.	M.	S.
Lulworth (winner)	2	36	33
Candida (2nd prize)	2	36	50
Cambria (3rd prize)	2	37	20
Westward	2	40	2
White Heather	2	43	50

There were seven starters in the match for the 12-metre class—viz., Sir W. Burton's Iyruna, Mr. B. S. Guinness's Iris, Mr. J. C. Lewis's Rhona, Mr. A. C. Connell's Zinita, Mr. T. Sopwith's Mouette, Mr. W. Leuchar's Moyana, and Mr. C. R. Fairey's Flica.

At the end of the first round the order was: Mouette, Iris, Iyruna, Flica, Rhona, Moyana, and Zinita. The latter did not complete the second circuit. The official finishing times were:—

	H.	M.	S.
Iris (winner)	2	31	19
Mouette (2nd prize)	2	31	28
Iyruna (3rd prize)	2	31	46

Moyana	2	33	40
Rhona	2	33	50

Lord Foster's Unity, Messrs. Rooney's Emily II. and Sir H. Frank's June were the winners in the 8-metre class.

PLYMOUTH REGATTA.

Mr. V. G. Grace's Dana gained another winning flag on last Saturday at Plymouth, second to her being Paula. In the handicap for cruisers 5 to 25 tons, Kathleen (Mr. A. Cockburn) took first prize, Spero (Major Coatsm Smyth) being second and Mobile (Admiral Backhouse) third.

BALLYHOLME REGATTA.

Ballyholme Yacht Club's regatta was held at Ballyholme on Saturday. Races were provided for all the one-design classes on Belfast Lough, together with an event for cruisers not exceeding 12 tons, and another for boats belonging to the Holywood and Carrickfergus Sailing Club. There was a good sailing breeze blowing from the west, and the course of, approximately, six miles provided a beat to the first mark off Smelt Mill Bay, a close haul to the north-westerly mark, a run to the north-easterly mark and a broad reach home.

Handicap for yachts not exceeding 12 tons. Two rounds. Start at 2 p.m. Starters:—Vixen, 2 mins. 10 secs. per mile (A. Tragenna); Emerald, 2 mins. 23 secs (W. F. Milne); Curlew, scratch (T. Carney); Corona, 10 secs. (J. Weatherup, jun.); Carina, scratch (J. T. M. Hogg and W. W. Elliott); Phantom, 1 min 50 secs. (Captain T. H. Johns). Finish (corrected times):—

	H.	M.	S.
Vixen	4	27	40
Curlew (3rd)	4	26	8
Corona (2nd)	4	23	45
Phantom (winner)	4	19	25
Carina disqualified.
Emerald disqualified.

In the Island Class there were four starters, and Trasnagh (4 hrs. 15 mins. 35 secs.) won from Vaila (4 hrs. 15 mins. 55 secs.).

Laragh (4 hrs. 42 mins. 30 secs.) won the River Class from Glynn (4 hrs. 43 mins. 43 secs.).

In the Waverley Class there were eleven starters, and Ivanhoe (5 hrs. 12 mins. 55 secs.) won from Lilias (5 hrs. 13 mins. 50 secs.), with Peveril (5 hrs. 14 mins. 29 secs) third.

Mazurka (4 hrs. 11 mins. 6 secs.) won the Dancing Class, Pixie the Fairy Class, and Erne the Lake Class.

MOTOR CYCLING.

MILE CHAMPIONSHIP.

FAST TIMES AT CORK.

The one mile National Championships of the Motor Cycle Union of Ireland were decided at Cork on Saturday under the auspices of the Cork and District Motor Club. Following the precedent of last year, the events were run off on the new cement road leading from the outskirts of the city at Victoria Cross towards Macroom—an admirable venue, affording a clear run of a mile without anything in the nature of a bend. The road was closed to ordinary traffic by an order of the Central Executive authorities.

While the entries for the championships were not large, they were sufficiently numerous to afford a nice afternoon's sport, and, with a mile scratch race for the championship of the club and a flying mile for a prize presented by President Cosgrave, made an attractive programme.

The National Championship was decided in the usual classes. Gordon Burney (Royal Enfield) and B. P. Carton (Excelsior) won the 250 and 350 classes respectively. Burney did 54.5 miles per hour in beating J. A. Allison in the final, and Carton did 72.3 to beat C. W. Taylor, of Athy. These speeds were attained from a standing start, and indicate that the course was a very fast one.

Mile National Championship. 250 c.c. Class J. Gordon Burney, Dublin (Royal Enfield), 1; J. A. Allison, Cork (Francis Barnett), 2. Won easily. Time—66 2-5 secs (54.5 m.p.h.).

350 c.c. Class—B. P. Carton, Dublin (Excelsior), 1; C. W. Taylor, Athy (Sunbeam), 2.—Time—49 4.5 secs (72.3 m.p.h.).

GREYHOUND RACING.

SHELBOURNE PARK.

There was much excellent racing on Saturday night at Shelbourne Park, when backers had rather the worse of matters, as only two first favourites succeeded in catching the judge's eye.

The Celtic Hurdle and the Sandymount Hurdle provided the keenest races of the night. The former was won by My Nellie after a great contest with Texas, the latter only failing by a head. Coole Hill, after being led for a good part of the journey beat the favourite, John's Tim, by half a length in the Sandymount Hurdle after a great race from the last obstacle.

Jay Dee put up a fine performance in winning the Shelbourne Stake, coming through half the way round to beat the outsider, Hero's Heart, by two lengths. Nancy Baker fully justified confidence by taking the Dublin Stake, in which the Cork dog, Ocean Chimer, got second, and is one sure to win before very long. Details:—

MICK THE MILLER BEATEN.

BACK ISLE WINS THE FIRST OF THE MATCHES.

The two crack racing greyhounds, Miss V. Jones's Back Isle and Mr. A. H. Williams's Greyhound Derby winner Mick the Miller, met in the first of their two matches at Cardiff on Saturday, Back Isle winning by two and a half lengths in 29.72 secs. The match was over 550 yards. After Mick the Miller had won the Greyhound Derby at the White City, London, Back Isle broke the world's record for 525 yards by covering the distance, at Cardiff, in 29.64 secs. This led up to the two dogs being matched. They will meet again at Wimbledon next Saturday.

AMERICAN WOMEN'S CHAMPIONSHIPS.

MISS WILLS RETAINS TITLE.

ENGLISH VICTORY IN THE DOUBLES.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., August 24.

Six thousand people, all keyed up to the highest pitch of enthusiasm, assembled on the centre court of the West Side Club here to-day to witness the Anglo-American final for the women's single championship of America. That their expectations of a good match were justified is proved by the fact that for the first time in the tournament Miss Wills, the holder of the championship, had found an opponent worthy of her steel. The gallery cheered wildly when the dark-haired Englishwoman gave the champion stroke for stroke throughout most of the first set, and Forest Hills has seldom heard such an uproar as that which arose when Mrs. Watson took the lead at the first game and again at the fifth. In the second set Miss Wills was able to take and hold the offensive most of the time, but in this set, as in the first, she was harried and worried by the Englishwoman's wonderfully accurate drives, which beat a tattoo on the corners of the court. Apparently thriving upon the champion's speed Mrs. Watson sent the ball whistling back again and again in the rallies, often succeeding in outsteadying her opponent.

HELEN INACCURATE.

The deadly accuracy which hitherto has made Miss Wills invulnerable throughout the series seemed to be lacking, and she often netted and hit out of court, particularly in the first set, when Mrs. Watson mixed her returns beautifully, using a deceptive change of pace, and pounding at the champion's back-hand. Mrs. Watson's unexpectedly good showing at this stage of the game greatly pleased the spectators. Miss Wills made a costly error in the ninth game, netting when Mrs. Watson was leading 40-30, thus reducing the margin of games in her favour to one, and leaving the Englishwoman once more in the running.

In the second set Miss Wills recovered all her old speed and marksmanship, and speedily won the first two games, but lost the third after a hard fight. After repeated deuces Mrs. Watson was able to wrest the offensive from her opponent and actually outdrove her. The Californian, however, imperturbable as ever, applied even more pressure after the third, and took three quick games for a lead of five to one. How tenaciously Mrs. Watson struggled throughout the match is indicated by her great stand in the seventh game, when she pulled up from love-40 to take her service, winning three match points in a row. In the final game she warded off defeat once more when Miss Wills as at match point against her, but the American took the final point, set and match, to win the American singles championship for the sixth time. The match took forty-four minutes, or twice as long as Miss Wills has hitherto taken for a match all through the tournament. Until meeting Mrs. Watson the champion had only two games scored against her.

It is interesting to note that in each set Miss Wills aggregated ten points more than her opponent, and that only three double-faults were scored throughout: two by Miss Wills and one by Mrs. Watson.

AN ENGLISH VICTORY.

Having previously assisted Mrs. Michell to defeat Miss Betty Nuthall and Miss Helen Jacobs in the unfinished semi-final match, postponed from yesterday, Mrs. Watson partnered by Mrs. Michell, opposed another British pair in the final of the women's doubles in Mrs. Covell and Mrs. Shepherd-Barron, whom they met and defeated in the all-England women's doubles at Wimbledon in July. Here Mrs. Watson's sterling tennis and fine sportsmanship gained their reward. After being beaten badly in the first set, the English champions dominated the match to win easily. Mrs. Watson was again the outstanding figure, despite her previous hard fights, her well-aimed drives completely beating Mrs. Covell and Mrs. Shepherd-Barron. The previous holders of the women's doubles championship were Miss Helen Wills and Mrs. Wightman (United States). This year, however, Miss Wills did not compete, and Mrs. Wightman, partnered by Miss M. Morill, was eliminated in one of the early rounds. Results:—

SINGLES—Final.

Miss Helen Wills (United States) beat Mrs. Watson (Great Britain)—6-4, 6-2.

DOUBLES—Final.

Mrs. Watson and Mrs. Michell (Great Britain) beat Mrs. Covell and Mrs. Shepherd-Barron (Great Britain)—2-6, 6-2, 6-4.

CRICKET.

ANDERSON AND INGRAM

MAKE SHORT WORK OF PHŒNIX BATSMEN.

Leinster proved much too strong for Phœnix in the Park on Saturday, and gained a decisive victory by 126 runs. Both sides were below strength, but Phœnix in this respect were the greatest sufferers, as they had A. P. Kelly, D. R. Pigot and W. P. Hone away, while Leinster had J. B. Ganly absent.

Batting first, the Rathmines Club put together 188 in two and a half hours, when, with three wickets down, the innings was declared. A feature of the batting was the fine stand by Anderson and Hill, who, in support of the second wicket, added 97, out of which Hill made 62—an excellent contribution which included one 6 and six 4's. Anderson played correct, if patient, cricket, and was not out with 51 to his credit at the declaration. He gave one chance, and hit one 6 and three 4's. Ingram, who opened the innings with Anderson, made 21 out of 26, when he was smartly held in the slips by Buttanshaw.

Phœnix had an hour and three-quarters to bat, but, against the unchanged attack of Ingram and Anderson, fared disastrously, and in a little over an hour were dismissed for 62. V. H. Riddell, a recent member of the club, batted confidently for 17 while Buttanshaw was at the wickets forty minutes for his contribution of 15. Anderson secured five wickets for 31, and Ingram four for 26 runs. The Leinster fielding was very keen. Score:—

LOW SCORING AT CLONTARF.

PEMBROKE BEATEN BY 47 RUNS.

In a low scoring game at Castle avenue on Saturday, Clontarf beat Pembroke by 47 runs, close on four hours' cricket only producing 143. This was accounted for by the sodden state of the pitch, which became more difficult later under the influence of sun and wind. Clontarf batted first, and found the ball hard to get away, losing five wickets in an hour for 41 runs. Buxton kept his end up during this time for 12, before being run out. James Sweeney (11, well held at long on by Hopkins), G. Morgan (10 not out), and W. C. Pemberton (12, run out, 2 fours) improved matters, and the total reached 95, Hirst having three wickets for 15 in 13 overs, five of which were maidens, while Dr. McMahon took four for 34.

Pembroke were early in the wars, and lost L. P. McCarthy and L. McMullan with only three scored. A. D. Barber batted stolidly for an hour for 18, the top score of the game, and Rajah got 11; but the Clontarf attack stuck up the rest, the last five wickets only adding nine runs between them. Pemberton had the good figures of five for 22, while Reynolds took three for 7, and James Sweeney two for 12. Score:—

INTERMEDIATE CUP FINAL.

VICTORY OF MERRION II.

Defeating Y.M.C.A. by 37 runs in the final at Sydney Parade on Saturday, Merrion 2nd won the Intermediate Cup.

For their victory they may chiefly thank P. B. Kenny and T. O'N. Kiely, who, coming together at the fall of the sixth wicket, completely changed the aspect of the game. The earlier batsmen had given a dispiriting display. The first 10 runs had taken an hour to compile, and six men were out for 22. When Kenny joined Kiely he immediately began to hit, and quickly knocked up 55, which included three 6's and five 4's. When he left the partnership had added 64, and imminent defeat had been turned into possible victory. Kiely who had subdued his game in the interests of the side, was eventually run out for 19, and the whole innings realised 110.

Y.M.C.A. began even worse than Merrion, the first four wickets falling for 5 runs. The later batsmen did better, R. Hussey making a sound 27, A. Breakey 14, and F. W. Moore 11. They were, however, unable to repair the early disasters, and the innings closed for 73, and Merrion were left winners as stated. Kiely supplemented his good batting by taking 4 wickets for 20 runs, while Keegan had 3 for 13. Subsequently the cup was presented to the winning team by Mr. F. G. Hudson. Score:—

CLONTARF ON TOUR.

Clontarf, thanks to whose annual tour in Kerry, under the auspices of Mr. J. G. Oulton, there has been a great improvement in the game in the "Kingdom," open a week's cricket in the South to-day, when they meet Kenmare Juniors at Kenmare. To-morrow they oppose Kenmare at the same venue, and the rest of the itinerary is as follows:—Wednesday—Waterville C.C., at Waterville; Thursday—County Kerry at Waterville. The tour will end with a two-day fixture on Friday and Saturday with Cork County, at the Mardyke. The touring party is comprised of: R. S. Montgomery (president), J. G. Oulton, J. M. Sweeney, A. J. G. White, W. E. Lewis, A. R. White, F. E. Buxton, C. F. Reynolds, G. Morgan, C. M. Lloyd, P. Callan, R. W. Kilmurry, and W. C. Pemberton.

LEINSTER JUNIOR CUP FINAL.

LEINSTER BEAT MULLINGAR.

Leinster 3rd won the Leinster Junior Cup yesterday at Rathmines by defeating Mullingar in the final by 37 runs with 4 wickets to spare. The visitors were below full strength, owing to a couple of their best players having had a motor breakdown on the way from Mullingar. Murphy and Alison bowled unchanged for Leinster, the former getting 6 wickets for 34 and Alison 3 for 15 runs.

Leinster got the runs for the loss of 2 wickets, but, continuing on, had made 88 for 6 wickets when play ceased. Mr. P. J. Bermingham presented the cup to the winners. Score:—

SWIMMING.

SKERRIES S.C. GALA.

The improvement in the weather on Saturday afternoon contributed materially to the success of the Swimming Section of the Skerries Regatta, a crowd of about 2,000 packing the Harbour Pier and road, and evidently enjoying the programme in the bright, warm sunshine.

Excellent entries were obtained in all the events, the support given the programme by the metropolitan clubs being gratifying to the promoters. Four heats were necessary in the men's open 100, and three in the ladies'. In the former, B. McKeown (Pembroke) was successful in the final, after being third in his heat; and in the latter Miss Temple, Dublin, won both her heat and the final. Miss Blunn, Clontarf, won the ladies' diving handicap from nine opponents, and Mr. E. Hero won the men's diving, after conceding points to twelve aspirants. The prizes were presented by Mr. J. McDermott, President of the Regatta Committee. Details:—

Ladies' 66 Yards Handicap (Club)—Miss K. Conroy (15), 1; Miss H. Heeney (scr.), 2; Miss K. Gallagher (20), 3. Nine competed. Won by a yard; half a yard. Time—66 9-10 secs.

Men's 220 Yards Handicap (Club).—J. Cullen (8), 1; W. Harford (8), 2; J. Cummins (3) and J. Kiernan (scr.), dead-heat, 3. Ten competed. Won by four yards; two yards. Time—4 mins. 4-5 secs.

Men's 100 Yards Handicap (Open).—Heat 1—J. Cummins, Skerries (18), 1; J. O'Brien, Clontarf (17), 2; S. Healy, Sandycove (28), 3. Six competed. Time—91 secs. Heat 2—L. Hughes, Sandycove (16), 1; C. Grier, Clontarf (16), 2; J. Hinchcliffe, Dublin University (15), 3. Seven competed. Time—100 secs. Heat 3—J. Dowds, Dublin (7), 1; P. Dockrell, Dublin (11), 2; P. O'Byrne, Civic Guards (10), 3. Five competed. Time—81 secs. Heat 4—J. Forde, Sandycove (19), 1; L. O'Brien, Sandycove (5), 2; B. McKeown, Pembroke (9), 3. Five competed. Time—96 secs. Final—McKeown, 1; J. O'Brien, 2; L. O'Brien, 3. Time—85 secs.

Ladies' Diving Handicap (Open).—Miss L. Blunn, Clontarf (2), 1; Miss J. McDonagh, Dublin (scr.), 2; Miss M. Dockrell, Dublin (4), 3. Thirteen competed.

Men's Diving Handicap (Open).—E. Heron, Half-Moon (scr.), 1; B. Walsh, University College and Skerries (4), 2; J. H. Morton, Pembroke (2), 3. Thirteen competed.

100 Yards Ladies' Handicap (Open).—Heat 1—Miss D. Taylor, Pembroke (10), 1; Miss M. Dockrell, Dublin (scr.), 2; Miss J. Keogh, Clontarf (17), 3. Six competed. Time—105 secs. Symes, Pembroke (20), 2; Miss J. Brown, Pembroke (14), 3. Eleven competed. Time—100 secs. Final—Miss Temple, 1; Miss Taylor, 2; Misses McElwee and Dockrell, dead-heat, 3. Time—110 secs.

50 Yards Boys' Handicap (Club).—J. Doran (17), 1; B. Ryan (18), 2; J. Molloy, 3. Nine competed. Time—45 secs.

BRAY S.C. GALA.

Postponed from the 28th July on account of inclement weather, the annual gala of the Bray Club was held at the Esplanade yesterday before a crowd which, while large, did not reach the dimensions of the attendance usually associated with this fixture. The programme was a lengthy one, composed of club and open handicap events and an invitation squadron race between junior clubs, which was, perhaps, the most attractive item on the card, and which produced a fine finish in that J. V. Glass, National University, just failed to get on terms with L. Gaffney, of Half Moon, who had had a useful start when taking off for the last two lengths. The programme was handled in most capable style by Mr. Leo McDonnell, all the events being worked off with commendable promptitude. The prizes were presented by Mrs. D. Frame. Details:—

33 Yards Club Handicap (Juveniles)—Miss C. Scraggs, 1; Miss B. Coughlan (7), 2; Miss D. Murphy, 3. Twelve competed.

50 Yards Club Handicap (Boys and Girls)—H. Murphy (4), 1; J. Doyle (10), 2; A. Bailey (10), 3. Six competed.

50 Yards Club Handicap (Ladies)—Miss E. O'Brien (13), 1; Miss E. Coughlan (13), 2; Miss M. Murphy (2), 3. Twelve competed.

100 Yards Club Championship (Maher Cup)—J. Scannell (holder), 1; M. Vaughan, 2; P. Morgan, 3. Eight competed. Time—87 secs.

50 Yards Boys' Handicap (Open)—L. K. Hughes, Sandycove (7), 1; B. Banks, Bray (7), 2; D. G. Walsh, Bray (6), 3. Nine competed. Time—31 secs.

Men's Diving Handicap—W. Mordaunt, Bray (7), 1; E. Heron, Half Moon (scr.), 2; M. P. Heron, Half Moon (7), 3. Nine competed.

100 Yards Men's Handicap (Open)—C. R. Walshe, Sandycove (20) and J. Flanagan, Sandycove (16), dead-heat, 1; P. O'Byrne, Civic Guard (12), 3. Eight competed. Time—75 secs. C. R. Walshe, 71 secs. J. Flanagan.

Invitation Squadron Race (Junior Clubs)—Half Moon (J. Walsh, L. Gaffney, E. Holland, E. Harper), 1; National University, 2; Bray, 3. Won by a yard; four yards. Time—3 mins. 15 secs.

Ladies' Diving Handicap—Miss S. Sherlock, Pembroke (4), 1; Miss E. McElwee, Dublin (5), 2; Miss M. Dockrell, Dublin (3), 3. Four competed.

Humorous Diving—F. Quinn, 1; J. Drumm, 2.

100 Yards Ladies' Handicap (Open)—Heat 1—Miss Jordan, Bray (35), 1; Miss M. Somerville, Clontarf (20), 2; Miss B. Morgan, Clontarf (18), 3. Seven competed. Time—103 secs. Heat 2—Miss E. Symes, Pembroke (18), 1; Miss L. Quinn, Dublin (8), 2; Miss S. O'Neill, Bray (10), 3. Time—93 secs. Final—Miss O'Neill, 1; Miss Quinn, 2; Miss Jordan, 3. Time—86 secs.

440 Yards Men's Handicap (Open)—C. O'Toole, Republican S.C. (60), 1; C. P. Kenna, Sandycove (25), 2; C. Brady, Sandycove (45), 3. Nine competed. Won a finely-contested race by two yards; a yard. Time—7 mins. 45 secs.

POST OFFICE CLUB.

The first Gala organised by this club, which has recently been established, was held at Clontarf Baths. There was a large attendance, and, favoured by fine weather and keen competition, the initial Gala was a decided success. The following were the results of different events:—

33 Yards (Novices)—P. J. Carr, 1; T. Brophy, 2; C. Morgan, 3. Time—24 secs.

66 Yards, Handicap—D. P. Sinclair, 1; W. Hutchinson, 2; J. Lynch, 3. Time—1 min. 54 secs.

66 Yards (Back Stroke)—G. O'Connor, 1; M. Gilson, 2; J. Lynch, 3. Time—2 mins. 15 secs.

100 Yards, Handicap—S. Rickard, 1; D. P. Sinclair, 2; G. O'Connor, 3. Time—2 mins. 23 secs.

220 Yards, Handicap—S. Rickard, 1; G. O'Connor, 2; C. Cahill, 3. Time—4 mins. 30 secs.

Diving Competition—J. Nugent, 1; W. Hutchinson, 2; E. Byrne, 3.

A fine exhibition of diving given by Miss L. Blunn and Mr. P. Dunn was thoroughly enjoyed. Mr. W. Norton, hon. president, distributed the prizes, some of which were presented by the Post Office Workers' Union Club, to encourage the success of the swimming club.

ASSOCIATION

THE SEASON OPENED.

BOHEMIANS BEGIN WITH A WIN.

BOHEMIANS......... 2 SHELBOURNE......... 1

In defeating Shelbourne by the odd goal of three in their opening Free State League match Bohemians showed a fitness and speed which was remarkable for a starting game. The success of their Belgian tour undoubtedly acted as a stimulus, but few of the big crowd at Dalymount on Saturday expected to see them in such forward condition. The ground was in perfect condition, which favoured the amateurs. From the start the pace was very fast, and Bohemians' backs, combining well, established a firm grip, which Shelbourne's attack seldom broke through. McMahon, at centre half, was very effective, and kept his quick-moving forwards always well plied with the ball. With the exception of Clery, who acted as leader of the attack, the team was the same as at the finish of last season. White, who again played at outside left, was very quick, but he invariably tried to score instead of centring the ball. Bermingham on the other side of the line, was more effective, and had Clery taken advantage of the many opportunities which he presented him with the score would have been larger.

Shelbourne, who included three of their new local forwards—Ledwidge, Casey and Dixon—showed shortage of training, the attack being disjointed. The new comers, suffering from inexperience, missed their passes, and shot with little or no judgment, while the half-backs, though hard workers, were badly together. Maguire, in the centre, was the best of the line; he, however, was unequal to the task of holding the home attack in the absence of support. In the early play the full-backs were safe, and defended well. They failed to stay, and were often mixed up in dealing with the rushes of Bohemians' forwards.

The outstanding feature of Shelbourne's game was the fine goalkeeping of Diffen, the ex-Belfast Celtic player, who saved his side from a much severer defeat.

Thirty minutes from the start Bermingham gained the lead from a free on the penalty line. The second goal came from White, after Diffen had saved from Dennis, who recovered smartly, and sent to the outside left, who closed in quickly to score. Bohemians lost chances of increasing their lead subsequently. Shelbourne were awarded a penalty, which Cannon saved, and before the end Morton made a bad mistake which let Davis run through to score.

Bohemians—Captain H. Cannon; M. O'Kane, J. McCarthy; P. O'Kane, J. McMahon, A. Morton; J. Bermingham, N. Dennis, W. Clery, A. Horlacher, J. White.

Shelbourne—Diffen; Gilhooley, Byrne; Kinsella, Maguire, Thomas; Casey, Ledwidge, Davis, Dixon, Kendrick.

EIGHT GOALS WIN.

JAMES'S GATE TOO STRONG FOR JACOBS.

JAMES'S GATE ...... 8 JACOBS 0

The opening match between St. James's Gate and Jacobs at Rutland avenue yesterday proved a one-sided affair, and though James's Gate had eight clear goals at the finish they could easily have made a much bigger score had they persevered. St. James's Gate included Wilson and O'Dowd in the forward line and McDonald in goal, the trio being new, and all showed promise, particularly the first-named, who played at outside left. Well led by Westby, the forwards played with dash, and though they were inclined to loft the ball unduly they were always too good for the feeble opposition of Jacobs' backs, who were kept bottled up for the whole of the game. Early in the second half, when St. James's Gate held a lead of three goals, Collins, Jacobs' goal-keeper, got hurt and Bradman changed places with him. The latter, however, was unable to deal with the shots which came to him and was beaten five times.

Four minutes from the start Comerford secured the lead and Westby and Wilson added goals before the interval. In the second period Wilson (twice), Westby, Kavanagh and O'Dowd were the scorers.

Jacobs—Collins; Ronan, Farrell; Nibbs, Kelly, Bradman; Heron, Hickey, Cameron, Owens, Carlyle.

St. James's Gate—McDonald; O'Leary, Murphy; Tynan, McKay, Murray; Kavanagh, Comerford, Westby, O'Dowd, Wilson.

ROVERS OPEN WELL.

DUNDALK WELL BEATEN AT HOME.

SHAMROCK ROVERS 2 DUNDALK 0

Shamrock Rovers opened the season splendidly by a fine win over Dundalk yesterday. The game was played at the Athletic Grounds, Dundalk, to a record crowd, and in delightful weather. Rovers played with the dash and grit which characterised their Cup games at the end of last season, and their win by two clear goals does not flatter them. The Dundalk team included only Patton and Ferguson of last year's eleven, the remainder being Northern or cross-Channel players, amongst them being Harry Beadles, formerly of Liverpool and Sheffield Wednesday. The only newcomer of the Rovers' side was Chervi, who replaced Maguire at full back. The little junior was the outstanding defender on the field, and his steady and neat clearances evoked loud applause. Fullam started the movement which got the Rovers their first score. He crossed a ball well to Flood, and the forward easily beat Kelly, who was slow to tackle. Flood centred and Sloan shot hard past Smith from close range. Dundalk failed to sustain their form in the second half, while Rovers played even better football. For the first time in the game the visiting forwards moved in unison, and their shooting was always strong and straight. Smith and his fulls were sorely tested. Twenty minutes had gone by when Byrne took a pass from Sherwin, and shot well clear of the Dundalk goalkeeper for the second goal. Meantime, the Dundalk forward line had been changed, Beadles going centre-forward instead of Kayes, but the alteration did not effect an improvement. Five minutes from the end Patton, the Dundalk centre-half, who was outstanding for his side, was ordered off for a foul on Glenn. Rovers were pressing to the end, but no further goals came.

BRIDEVILLE LUCKY.

PENALTY KICK MISSED FOR BRAY UNKNOWNS.

BRIDEVILLE......... 3 BRAY UNKNOWNS 2

Bray Unknowns visited Inchicore yesterday, and were decidedly unlucky in not dividing the points. Rogers, their centre-forward, missed a penalty kick, and towards the end of the game he struck the crossbar with a great effort. A draw would have been a better result, as, apart from these two incidents, Brideville's winning score (per Steadman) was of the lucky pattern. Following a throw-in early in the second half, Steadman centred the ball in front of the Bray goal well, and Dunne, the custodian, seemed to misjudge its flight, and it entered the net. Unknowns' performance was particularly good, when it is taken into consideration that they were three goals down shortly after the resumption. From that period on they had much the better of the play, and reduced the deficit by two goals. Brideville had two-thirds of the game in the first half, in which they got two goals, per Steadman and Reid, and their share would have been bigger but for the fact that the forwards were slow in taking advantage of their opportunities. Rogers and Blackford were the scorers for Bray Unknowns, and the former's goal was the best of the match.

Brideville—Hegarty; Kenny, and Bermingham; Steadman, Charles and Fox; Smyth, Morgan, Donovan, W. Smith, and Reid.

Bray Unknowns—Dunne; Daly and Ebbs; Kane, Fennell and MacFarlane; Lally, Hogan, Rogers, Davis and Blackford.

FORDSON'S FIRST.

NEW PLAYERS SEEN TO ADVANTAGE.

FORDSONS .... 1 DRUMCONDRA 0

Prior to yesterday's success by 1 goal (Lindsay) to nil Fordsons had never defeated, or even drawn, with Drumcondra. The clubs' opening game at Tolka Park provided good football and plenty of exciting incidents for the large crowd. Fordsons, who had only two of last season's team assisting them, gave a sprightly display, and on this showing the changes generally have caused improvement. They were seen at their best in the opening period, when, following many commendable efforts by their attack, they secured (in the nineteenth minute) the vital goal. Dickson had dashed along the wing to turn a perfect centre for Lindsay to head through. All five forwards were in this half dangerous raiders, and the three inside men particularly were dashing and skilful.

Dickson (Dunfermline) is a youthful player, who possesses speed and a clear sense of his position. Griffice (Clapton Orient) and Lindsay (a Scot, who developed with a Cork junior club) were clever strategists, and they played up well to their dashing leader, Watters, who is a popular figure in Dublin. Less was seen of Jordan (late St. James's Gate), but he was poorly supported by Heinneman, the latter assuming a defensive role in his unusual position of half-back. Sullivan and McLaughlin (Coleraine) played splendidly in the middle line, but they, too, did not link up any too well with their attack. The full-backs, McNeill (Larne) and Rowles (Dundalk) were both resourceful and reliable. McCarthy was making his debut in senior football from a Cork junior club. Drumcondra had plenty of chances, but their forwards were weak in finishing.

Fordsons—McCarthy; McNeill, Rowles; Heinnemann, Sullivan, McLoughlin; Jordan, Lindsay, Watters, Griffice, Dickson.

Drumcondra—Cleary; Dunne, Daly; Casey, Hughes, Maxwell; P. O'Brien, Fleming, G. O'Brien, McCarney, Murray.

LEINSTER LEAGUE.

ROVERS' EASY WIN.

SHAMROCK ROVERS 4 UNIVERSITY COLL. 0

At Milltown on Saturday, Moore, Mahony, Kinley and Couzer scored for Rovers.

University College, who are as yet without some of their regular players, performed creditably with an experimental side. Against their keen tackling and bustling play Rovers found it hard to settle down, and had the students possessed a little better finishing power their share of play in the opening half must have merited a couple of scores. The forwards, however, were disjointed in their movements, and although Donaghy and Jas. O'Donnell often got the ball across from the wings, the inside men were weak. Though Rovers failed to score in the first half, their forwards exhibited a good sense of direction, and the College custodian was often in action. With the students failing to stay the pace in the second half, Rovers quickly monopolised play, and it was only a matter of time before their resourceful forwards penetrated the College defence. Gregg, at inside-left, was the outstanding player on the Rovers team, and he combined well with his centre-forward, Moore. O'Neill was a capable centre-half, and Carr and O'Brien reliable fulls. Little fault could be found with the College backs. Frawley kicked a good length, and the halves were a sound trio, in which Crowe stood out as a hard worker.

Shamrock Rovers—Brierly; Carr, O'Brien; Ferris, O'Neill, Mahony; Kinley, Couzer, Moore, Gregg, Graham.

University College—O'Hanlon; Frawley, Donovan; Kevans, McGahon, Crowe; Jas. O'Donnell, O'Malley, John O'Donnell, Finnigan, Donoghy.

A DRAWN GAME.

SHELBOURNE ...... 2 DRUMCONDRA 2

At Shelbourne Park last Saturday the scorers for Shelbourne were Reilly and Lacey and for Drumcondra Curham and Kane.

At the outset the teams appeared over-anxious, the football in consequence being disjointed and wild. Drumcondra were the first to settle down, and their forwards, well led by Kane and Curham, were seen to advantage. Lacey, in Shelbourne's defence, showed up prominently, and his was an excellent example to the more youthful players on his side. Mid-way in this half Shelbourne found their form, and Drumcondra's defence underwent severe pressure. Fox, in goal, lacked confidence, and some of his clearances were more lucky than skilful. However, he improved as time went on, and saved good shots from Reilly and Glavey. Drumcondra took the lead towards the interval, when Curham accepted a well-directed pass from the right wing to shoot swiftly past Burke, who had little chance to save. Early in the second half Shelbourne drew level from a deceptive cross shot by Reilly, and Lacey gave them the lead from a free far out, but Kane put the teams level again.

Shelbourne—Burke; Lacey, Treacy; Wilson, Shelton, Ryan; P. Thomas, Reilly, Duffy, Glavey, Finlay.

Drumcondra—Fox; Glenn, Byrne; Farrell, Gilroy, Kavanagh; White, Kellehan, Kane, Curham, Hand.

ROVERS WIN POOR GAME.

RICHMOND ROVERS 3 BRIDEVILLE......... 2

At Richmond road on Saturday. The scorers for Richmond Rovers were Curry, McDonald and Kavanagh, and for Brideville Blair and Murphy. There was little to choose between the teams. The home side were rather lucky to gather full points, and only good goal-keeping by Medcalf kept the Brideville forwards out when they were pressing strongly at the end. The form shown was not good, and both teams will need to improve. Apart from the goal-keepers, both of whom played a splendid game, the defence on either side was not convincing. The half-backs were wild in their placings, and the forwards suffered in consequence. While Rovers' five were more methodical, they missed many chances by bad finishing.

In Reid Brideville possess a left-winger of ability, and had the inside men been up to receive his centres a crop of goals would have resulted. Blair and Ratigan also impressed.

Richmond Rovers—Medcalf; Murray, Hanlon; Murphy, Curry, Kavanagh; Henly, Quinn, McDonald, Crawford, Espey.

Brideville—McCormack; Boggan, Ralph; Phelan, Farrell, W. Smith; Collins, O'Keeffe, Blair, Ratigan and Reid.

DOLPHIN'S USEFUL SIDE.

DOLPHIN .... 6 GLASNEVIN 1

Played at Ballymun road yesterday. The scorers for Dolphin were Hand (2), Beatty (2), Hill and Roberts, and for Glasnevin (Whelan).

Though deserving the points, Dolphin were not five goals the better team. Glasnevin had just as much of the exchanges, and had the front line made use of their chances Dolphin's score would have been appreciably lessened. Dolphin's team work was superior, and they showed evidence of careful training. They have a powerful defence and a nicely balanced middle line, who know how to serve their forwards, all of whom readily accepted their opportunities.

Glasnevin were unfortunate in having to call upon reserves, and this, on their first outing, upset matters for them. They started off well, and surprised their followers by obtaining the first goal of the match. The defence put up a stern resistance to the Dolphin five, who had to struggle hard for their scores. A feature of the game was the excellent work of Keyes, who showed marked ability throughout and cannot be blamed for the heavy reverse.

Dolphin—McCormack; Lennox, Doyle; Foley, Hampson, Kenny; Beatty, Roberts, Hand, Monks, Hill.

Glasnevin—Keyes; Mulhall, T. Griffin; Carolan, Kerr, Spragg; Newman, Cotter, McEvoy, Whelan, J. Griffin.

BOWLING.

FREE STATE LEAGUE GAMES.

Three games were played in the Free State League. Kenilworth, at Grosvenor square, easily disposed of Imperial Tobacco by 42 shots. Bestall was up 20 shots on Wilkinson, Doherty was 10 on Smith, and W. D. Marper finished 12 up on George Cooper. Wilkinson, in his game with Bestall, was seven up at the five ends, when his opponent had not scored. Bestall, as the game progressed, found his true form, and finished a good winner, as stated. Cooper was always behind in his game with Marper. In the game between Doherty and Smith the former, after the five ends, always shaped like a winner.

Clontarf had St. James's Gate as visitors; this was the latter's last League fixture. Clontarf won comfortably by 27 shots. Richardson was down 4 to Smyrl, Cullen finished 18 behind Boyd, and Tait was down 5 to Archer.

A very even game between Leinster and Railway Union ended in a victory for the former by 5 shots. This was Leinster's first victory on their new green. A very closely contested game between Morrow and Thompson ended in a draw of 21 all. Rowland disposed of Bridle by 3 shots. This also was a very close game right to the finish, and Wilson finished 8 shots in front of O'Connor.

In the Marper Cup, R. J. Marshall defeated R. H. Felton, and J. R. Felton defeated Angus Mackay.

MARPER CUP.

R. J. MARSHALL (BLACKROCK), 21; R. H. FELTON (KENILWORTH), 19.

Played at Blackrock. Felton led for most of the game. After twenty-one ends there was only one shot between them—19-18 in favour of Felton. In the last court end Marshall carried the jack to secure three shots and the match.

J. R. FELTON (BLACKROCK), 22; ANGUS MACKAY (BLACKROCK), 19.

Felton established an early lead, getting five shots in the first five ends, Mackay failing to score. The latter made a wonderful recovery, with the result that at the fifteen ends he had secured the lead—10-8. The game went to 31 ends before the required number of shots were scored, Mackay in the closing portion of the game was six shots in front. Felton put in a splendid finish, drawing the shot when his opponent lay two for game, and finished three in front to win one of the longest played games in the competition.

VISIT OF SHAFTESBURY B.C.

St. James's Gate, who have completed their Irish Free State fixtures, have arranged a friendly for Saturday next at Iveagh Park with the famous Shaftesbury Club (Belfast).

The latter hold a very prominent position in Northern bowling, while St. James's Gate are, without doubt, a wonderfully improved team.

CLAY PIGEON SHOOTING.

MAYNOOTH TOURNAMENT.

A clay pigeon shoot took place at Maynooth yesterday in brilliant sunshine. The heat of the sun was very trying during the early part of the day, and made good scoring very difficult owing to the gun barrels becoming almost unbearably hot at times. Still, some good shooting was witnessed. The most interesting contest from a "looker's on" point of view was that between T. Henshaw and Edward Wynne in the shoot-off for second place in the Silent Rise Championship of Ireland. Twenty guns competed, and M. G. A. Scully took first place with a score of 24. Seven guns tied for second place with a score of 22 each, and after first shoot-off T. Henshaw and Edward Wynne still tied for second place. In third shoot-off, which was decided on first miss out principle, T. Henshaw and E. Wynne went down the line, firing turn about. Wynne missed his twenty-third bird, and retired. Henshaw broke 25 and took second place.

In the challenge match of 12-bores v. 16-bores the 12-bores were the victors, the scores being—12-bore, 132 points; 16-bore, 126 points. Details:—

Challenge Match—12-bores v. 16-bores. 25 birds, kills to count. 12-bore team—J. R. Evans, 24; J. J. Pepper, 20; P. J. Frayne, 23; Edward Wynne, 23; J. M'Dermott, 21; C. Farrell, 21. Total—132. 16-bore team—Commandant Hannon, 24; Dr. Sheill, 17; T. Henshaw, 21; Dr. P. J. Keogh, 21; M. G. A. Scully, 20; N. Taylor, 23. Total—126.

Open Handicap, 10 birds, single rise, scoring 10 and 5—P. J. Frayne (18), 1st; M. Scully (5), 2nd; W. Colgan (25), 3rd.

Silent Rise Championship of Ireland, 25 birds, kills to count—M. G. A. Scully, 1st; T. Henshaw (22), 2nd; E. Wynne (22), 3rd.

Open Handicap, 10 birds, scoring 10 and 5—P. J. Frayne (18), 3rd; H. A. Clarke (10), P. J. Frayne (18), Commandant Hannon (5), T. Henshaw (18) each made a possible. Shoot-off—Henshaw, 1st; Hannon, 2nd; Frayne, 3rd; Clarke, 4th.

ATHLETICS.

THE LEINSTER TITLES.

MANY GO BY DEFAULT AT KILKENNY.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

Eleven Leinster Athletic Championships figured in the programme at St. James's Park, Kilkenny, yesterday. The entry for them was, however, disappointing, but the competition was more so, only thirty-four going to the start. Very few of the leading athletes in the province turned out, the bulk of the titles going by default, the only holders who defended being Guard Healy (discus), Guard Magan (quarter) and N. J. Donnelly (three miles cycle). As a matter of fact but for the cycling event the meeting would have fallen extremely flat, the presence of the wheelmen being the one redeeming feature.

The performances in the track and field events, although the conditions were in every way favourable, were all round only moderate and unworthy of comment, but we had some very good riding in the cycle races, in which N. J. Donnelly distinguished himself by retaining the three miles title and winning the half-mile championship and the five miles handicap. Results were:—

CHAMPIONSHIPS.

16lb. Shot—T. Healy (D.M.G.), 42ft. 11½ins., 1; W. Gore (D.M.G.), 36ft. 6½ins., 2; J. McSweeney (D.M.G.), 0.

Three Miles Tandem Pursuit (Scratch)—N. J. Donnelly and T. P. Walsh, 1; J. Sweeney and J. J. Bennett, 2. Time—7 mins. 16 secs.

GERMANY v. ENGLAND.

A GERMAN VICTORY.

Germany beat England in the first international athletic contest between the two countries at Stamford Bridge, London, on Saturday by eight events to four. The only events the visitors lost were the one mile relay, the 480 yards hurdles, and the four miles relay. There were one or two unfortunate incidents in a most exciting day's sport, and an accident was narrowly averted when one of the English discus throwers nearly struck Kochermann, the German long jumper, when his discus flew out of his hand. In the last race the spectators made no secret of their disapproval of H. Kornig's action in cutting across the path of A. W. Green, the Birchfield harrier, making the latter falter in his stride. The officials agreed that Kornig was at fault, but, in view of the fact that it was an international contest, they decided to take no action.

Results:—

ONE MILE RELAY.
(4 at 440 yards.)

England—Ian Borland (Achilles), G. T. Bird (Finchley H.), G. R. Dunckley (Belgrave H.) and J. A. T. Hanlon (Polytechnic), 1.

TIPPERARY SPORTS.

Brilliant weather favoured Tipperary Athletic and Cycling Sports yesterday, at which there was a big attendance of spectators from many parts of the South. There were large entries in all the competitions, and some exciting finishes in the cycling events. In the five miles cycle race D. Hughes (Harp A. and C. Club, Dublin) got a rather severe spill, as a result of which he was removed to hospital, said to be suffering from slight concussion.

GAELIC GAMES.

KILDARE QUALIFY FOR FINAL.

MONAGHAN'S ATTACK MASTERED.

(BY PAT'O.)

Kildare tall mid-field men and lithe, lanky, long-reaching backs, shooting their bodies and arms into the air, to grip the ball, tentacle-like, eleven feet high, were decisive factors in yesterday's game at Croke Park against Monaghan.

Before 18,000 spectators teams at full strength fielded at 3.30. Monaghan's supporters were very confident, and Ulster travelled by road and rail. Blue and white favours were prominent amongst the thousands who reached the centre of the city from noon on. They blended well with the all-white colours of the champions, and good-humoured streams of people found their way to Croke Park by many avenues. Mr. Sean Ryan, President of the G.A.A., had control of the organisation. Heavy duties of secretaryship lay on his shoulders since Mr. O'Toole's death, but arrangements worked smoothly, and everyone saw the match in comfort.

It was not a great match by any means. Monaghan played up bravely for twenty minutes, and were frequently in attack. Kildare's backs were tested repeatedly, and always came out of their difficulties with skill and determination. Monaghan's fast front line had many chances, but, when harrassed, they shot wildly, sending half-a-dozen balls wide in the first quarter. Then Kildare's hand-passing prevailed, and soon their accurate forwards proceeded to raise a succession of flags which gave them a lead of six points to one at half-way.

We expected a Monaghan recovery when Kildare faced the sun in the second half. The Ulster men again attacked with vigour, and Kildare's goal had many narrow escapes. O'Reilly and Goff were unbeatable, and Monaghan lost heart for a session. The game lost interest, for Kildare added to their long lead. When spectators were leaving Monaghan staged a final rally, and any other backs than Kildare's might have fallen before these desperate onslaughts. The champions kept their net untouched to the end of an hour, when Monaghan gave a rather disappointing, spasmodic display against a well-balanced, collected team of experienced and polished footballers, who now meet their old rivals from Kerry in the All-Ireland final on September 22nd.

THE PLAY.

The ball was thrown in by Dean McKeown, of Carrickmacross. Kildare faced the railway wall. Loughlin and Martin passed and repassed, but Farrell cleared well. The return reached P. Loughlin, who shot without hesitation for a point, opening Kildare's score in 1¼ minutes. Carroll sent Monaghan forward. McAleer, Fisher and the Duffy pair shared in a promising movement, which ended a few inches outside the upright. Monaghan, per Lambe, Kilroy and Mason, forced the pace, and from a good position P. J. Duffy again shaved the posts. This was hard luck on the challengers; for from the kick-out Martin, fielding well, drove a ball to the square, which Wheeler tapped above the cross-bar for Kildare's second minor. Monaghan's wings were now moving fast, and they poured a rain of balls into their front line. They made indifferent use of them; for whilst Monaghan's list of overs grew they failed to find the posts. Kildare used their openings better. From Gannon's drive, Wheeler shot a fast-rising ball, which Bradley was glad to tip over the barrier to save his net. Once more Kildare worked their hand-passing in a puzzling maze; Doyle, Curtis, and the McLoughlin pair handled and re-handled, weaving their way in for Pringle to shoot Kildare's fourth point. The Ulster champions were not discouraged. Their groundwork was good, and Kilroy fed Fisher, who drove a grand ball in. O'Reilly was all but beaten when Goff came to his rescue and cleared. Kildare's defence was superb. Hayes, Higgins, Malone and Fitzpatrick handled the Monaghan assaults with fine precision. O'Reilly punched a great "fifty" of Lambe's clear, but McAleer was lying handy, and an accurate screw-kick brought Monaghan's welcome score. Then Doyle balanced from an accurate free. Near the half-way O'Reilly's goal had two hair-breadth escapes, and Monaghan deserved a goal at least at this stage.

Kildare—6 points.
Monaghan—1 point.

Loughlin brothers and P. Martin were the heroes of the second half. They played the ball with fine understanding. They outshone Monaghan's midfield, and Martin and Wheeler, with rapid close-range drives, sent Kildare further in front. Monaghan lost heart for a period. Fouls were frequent. Football deteriorated, and the Ulster team lost their collected form. Martin, playing one of the best games of his career, shot Kildare's ninth point, and the game seemed over. Following many stoppages for injuries, when four substitutes had to be found, Monaghan found a new lease of life. Carroll, Kilroy, Lambe and Duffy set up a series of determined attacks on the Railway goal, which Kildare were now defending. We watched the most exciting passages of the hour. Kildare's goal was assailed relentlessly, but the Curragh backs once more "rose" to the occasion in every sense of the word. O'Reilly, Fitzpatrick, Goff and Hayes refused to give way, and though one must write a word of admiration for Monaghan's game finish, Kildare's backs remained masters of the situation to the end. Final score:—

Kildare—9 points.
Monaghan—1 point.

MOTOR BOAT RACING.

MANY MISHAPS AT COLERAINE.

The International Hundred Mile Handicap Outboard Hydroplane Race at Coleraine on Saturday was won by J. Delaney (Longford), on "Hold Everything." He was the only finisher out of thirteen starters, and his average speed was 22.31 miles per hour, compared with C. Harrison's (London) average winning speed of 29.51 miles per hour last year. The race was a chapter of accidents, Delaney being the only competitor who had not an involuntary stop. The only other competitor still going when he finished was W. Weir, on "Lileto." He had only completed twenty-one of the thirty laps, and was flagged off, as he had no chance of finishing within the stipulated half-hour of the winner. "Roselle," driven by P. B. Webb, of Randlestown, looked a winner until the twenty-first lap, when she capsized in the rough water downstream, which claimed so many victims. Webb's average speed to that point was over thirty miles per hour. "Slug," driven by D. Miller, another member of the Ulster Club, had also hard luck, succumbing to engine trouble on the twenty-third lap, when leading from Delaney by two laps. C. Harrison (London), last year's winner, dropped out with engine trouble on the thirteenth lap. Phillip Turner, the well-known Brooklands driver, made the fastest lap, on "Tobasco," registering 41.81 miles per hour, which is subject to the course being re-surveyed, a British record.
